Hi
Glad people can still have fun to...
See ya
around School
Luv Cindy

Jerry,
I'm really glad
I've gotten to know
you since study hall.
Just think, a year ago
I didn't even know
you! I hope you & me
always stay good buddies.
O.K. Remember I owe you
2 smackers! Love,

Terry-
well prince charming - i don't really know if i should write this in your yearbook or not but i'm going to --- the worst it can do is wreck our relationship as friends - & that relationship isn't too strong anyhow so... here goes -
When i first met you i didn't think much of you - mostly because i didn't know you really - i just heard of things you did or say - & i thought you weren't much of a person & always trying to act like a hard guy or something - lately, just since this summer my opinion has changed quite a bit. i don't know if it's because i got to know you better or if it's because of this one girl's opinion of you - i really respect her opinion & i know that you can't be all bad - just kidding - seriously Ter - since then you still act like a hard guy but now i know, that's just you. i'd like to get to know you better (if you aren't mad at me for writing this) - you're a really cool guy & very popular w the girls especially stay that way -
love
Kathy

& i hope you understand how i meant all this?

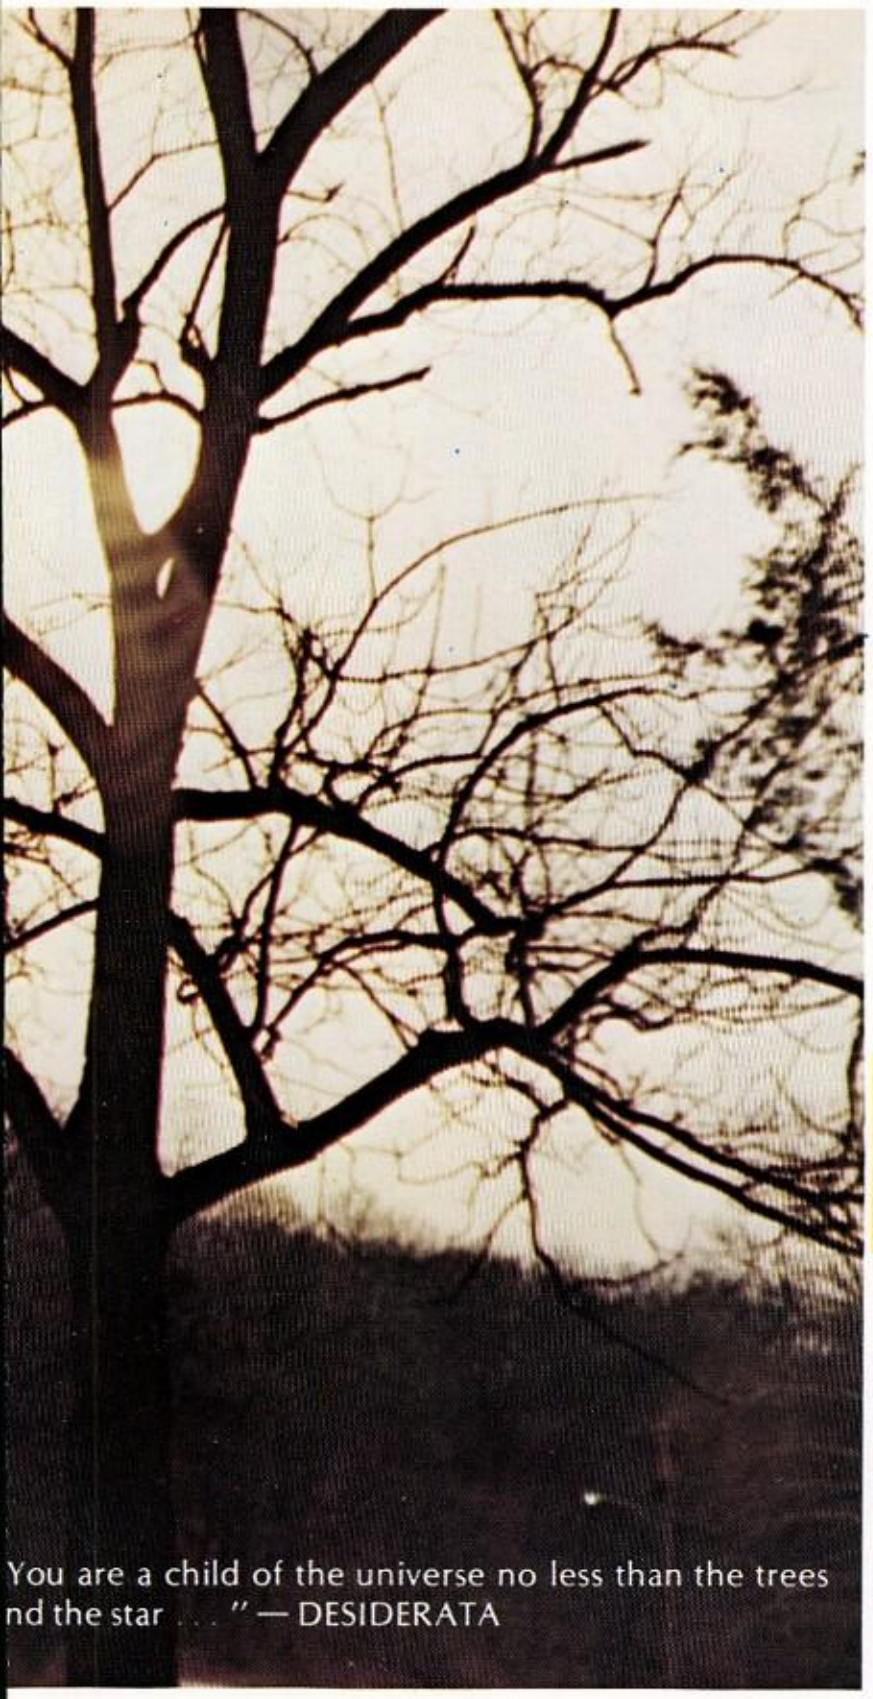
"So long as I can see I will keep looking. So long as I can walk I will keep moving. So long as I can stand I will keep fighting." — Walter De La Mare



You are a child of the universe no less than the trees

We're On the Loose . . .

Independence is the very heart of freedom. Freedom holds the same feeling for all — it feels good. Freedom is much more than a charity or philanthropy. It stretches beyond man's humanity to man in a reverent value. Freedom, more realistically, truly is, righteousness and justice. So uniquely created, freedom has become so much more than a violently oppressive absence — more than freedom from something; it has developed into freedom to — the freedom to be someone — to have a desired dream — to use the knowledge and hope that is alive on this earth. Together with the freedoms which have been granted unto us, man may someday be able to live as one in harmony, however diverse or contradictory his opinions may be. Although a sense of harmony and peace may arise, freedom will always be an unremitting endeavor — an endeavor never to become a final achievement. No lasting peace will ever come about until every nation has come to realize and accept our democratic principles, contributing something to the civilization of mankind for which we are all striving. Nevertheless, the day cannot be too far off when all people will be members in the family of man, equal in rights, sovereign and free. Yes, for we're on the loose . . . free to make choices . . . to live independently . . . to strive for a goal in life . . . to be. Independence has been granted on countless levels to people in every corner of the world. When living it is finally achieved, it will be then that we have realized the responsibility that we carry in this generation.

INDEPENDENCE

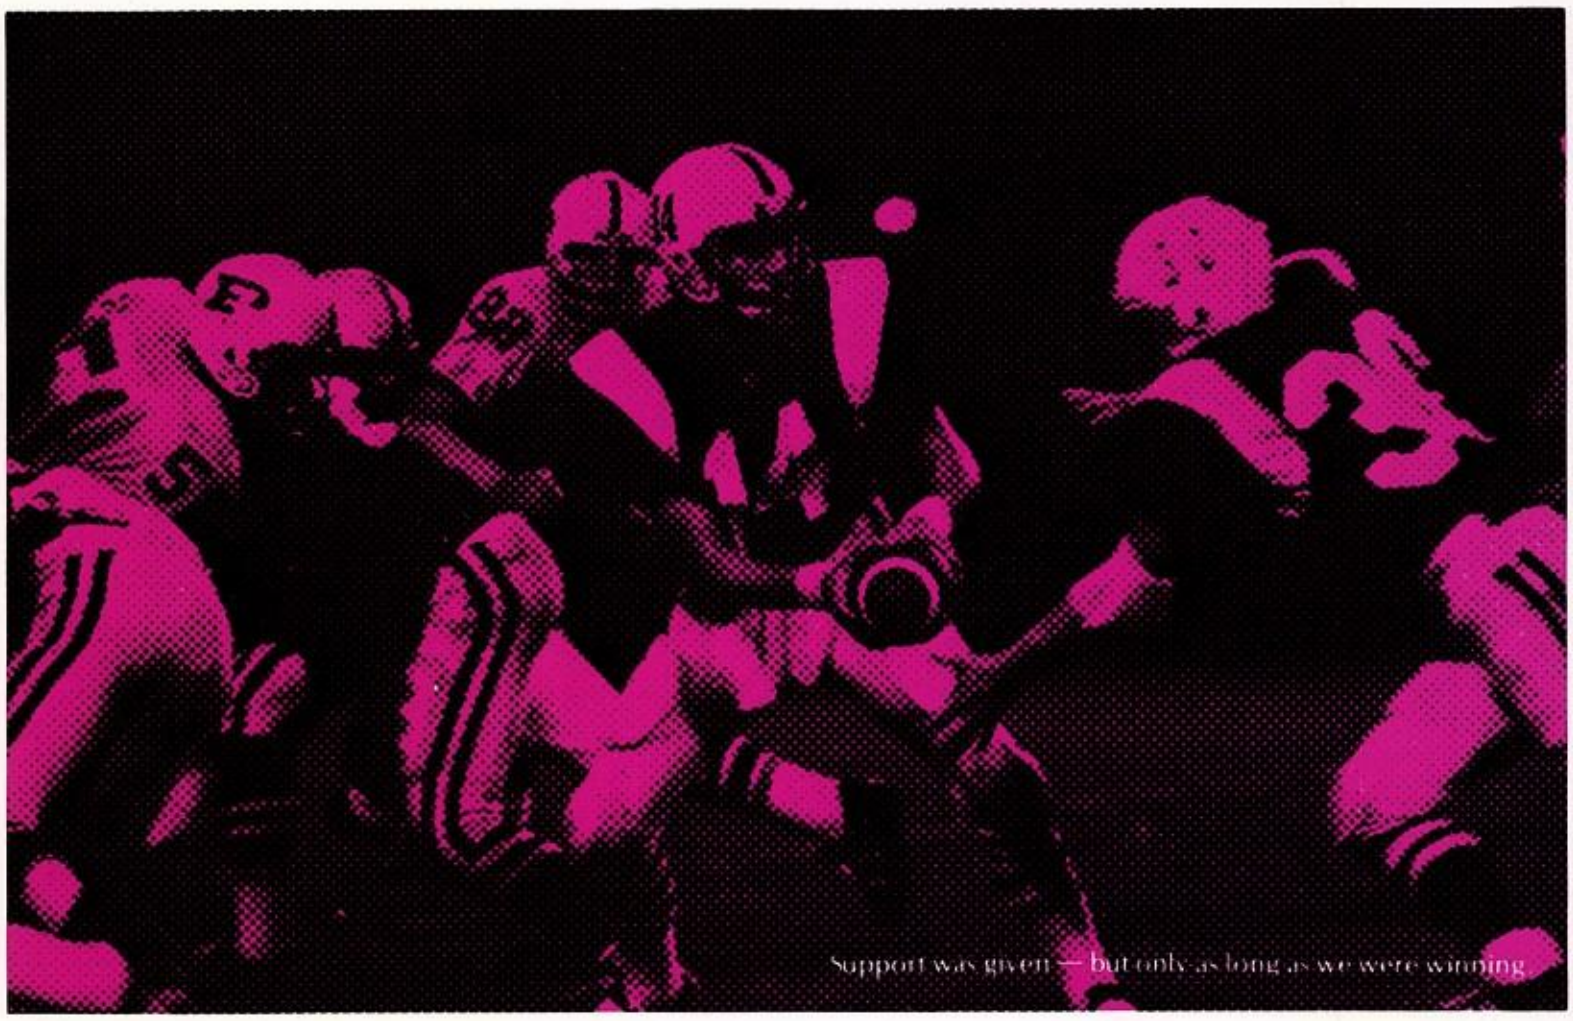
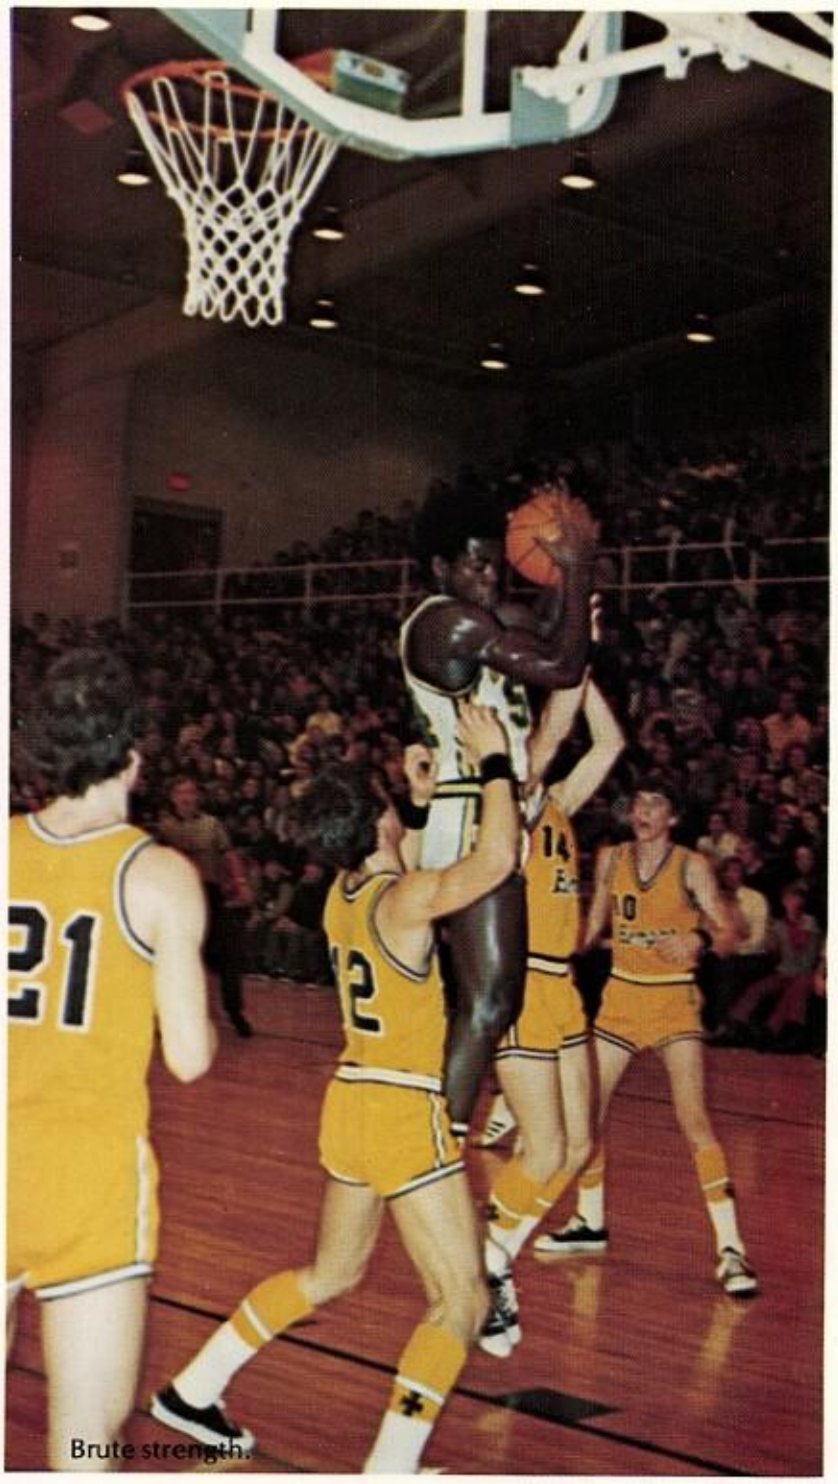
We're On the Loose . . .

If they won, very few people congratulated them; but failure to a victory constituted the question, "Why not"? Such was football '73. Support was given — only as long as we were winning. But spirit — spirit of mind has changed all that. We are on the loose to show support for our athletic programs. Already this year, for the first time ever, girls' athletics were introduced. A new pep club was organized, proving most successful. Unity within the school came about as a result of our "great" basketball and swimming teams. We must stay on the loose and support the others — cross-country, wrestling, track, and baseball. We must strive to make Richwoods "number one" in the hands of glory and victory, and at the hands of defeat.

Reflections of



Support was given — but only as long as we were winning



Brute strength.

SPIRIT

INVOLVEMENT

Clubs. Sports. Spreads. Cliques. A definite asset to Richwoods High school is its wide variety found in modes of involvement. Physical involvement can be achieved in many different ways, from the intense bodily strain sustained by our athletic teams, to the constant up-down-up-down leg pounding of a Royalette practice. A total concentration is required of students in our musical activities — the sore mouths from those scales on the clarinets and flutes! Time is put away by a number of students for spiritual involvement; church, synagogue, youth groups, Young Life — all hold an intricate part in the lives of over-active kids. Involvement with friends is something placed above all else by some students.

But is it all worth it? Is it worth an editor's time to kill himself with exhaustion the long night before a deadline? Twisting yourself around another body on a mat on the gym floor is no fun when only a few loyal fans come to wrestling meets. Involvement can be associated wth sweat, tears, close friendship, and intense dislike, but the key word that makes the trouble worth it is FULFILLMENT. That sense of achievment, that pride in saying, "I was part of it!" can easily swell into a joyful fulfillment. There are sorrows, but there are equal joys. We're free, we're on the loose to decide whether the pain of involvement is worth the everlasting memories.

Senior Pete Marlin seems to enjoy his duties as the bartender for "Casino Royale."

Editing The Shield requires full-time involvement.

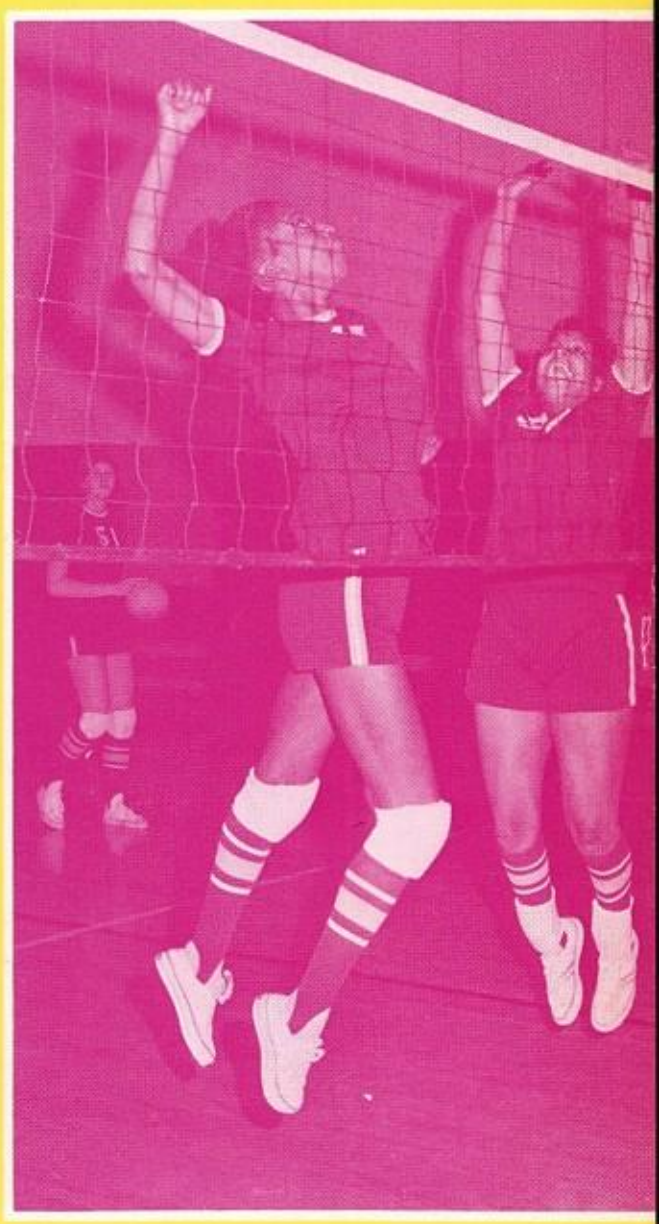
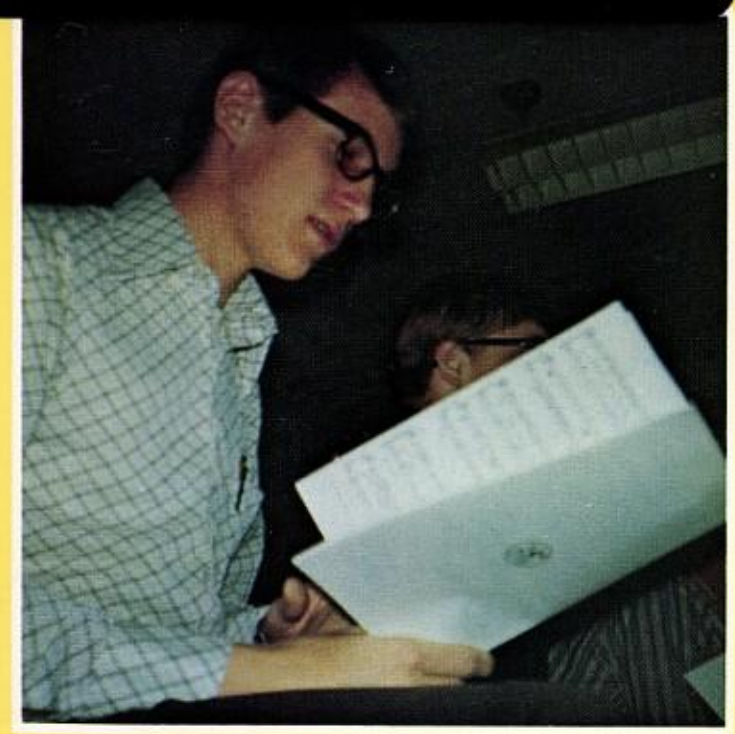
Anne Johnson forfeits the excitement of a basketball game to sell concessions.

Involvement in girls' athletics brought enjoyment to many.



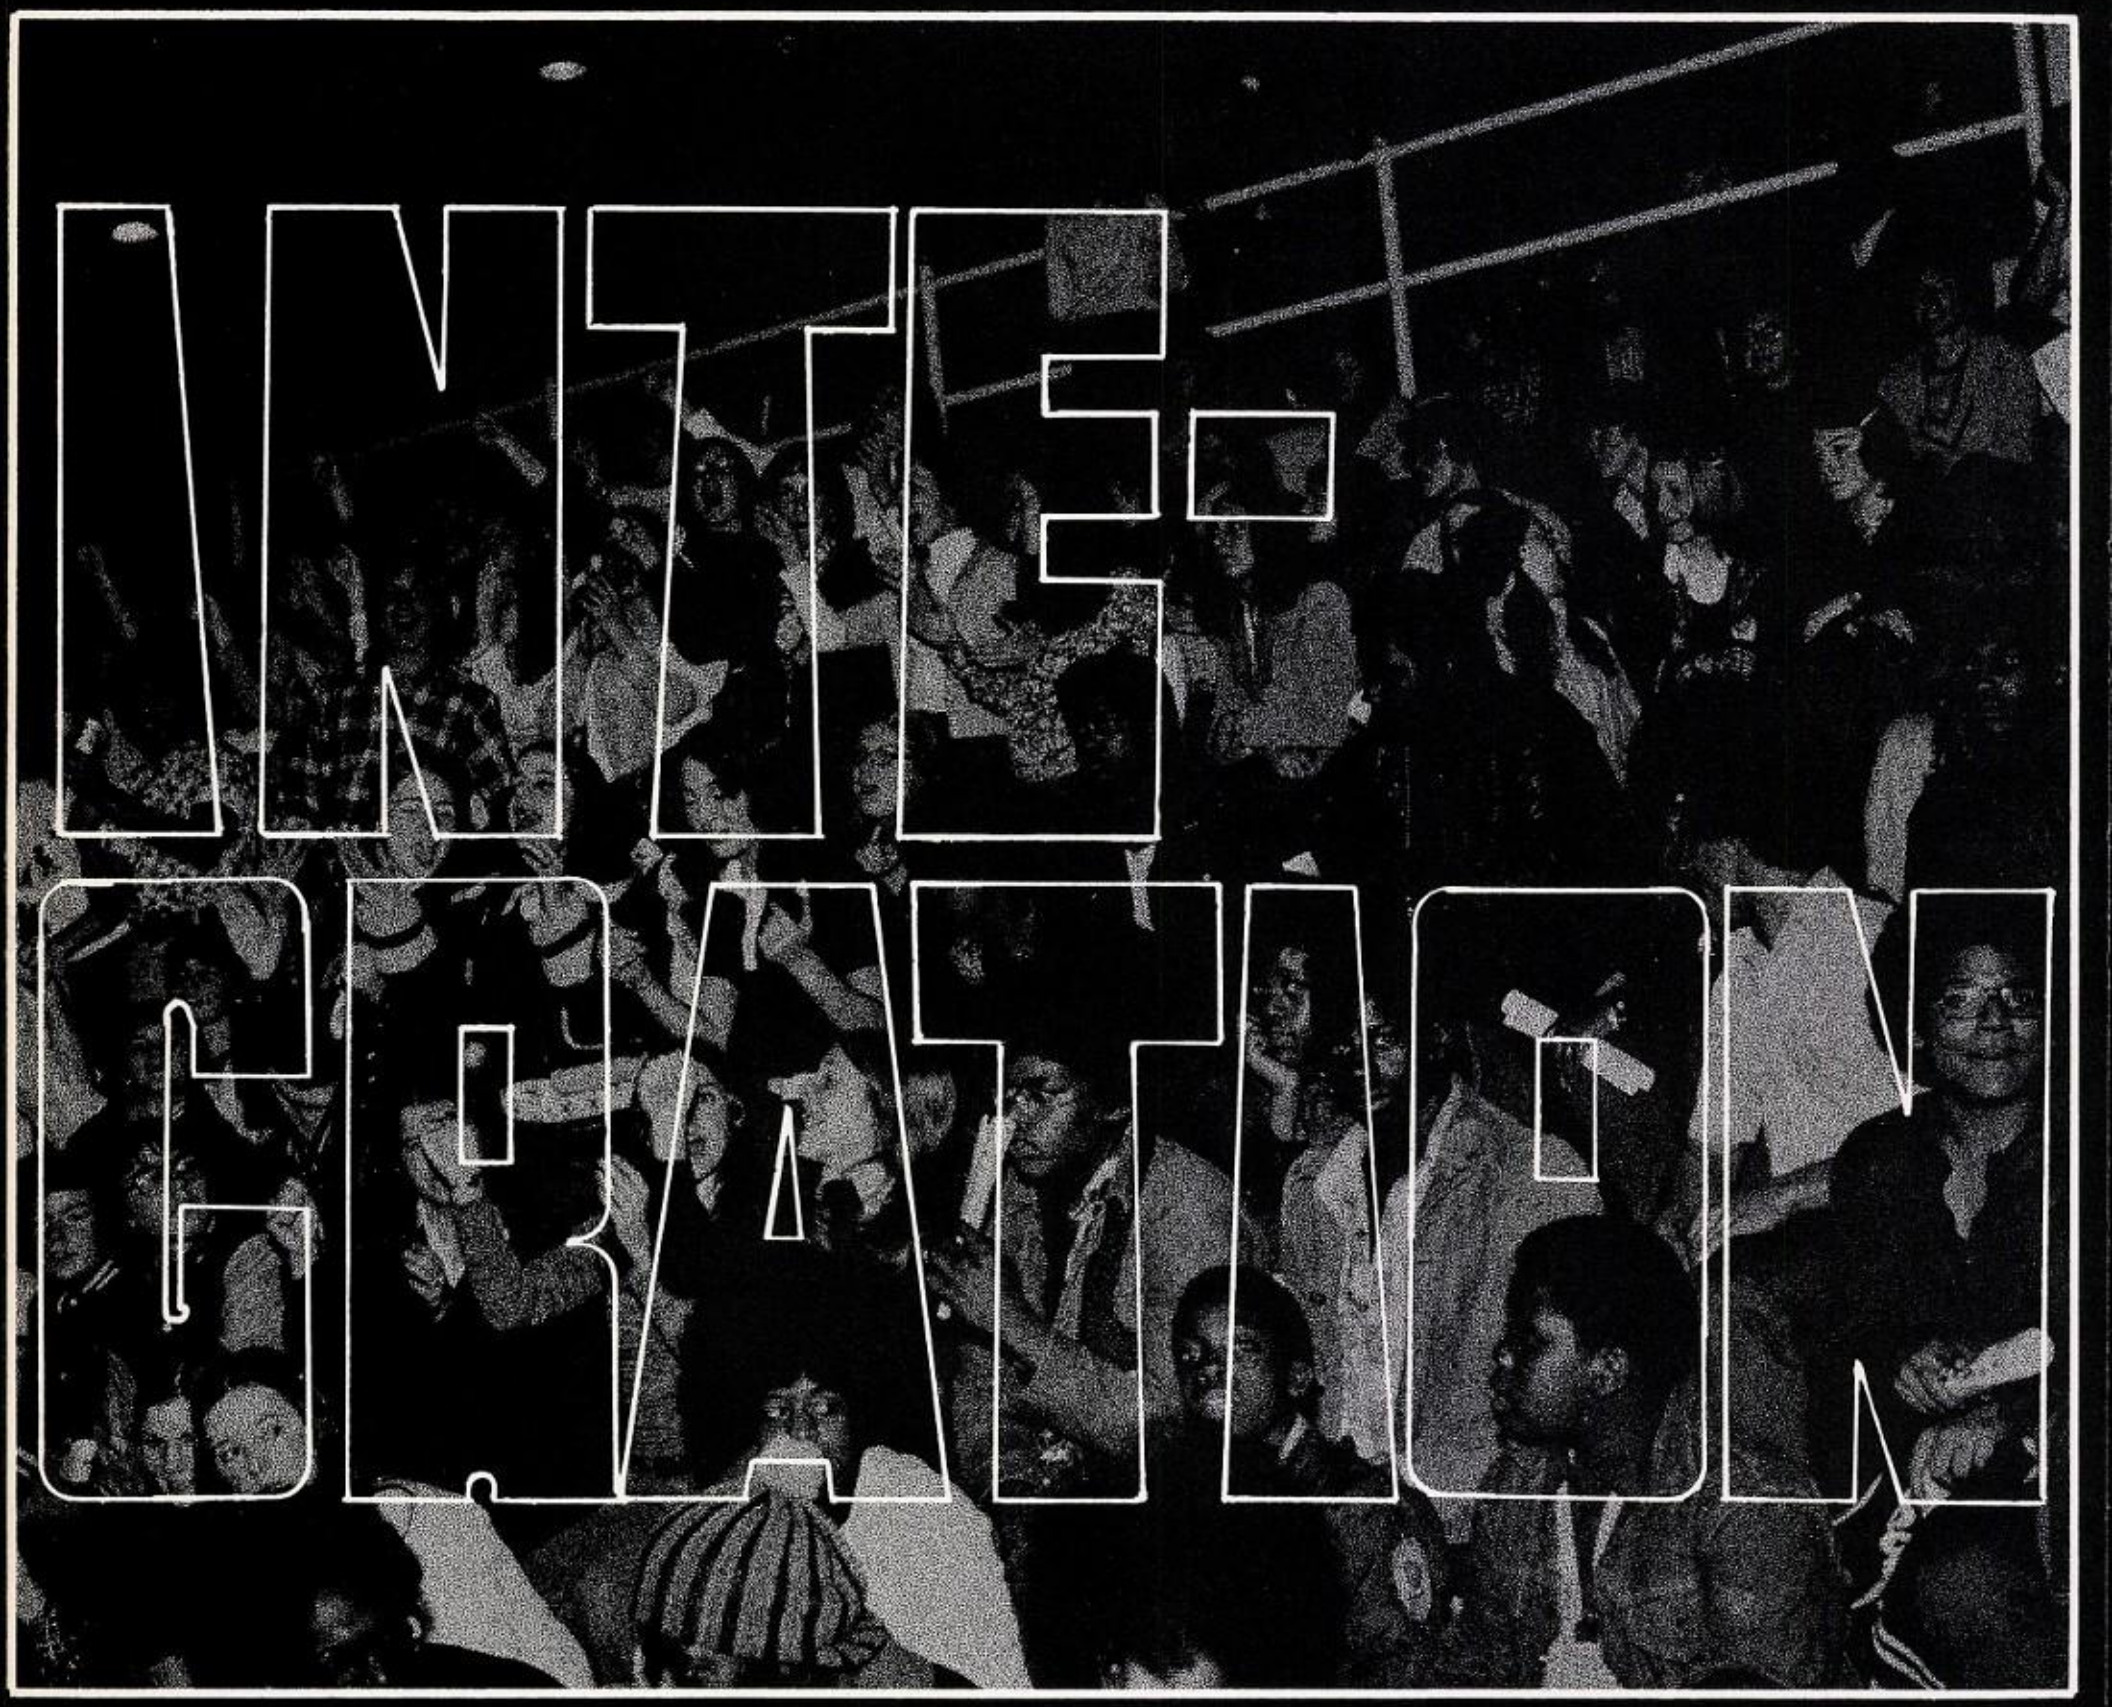
. . . We're On the Loose . . .



Jack Hoerr expresses himself through his music.

"... when you take it out you'll have to put it away sooner or later!"

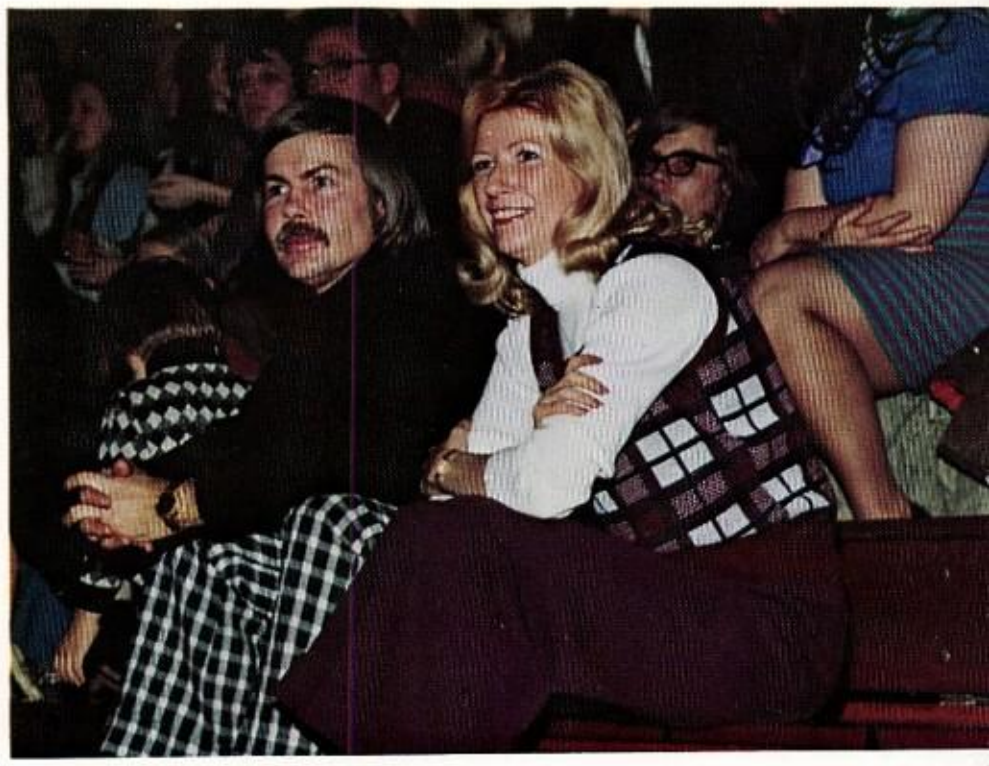
UNITED NATION



Some say there's no prejudice at RHS; we are all one big happy family. But in other eyes, if you are not lily white or coal black, you are an alien — you're not "one of us." Although the opinions on this matter are as diversified as our student body itself, one thing can definitely be concluded about our racial situation: We are an integrated student body. Whether or not it has brought us together is another question in itself . . .

. . . Hey, but isn't that what the word means? Integration = Togetherness, right? A number of spiritually and racially different students have achieved a peaceful existence in this "melting pot" of a high school; yet this situation for others has only nurtured an already planted seed of hatred. Despite the mixed feelings surrounding an answer to the question, "for an integrated school, are we really together?", one thing can be stated without opposition. We're a student body that's on the loose. We're free to choose our own friends, with no bonds to race or religion. It's this freedom which allows us to mold Richwoods into the school that it is.

. . . We're on the loose . . .



Black, white, tall, short, old, young — no matter what type, RHS means PEOPLE. Man of all shapes and colors makes our school what it is. Naturally, there are certain people who stand out from the rest — students who make themselves known through diligent work toward school-centered projects. Members of the administration are people well recognized in our halls; the security guards are faces at RHS that are often avoided at all costs, but are still an intricate part of our existence here. Through the first weeks of classes, foreign exchange students were easily singled out from the mass at RHS as being different, however they soon learned to become part of the massive machine which operates RHS — people make things happen here! Every face in a crowded hall constitutes an individual, a person totally different from anyone else, not only in appearance, but he is unique in thought, in feeling — he is himself and no one else. The great multitude of people at RHS comprise the working parts of our Green Machine. We're people varied and free; we're on the loose to make each minute of our lives count.

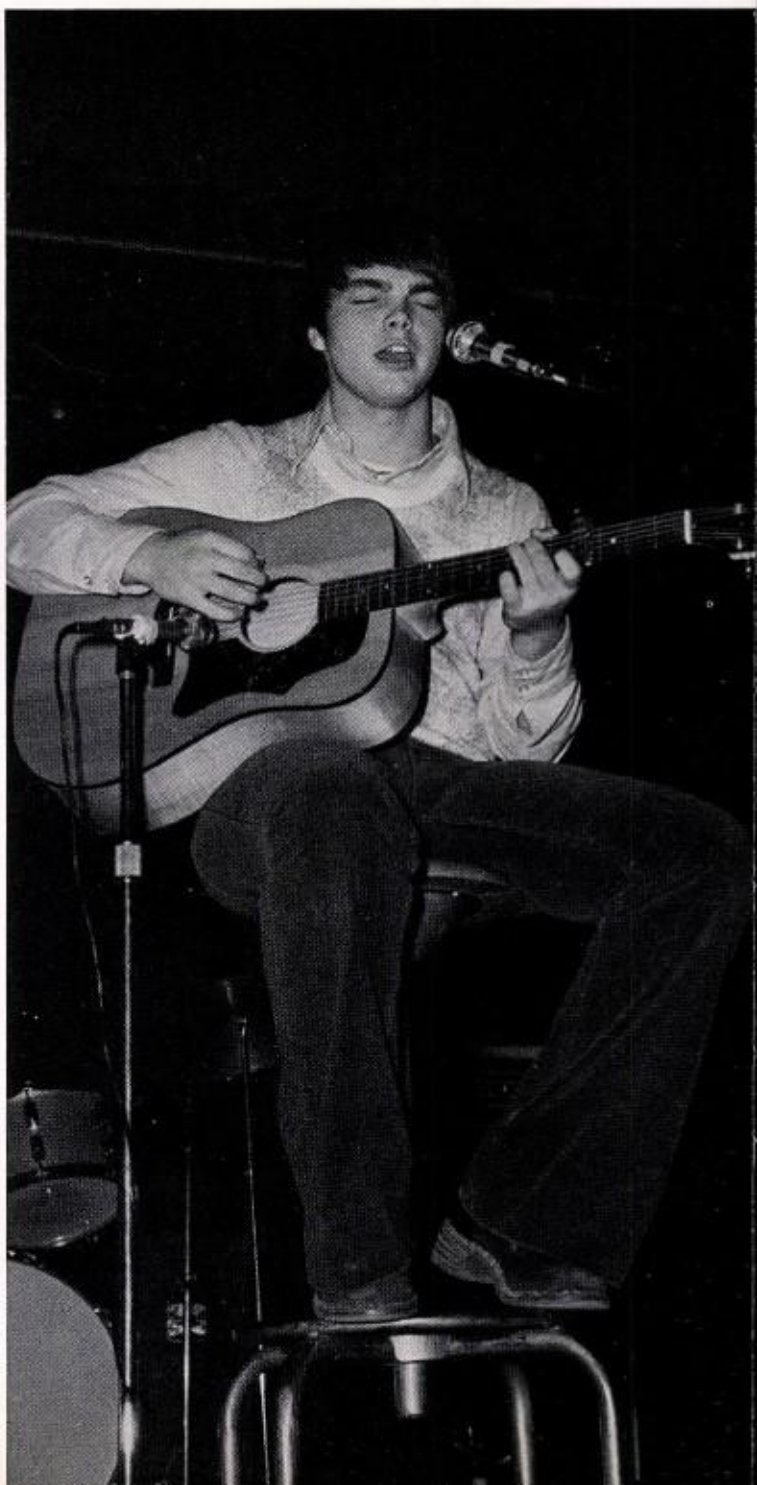
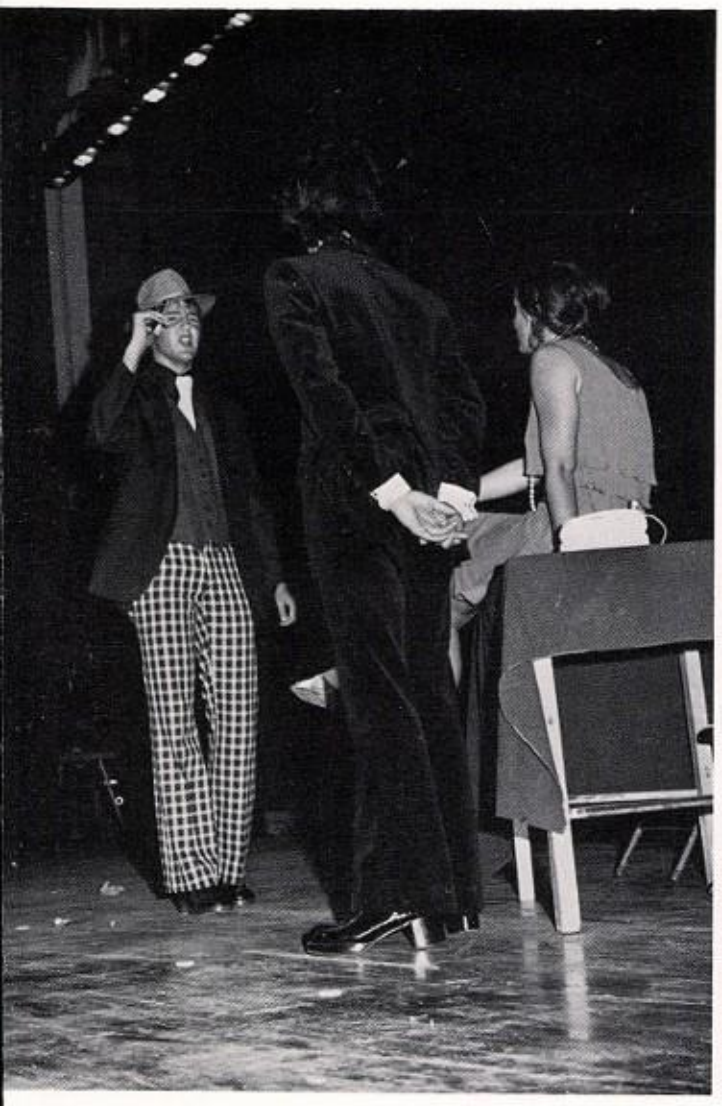
"Casino Royale" was enjoyed by all who attended.

The cast of "The Boyfriend" enjoyed bringing the "charleston" to the Richwoods stage.



Jim Hughbanks was one of the many students who performed in the Folk-Rock assembly.



These juniors showed spirit by participating in their Homecoming stunt show.

Part-time work proves profitable for Laura Alberti.

Dr. Ross proves his popularity with RHS girls!

Homecoming '73, "The Boyfriend," 'Twas Three Knights Before Christmas; a multitude of assemblies, dances, and just all around fun events were offered by RHS to enlighten our lives as students. Jobs, parties, and out-of-school organizations also played leading roles in the lives of many. The school year 1973-74 saw a severe energy crisis, serious inflation, and countless cutbacks of funds, not only at RHS, but also nationally. But in spite of all the political troubles, most students managed to enjoy themselves. We were on the loose — out to make this year one to remember.

STUDENT LIFE

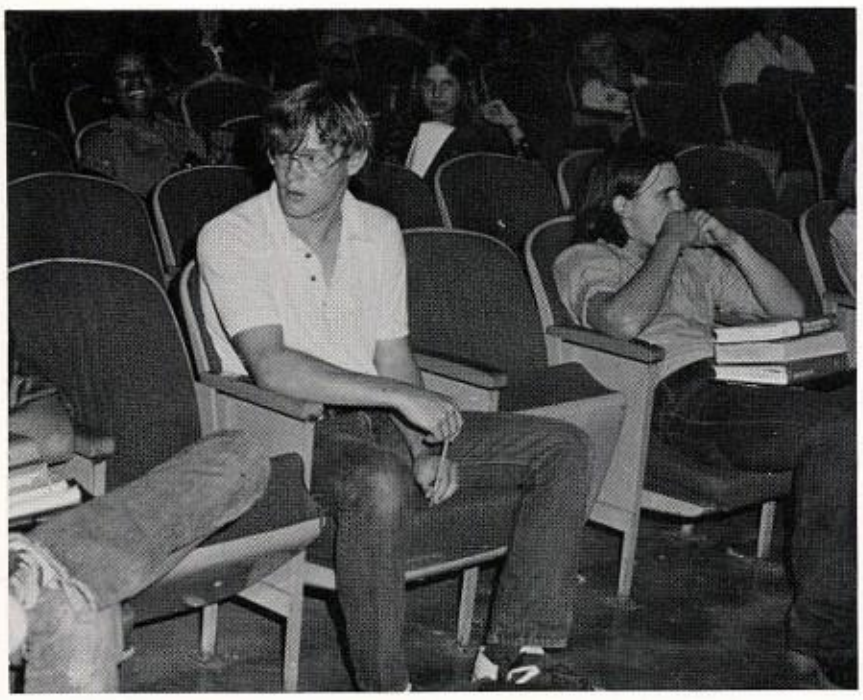
STUDENT LIFE

Summertime Fun . . .

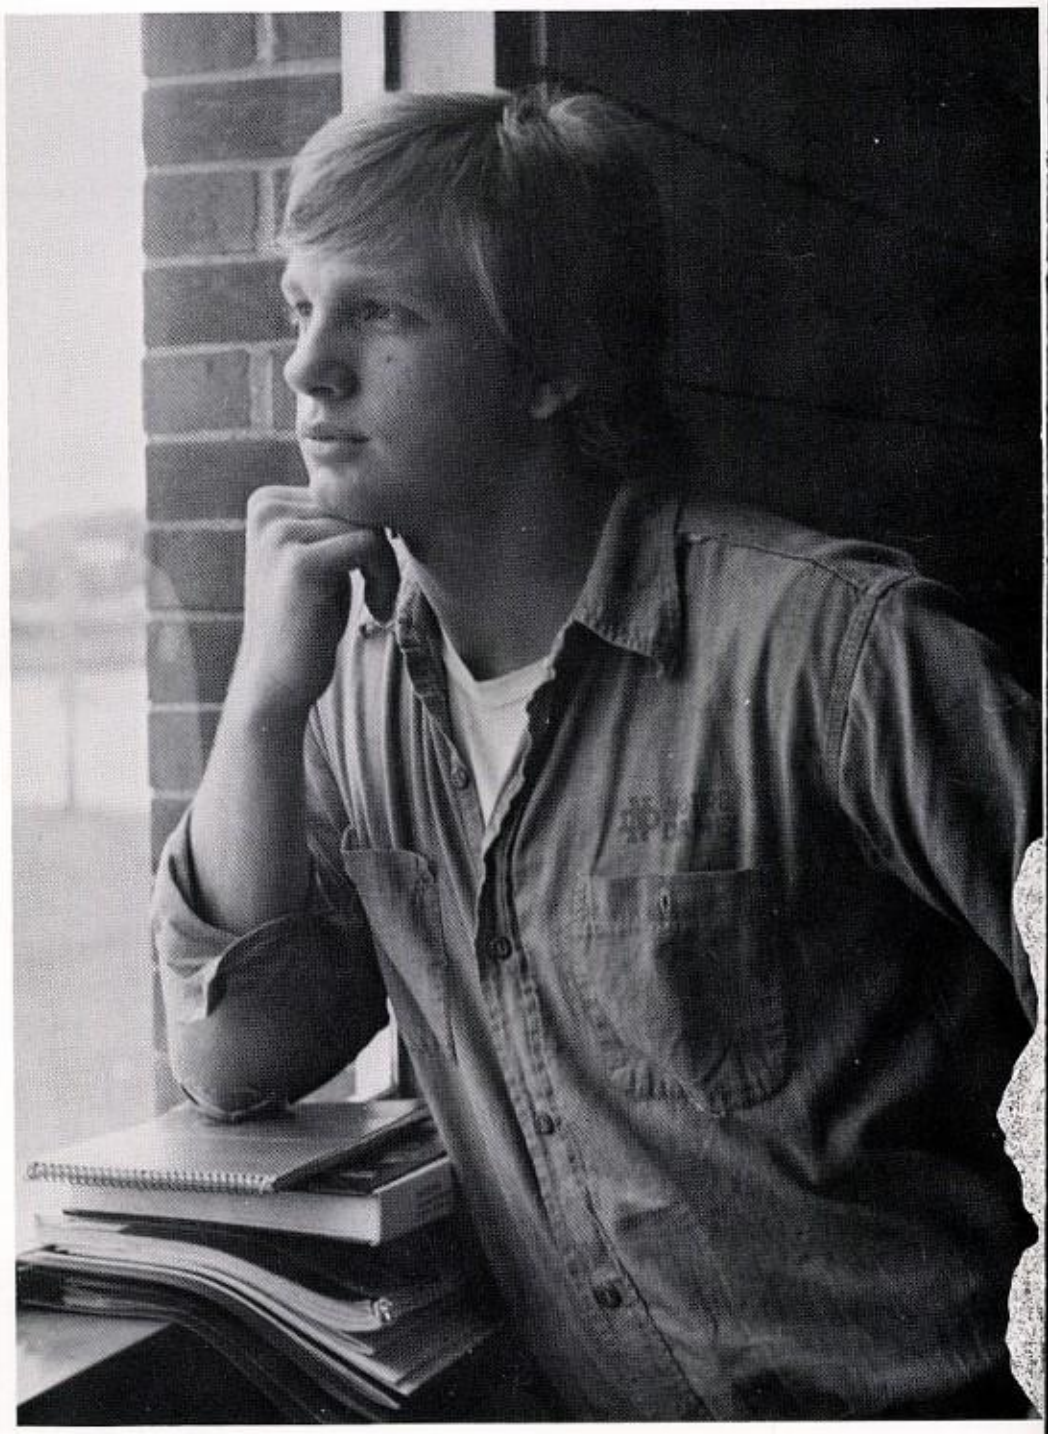
Summer of '73. It was a good one in some respects, a bad one in others. Fun in the sun sometimes became a headache, with overcrowded pools and long lines of people waiting for tennis courts. An unprecedented low number of people enjoyed the excitement of the fair this year, after a horrifying helicopter crash on opening day. Bicycling proved itself an immensely popular pastime for those who weren't busy with summer jobs.

Many students found the hours of endless recreation that they lacked during the school year; others found new friendships. Primarily, summertime brought a rest to RHS kids, who direly needed a breather.

Brings An Unhappy Transition . . .

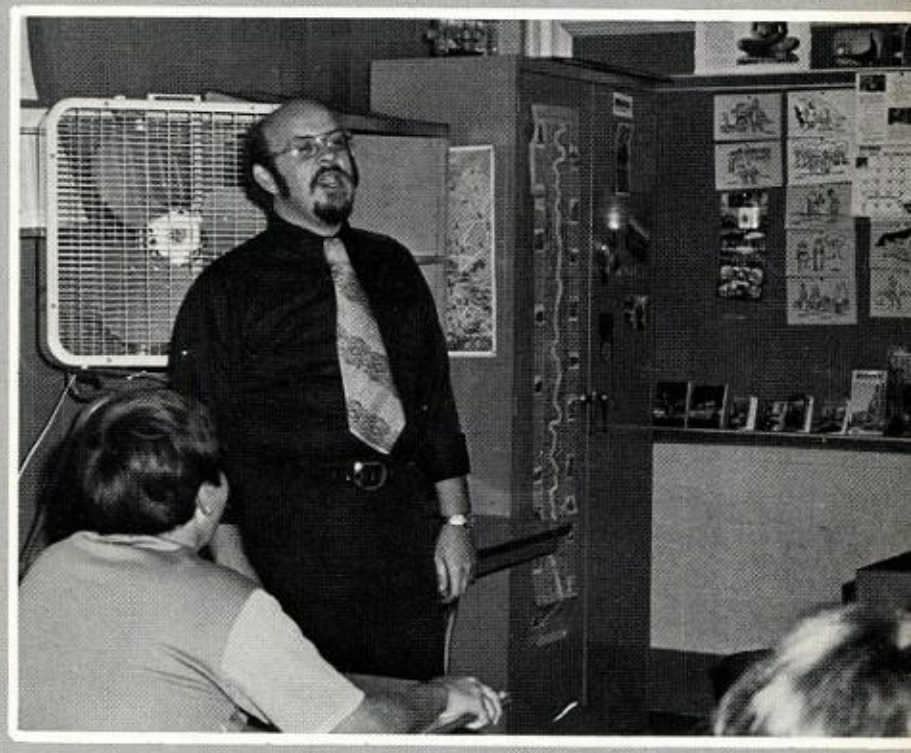


Grounded study halls breed boredom.



Hot weather fills Mark Buchanan with a "get me out" feeling.

Calls for schedule changes left Mrs. Harvey not a moment to spare.



"Alright Mr. D.; let us have some air too!"

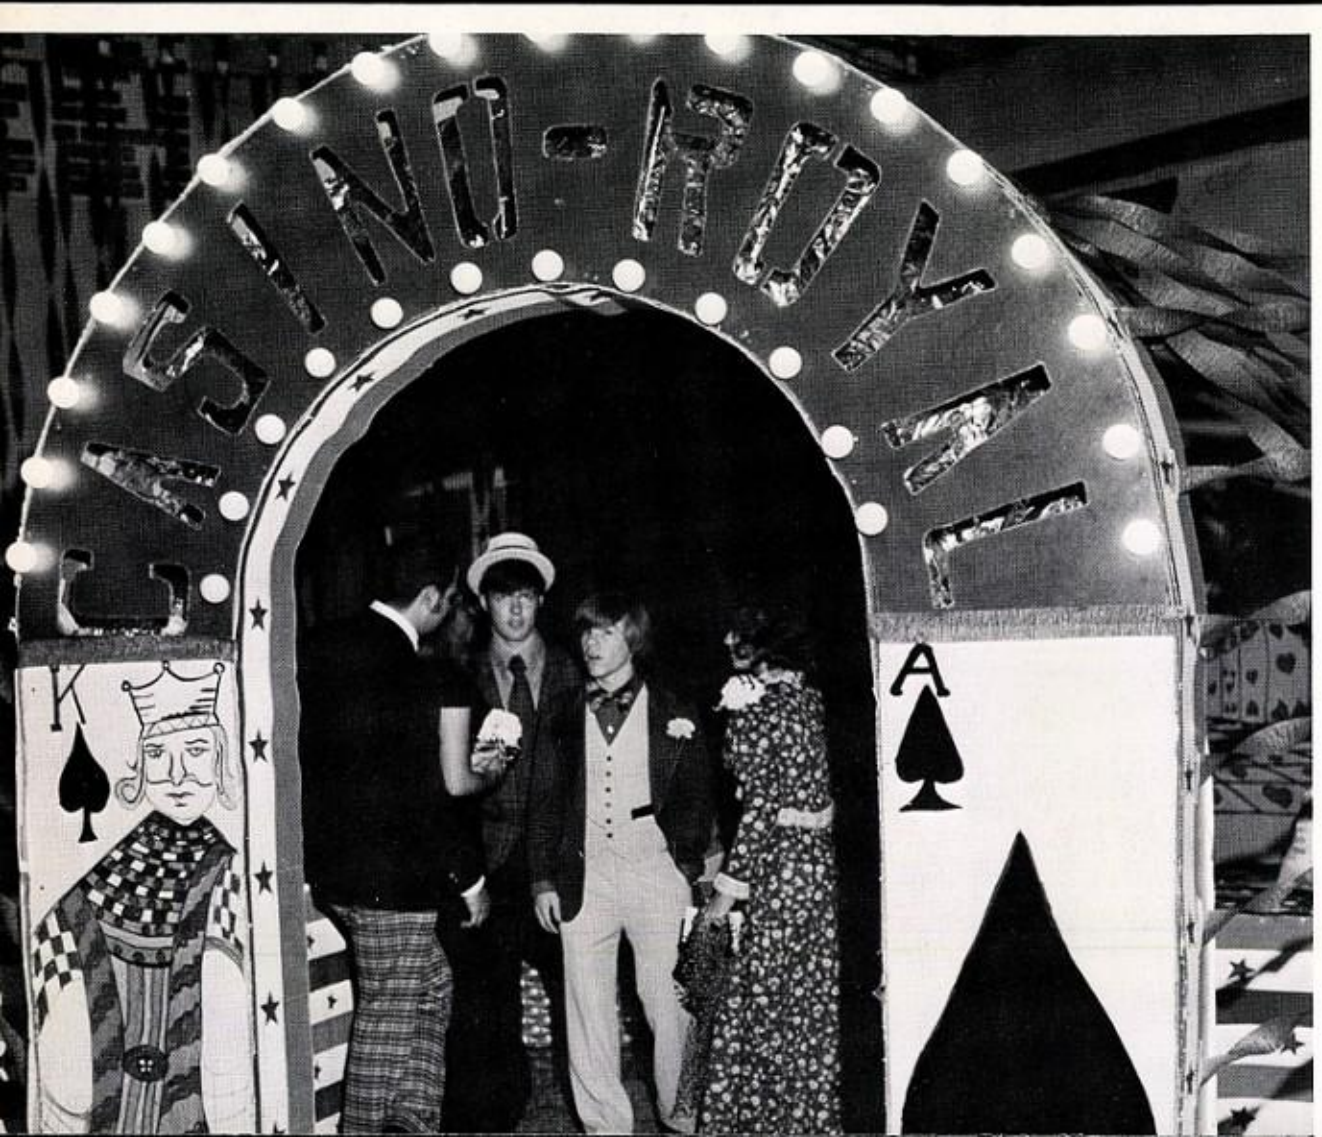
A cool breeze in the courtyard can bring a welcome rest from a mugg classroom.

Wednesday, August 29. Temperatures soared into the upper nineties. While driving into the parking lot for the first time of the 1973-74 school year, upperclassmen were torn by a feeling of utter shock. Catching the inevitable glimpse of the troop of striking teachers and beholding a freshly black-topped lot, seniors, juniors, and sophomores started looking forward to another vintage year. Incoming freshmen and new students experienced the hassle of their first Richwoods registration. This atmosphere of mixed feelings continued to haunt our halls through the first few weeks, weeks filled with schedule changes, rumbling fans, humid weather, lost freshmen, confusion, and a longing for vacation again!

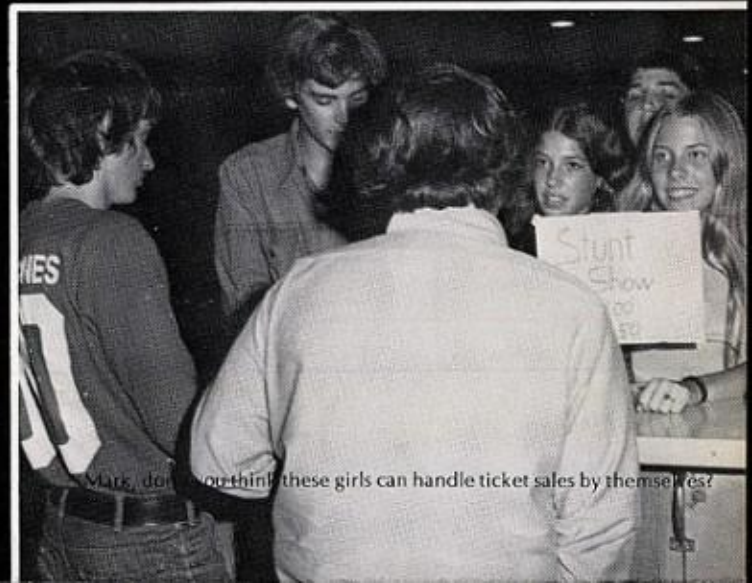
. . . Into School Life

Homecoming Happens!

Casino Royale really hit the jackpot with its numerous and varied activities throughout Homecoming week. The junior girls defeated the senior girls in the annual Junior-Senior Girls' football title. Thursday, P.T.S. sponsored the chili supper and later the same evening, the seniors won the stunt show. The sophomores were full of spirit as they won the spirit stick at the pep assembly held on Friday afternoon. The spirit of Homecoming was not dampened by either the pouring rain or our loss to Bergan in Friday night's game. The week's activities came to a climax at the Homecoming dance, held Saturday night, where couples boogied to music by "Birth."



Casino Royale



Mary, don't you think these girls can handle ticket sales by themselves?

The lights and excitement of Casino Royale made the evening a great success.

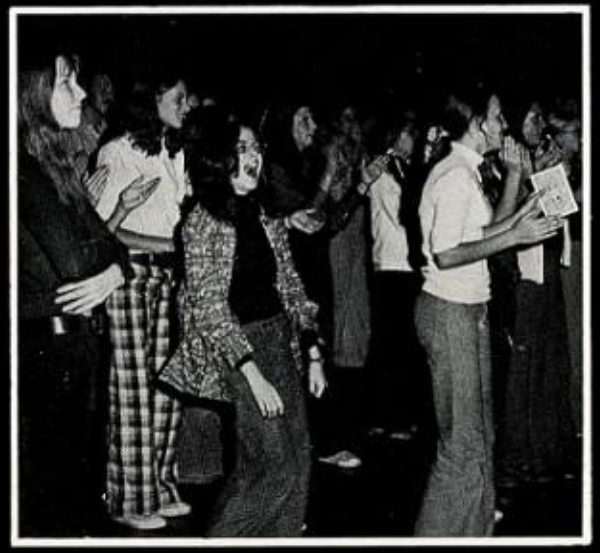
The actual varsity game was not quite as dramatic as the one portrayed in the sophomore class skit!



Even those not in a stunt show had a good time.

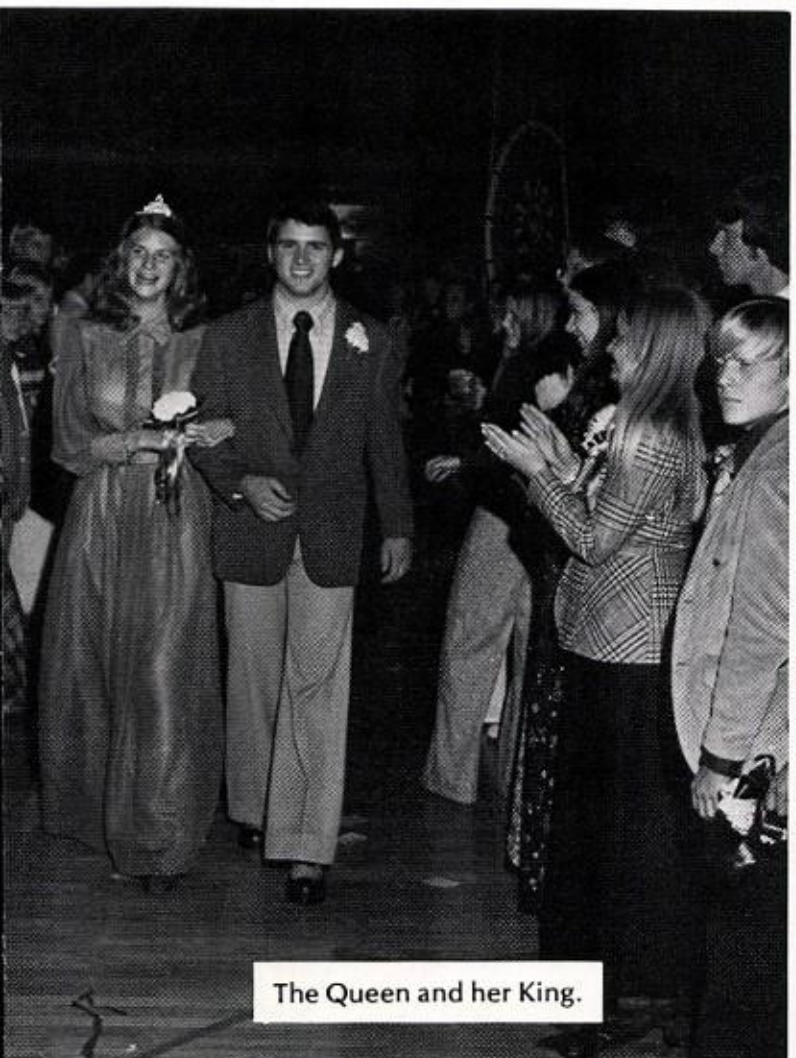
Beth Shines . . .



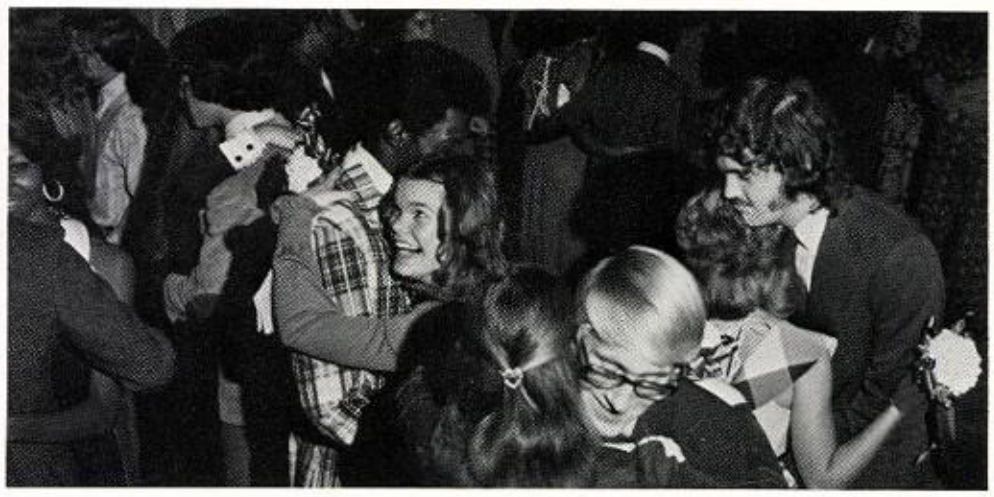
The Queen and her King.

Tall and slender, with an enormous smile and an equally large heart — that's Beth Garrott, our 1973 Homecoming Queen. The miserable wetness of her crowning served only to further radiate this excited senior, who symbolized all the joy, the excitement that Homecoming brings.

Beth returns to the dry from the exciting wetness of the Homecoming game.

A night to remember.

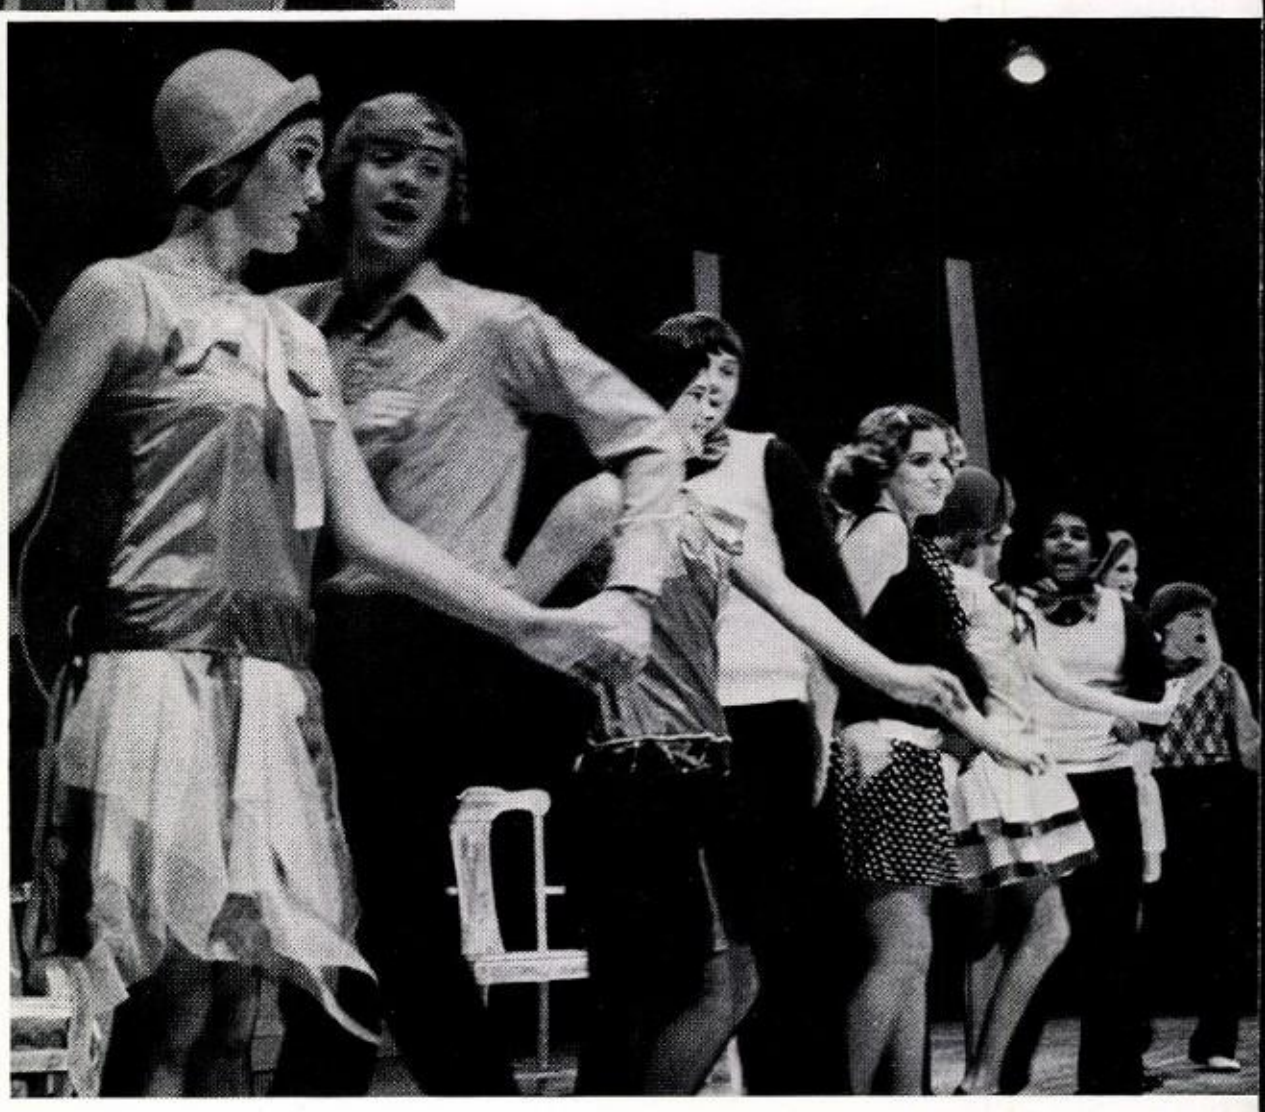
. . . Even in the Rain



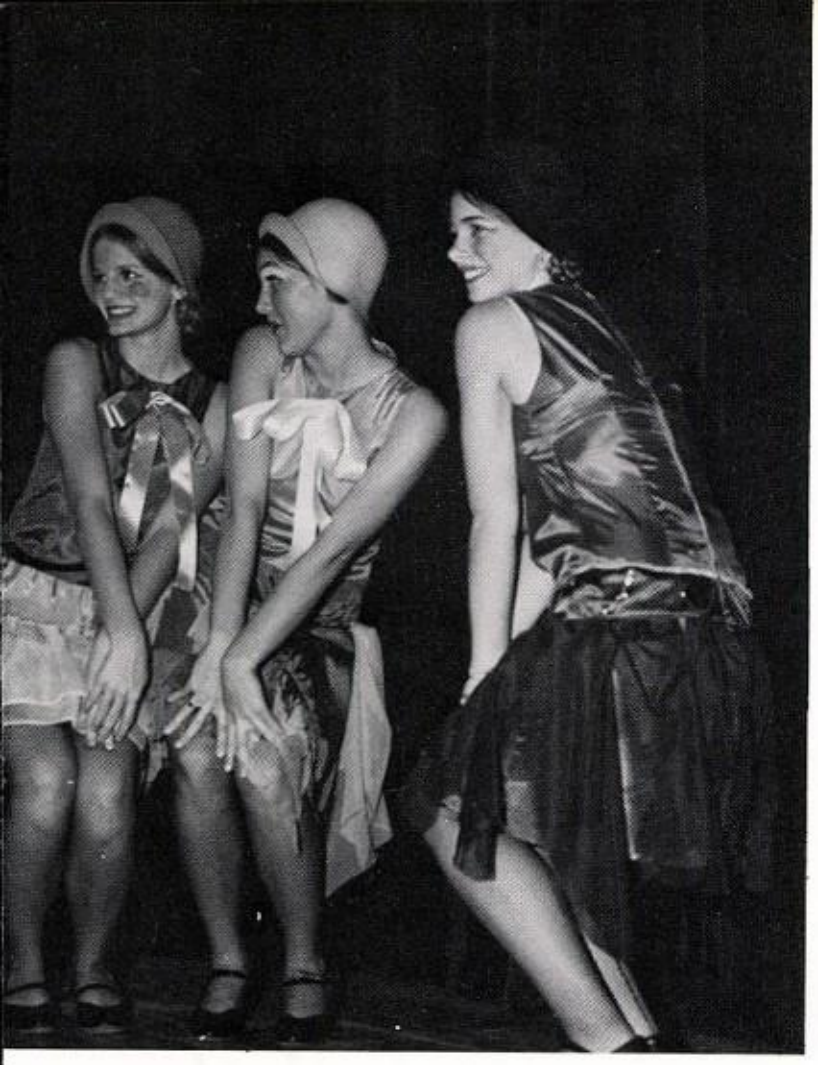
The Queen candidates and their escorts enjoy the traditional Queen's Dance.

That Certain Thing Called "The Boyfriend"

From the nervous feeling of a dress rehearsal . . .



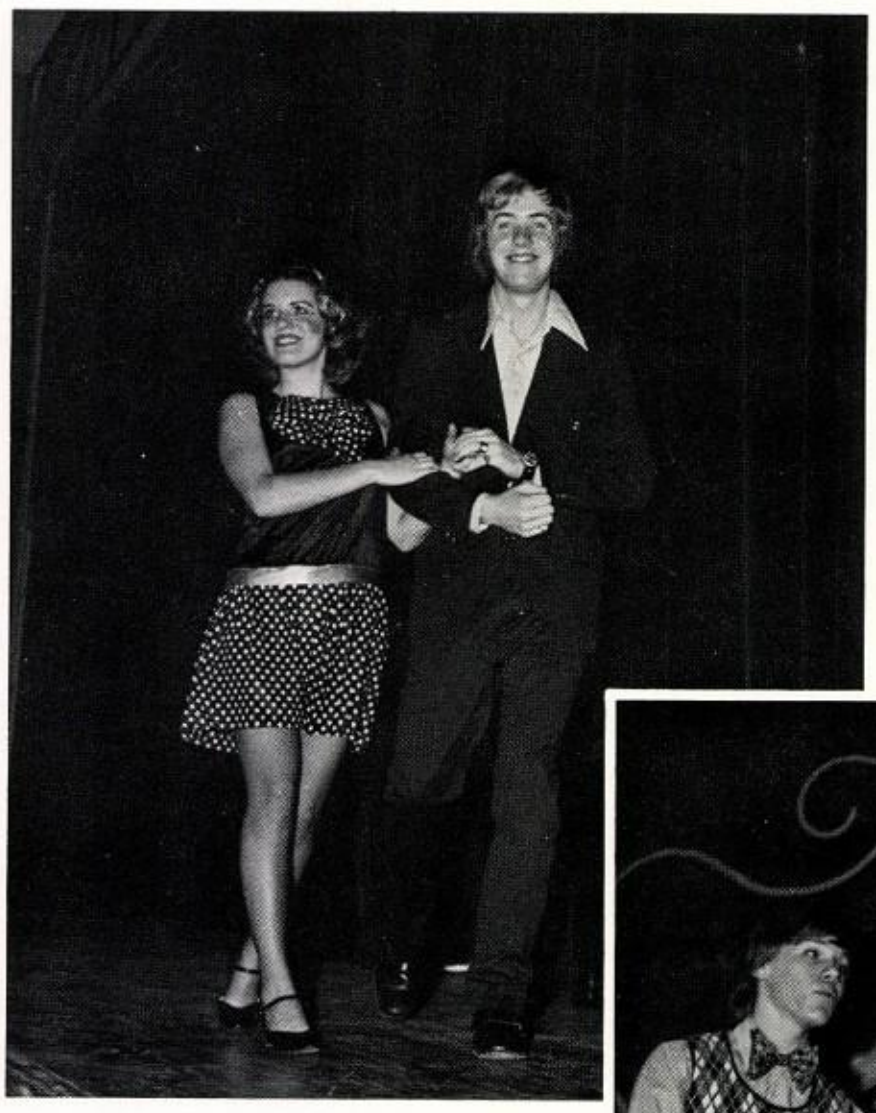
. . . to a fine showing on opening night, "The Boyfriend" was truly an experience!



Dancers add color to the show.

Once again, Ms. Murphy proved her excellence in the field of dramatics with this year's fall play, "The Boyfriend." The three act musical comedy about the "Roaring Twenties" starred Brian Read as Tony, Becky Mathis as Polly Browne, Debbie Haerr as Madame DuBonnet, Eric Berger as Percival Browne, and Maria Bajmoczi as Hortense. One of the most memorable performances of the year was turned in by senior Lisa Griebel in the role of Lady Brockhurst. Highlighted by rowdy dancing, songs, love, and excitement, "The Boyfriend" certainly made an exciting evening for all who attended.

And here she is . . . Madame Dubonnet!



Made for each other, Polly and Tony.

"Won't you Charleston with me?"

Couples do their thing.

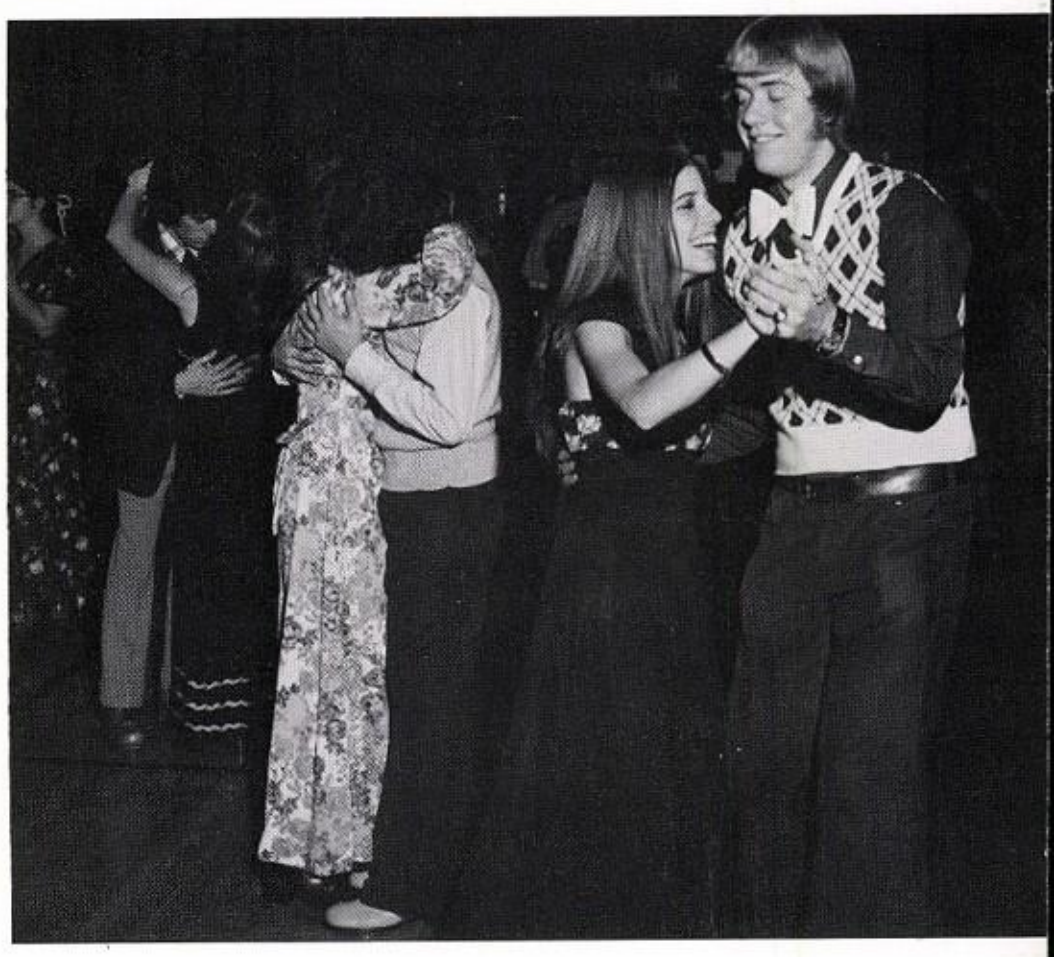
'Twas Three Knights Before Christmas

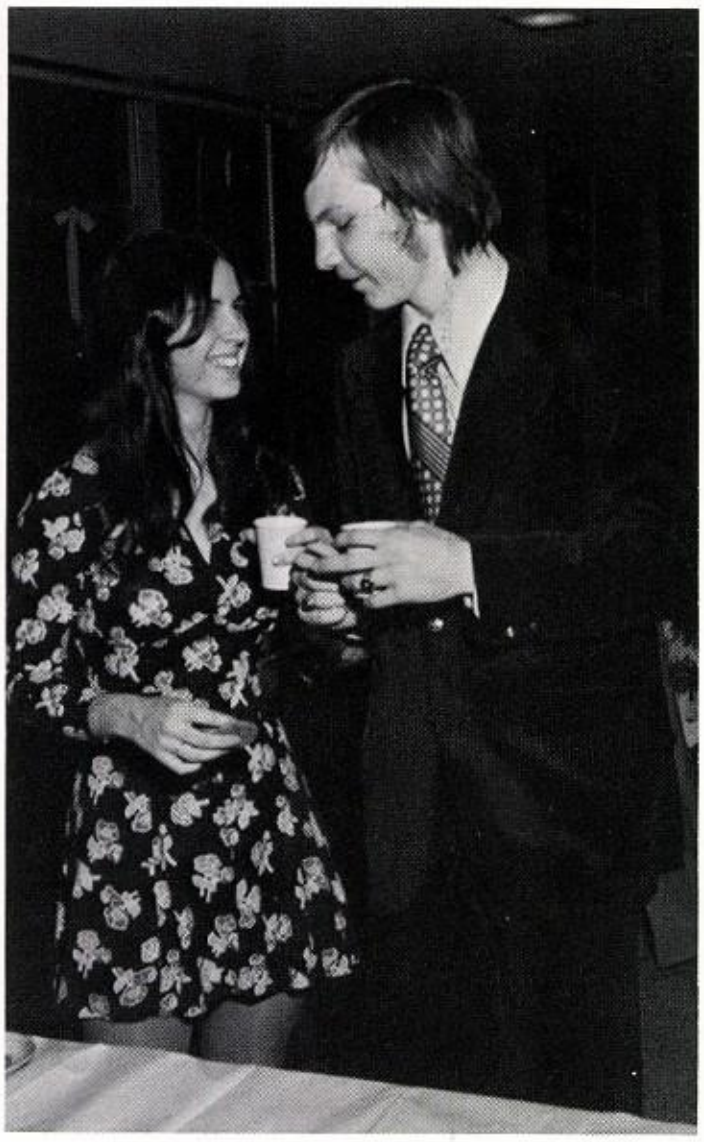


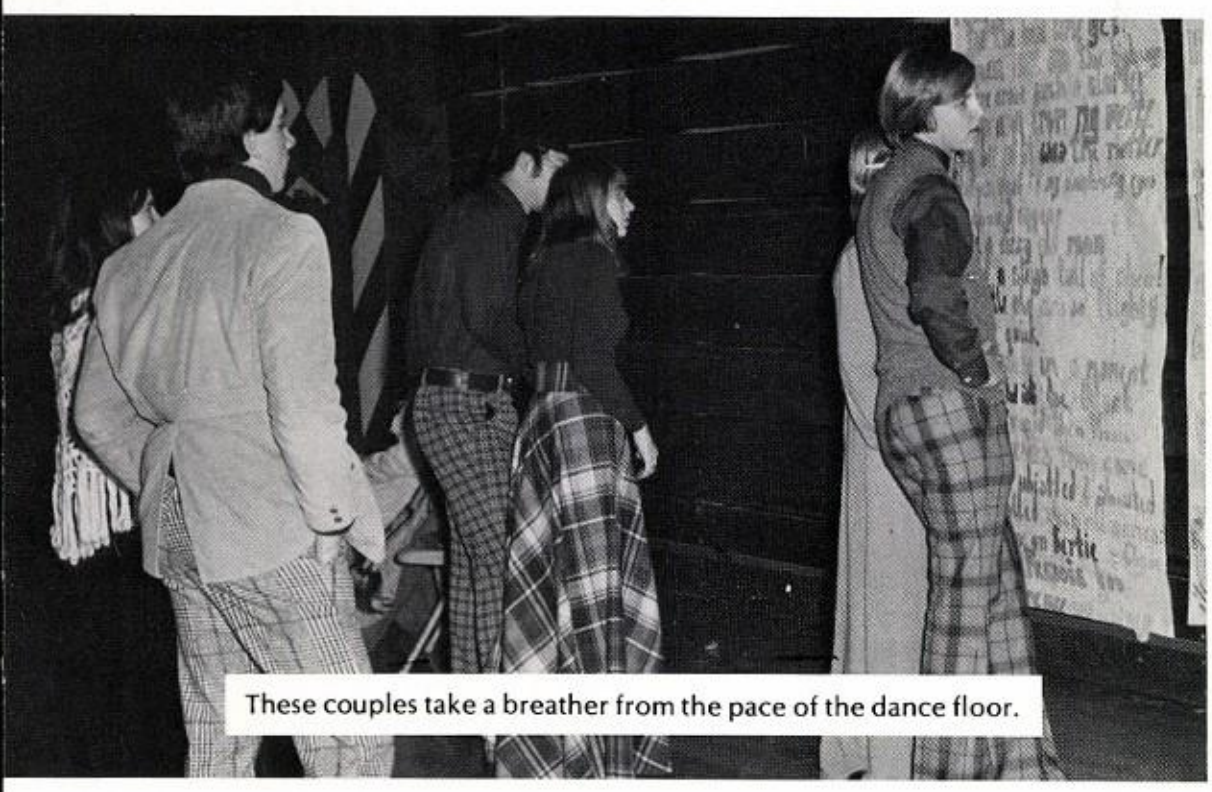
Wasn't the foxtrot before your time?

. . . awaits the words of Santa.

'Twas Three Knights Before Christmas" as the first Christmas dance to be held at ichwoods in four years, and it was a sur-rising success! The vibrations of Bill Har-esty and his Holiday Brass, a festive time f year, and a picture-pretty snow on the round — all added up to an unforgetta-le evening.

Todd and Chris enjoy themselves at the refreshment stand.

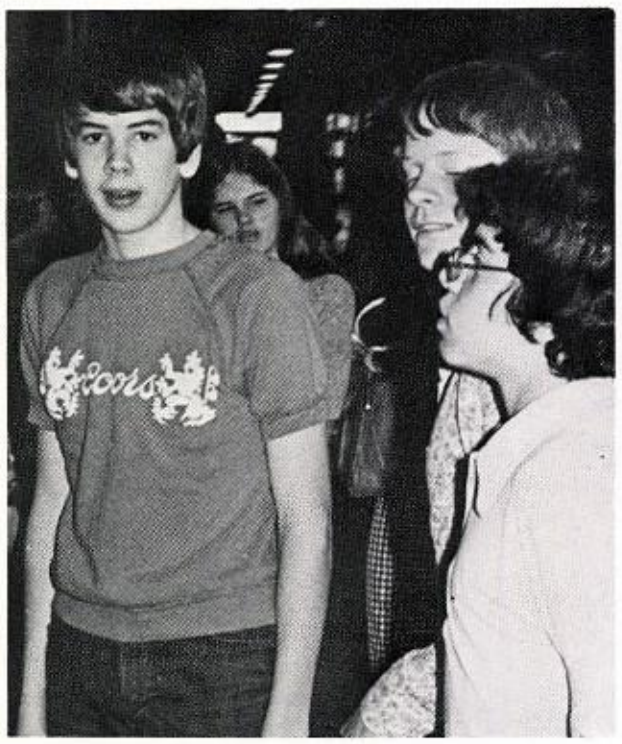


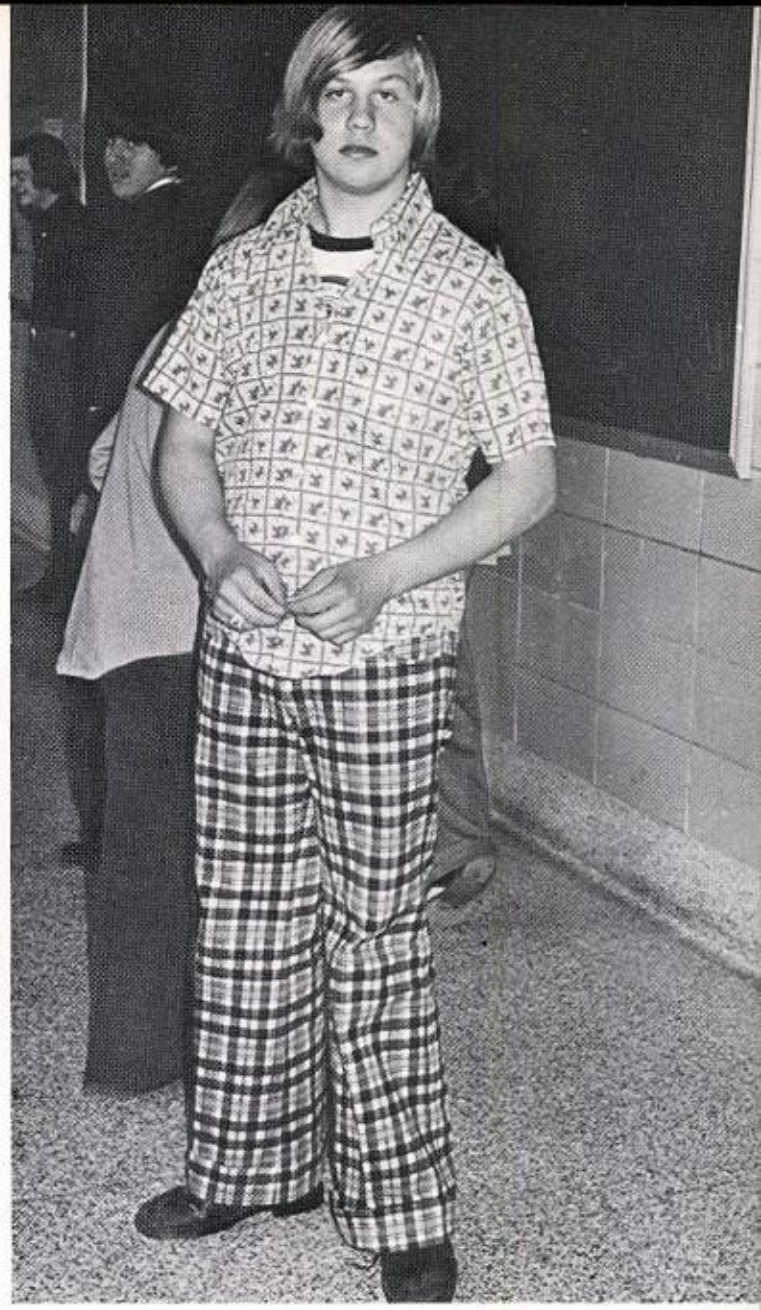


These couples take a breather from the pace of the dance floor.

Dress Code Policy Provides Endless Opportunities

A shirt with the label of your favorite beverage always shows your good taste!





Mix and match!

Dress up for school? Not Jamie Beeson!

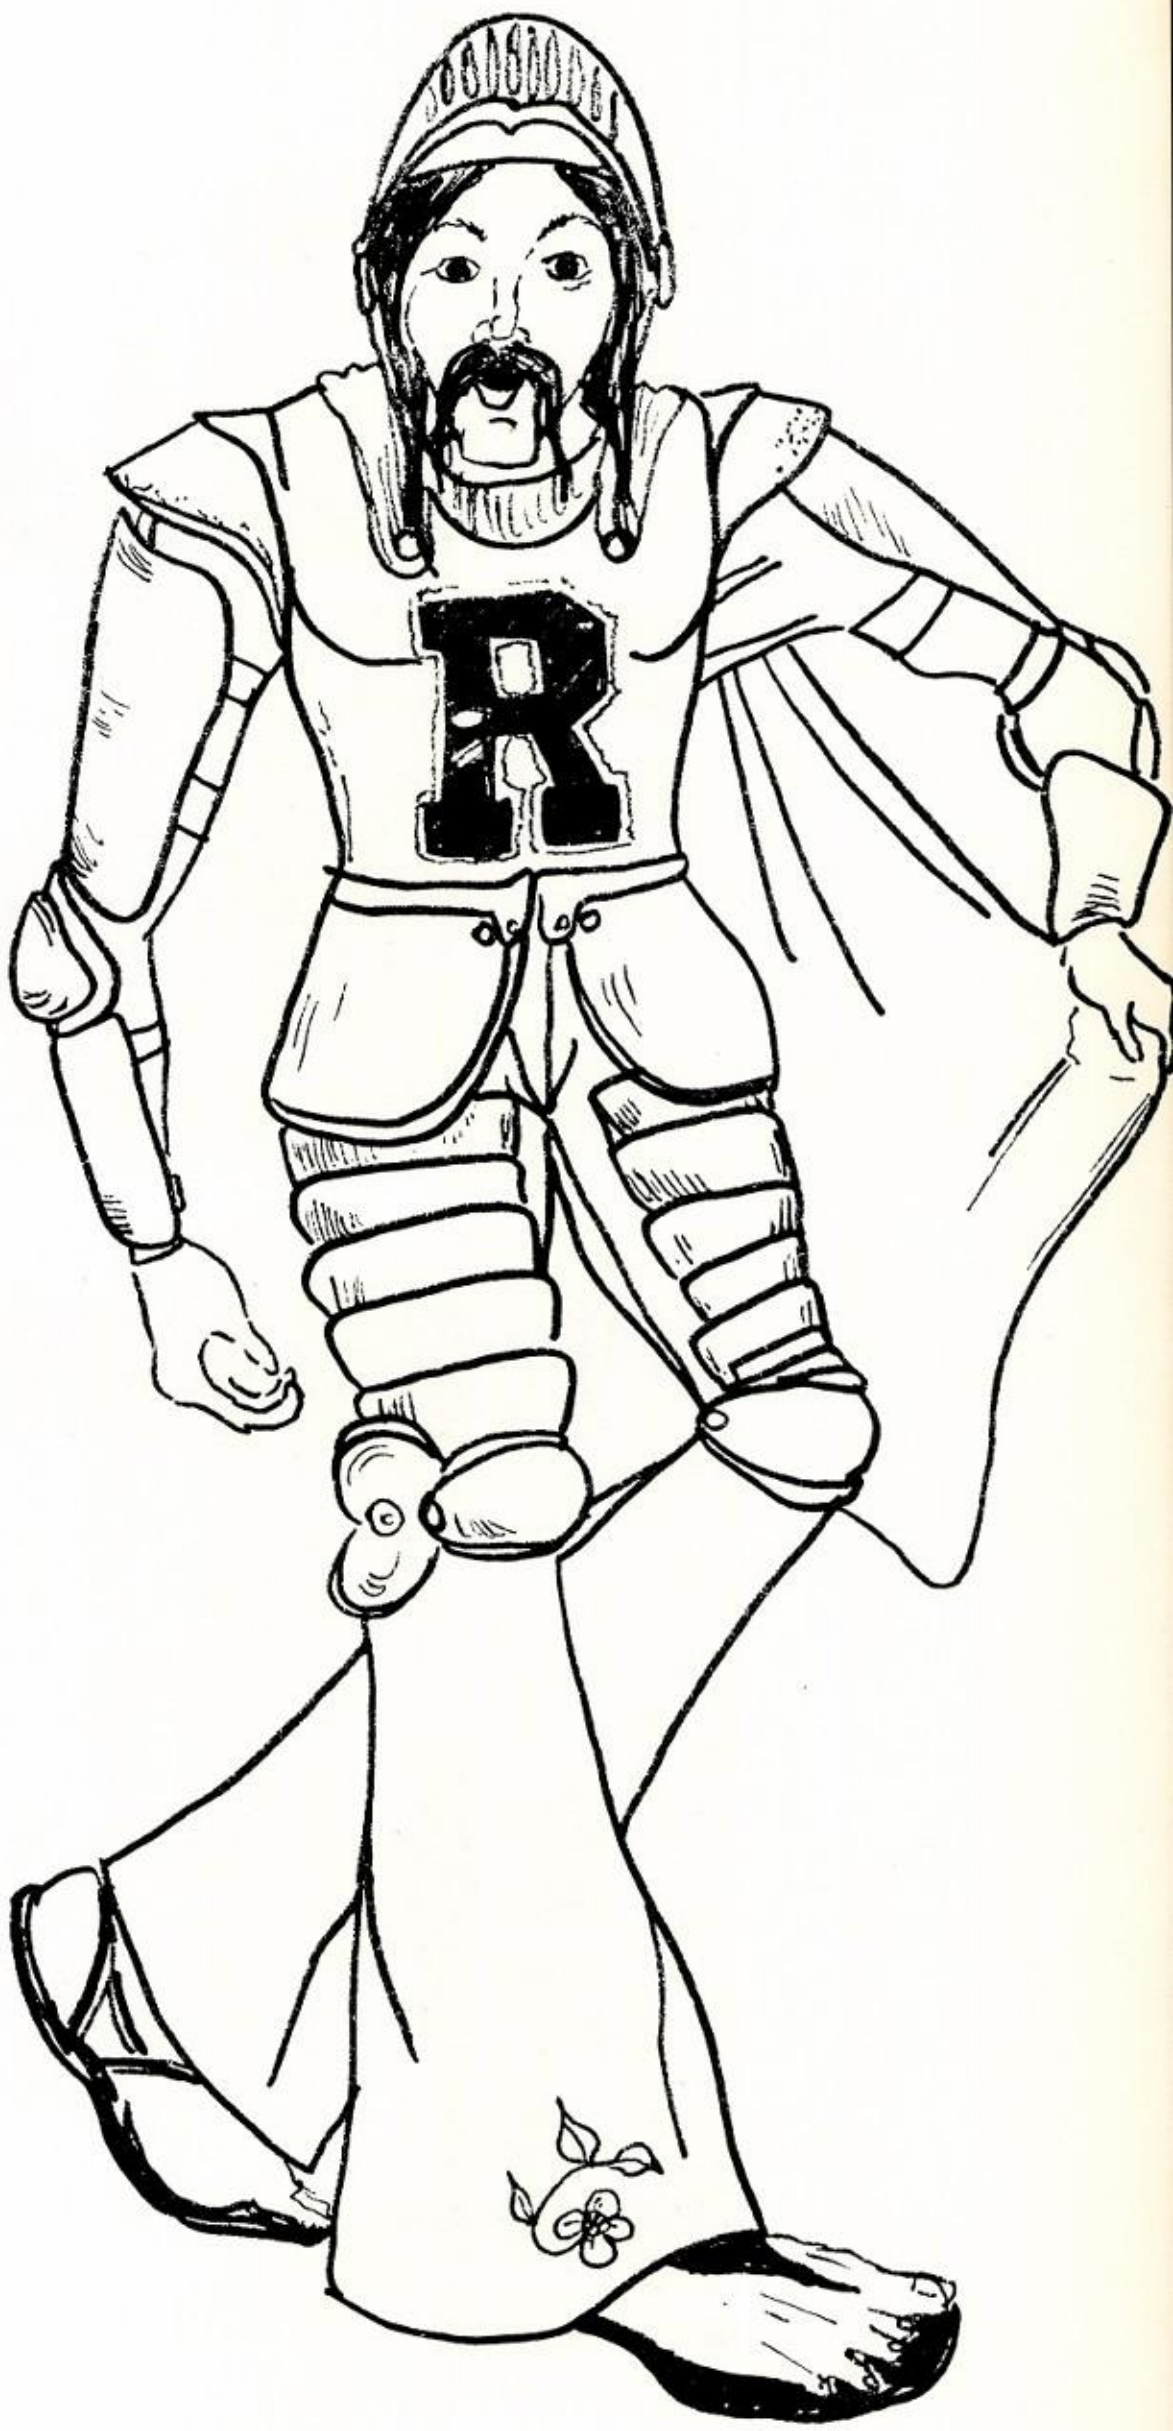
What's a dress?!

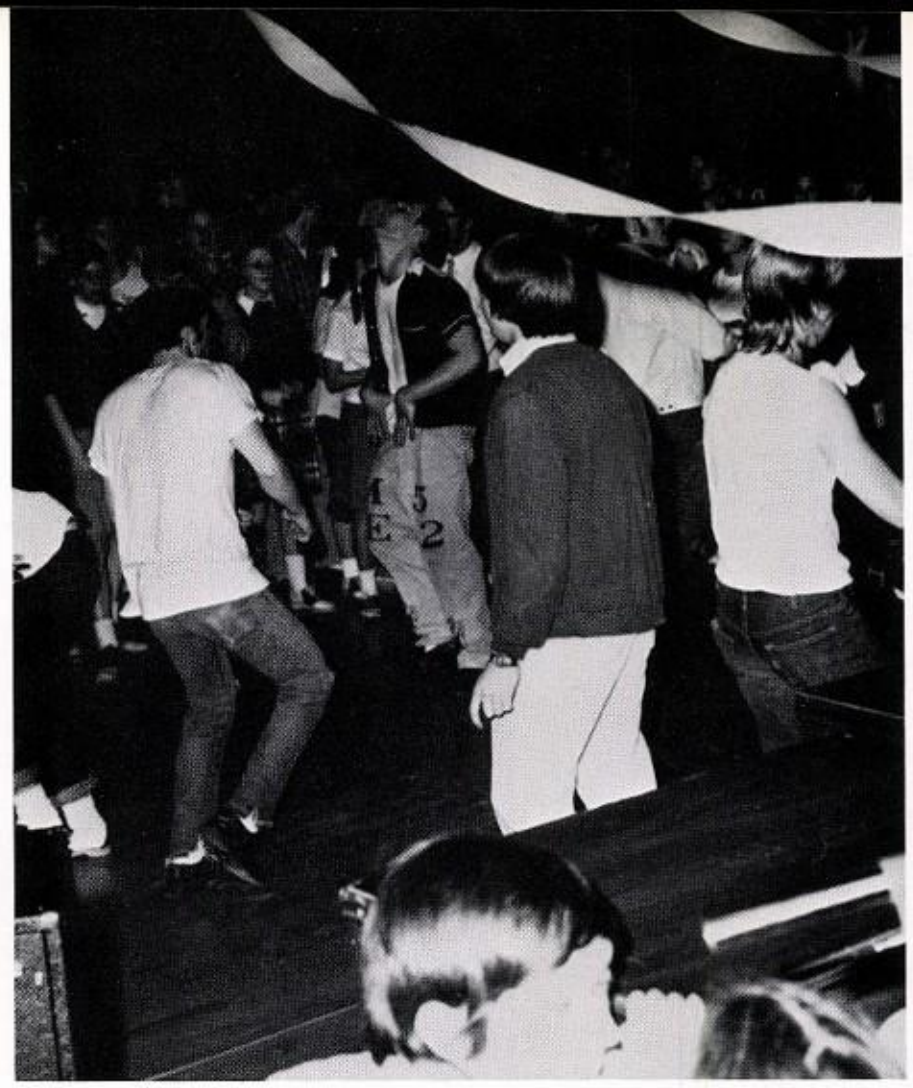
Rolled-up overalls are a typical Friday outfit.

Shoes, no halters and no hats in the building. That's not much of a dress code! It's almost unbelievable to see some of the crazy outfits kids can dig up . . . anything from crummy overalls to lacey dresses. However, one doesn't see as many dresses as he does denim! The most popular outfit was most definitely rolled-up overalls with colorful socks, a workshirt, and a bandana or dude hat on one's head. The way one dresses is the way he feels — clothes reflect personality.



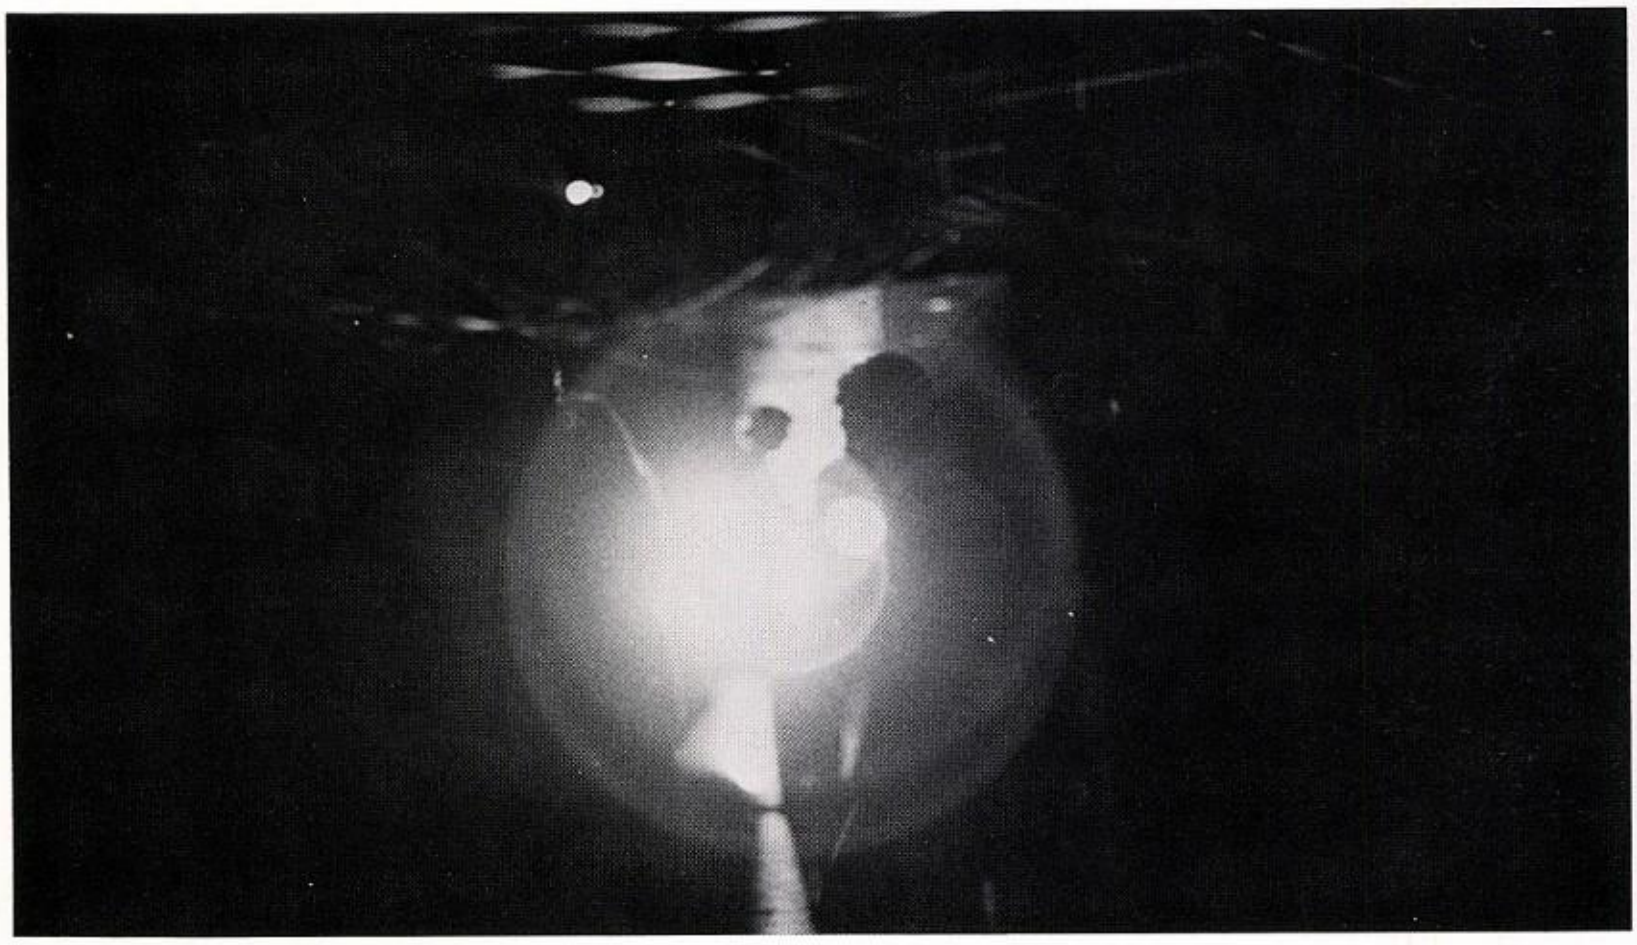
American

Two couples demonstrate their talent at the not-quite-forgotten styles of dancing.

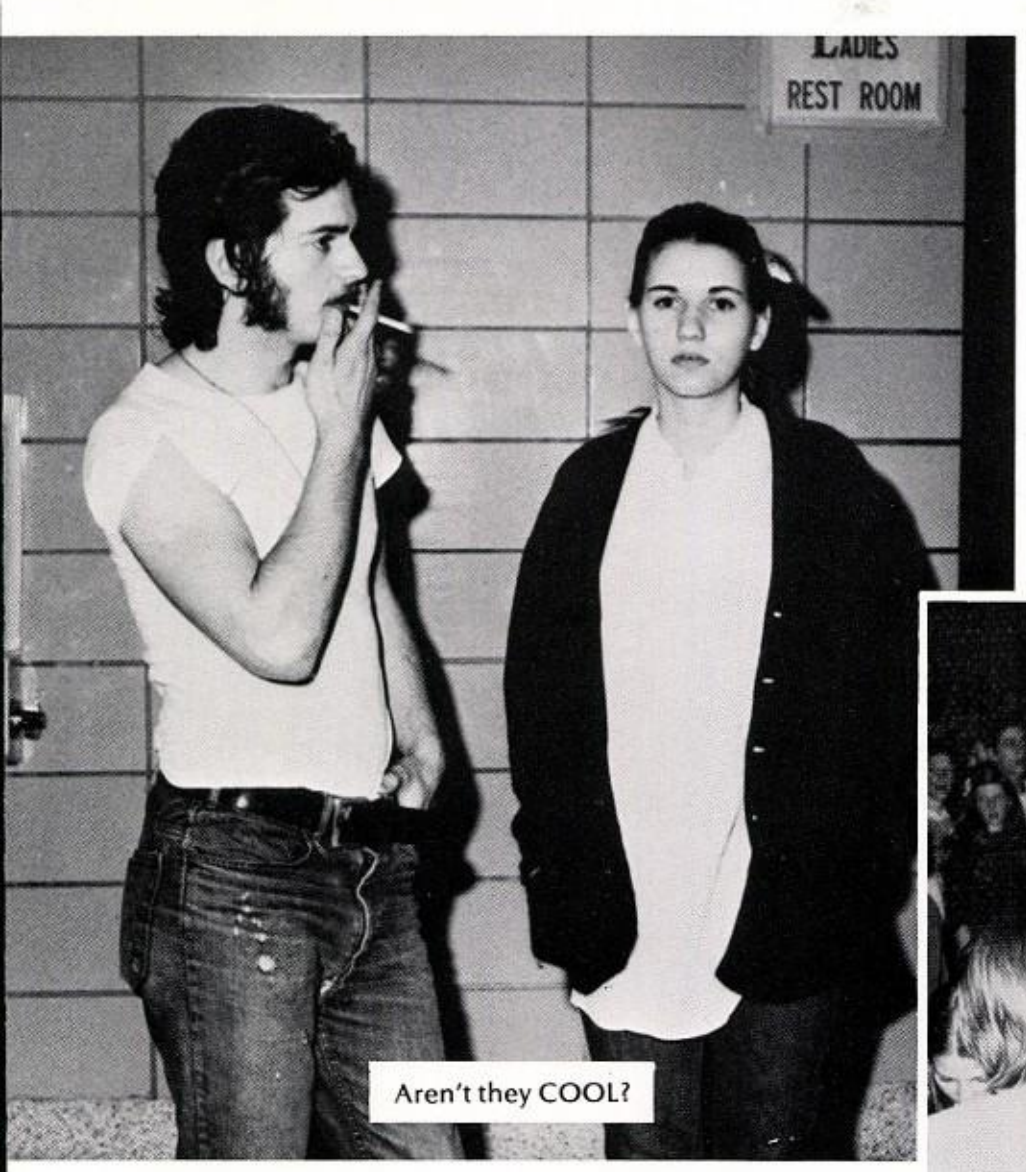


Many showed up in their high styled bobby socks and jeans.

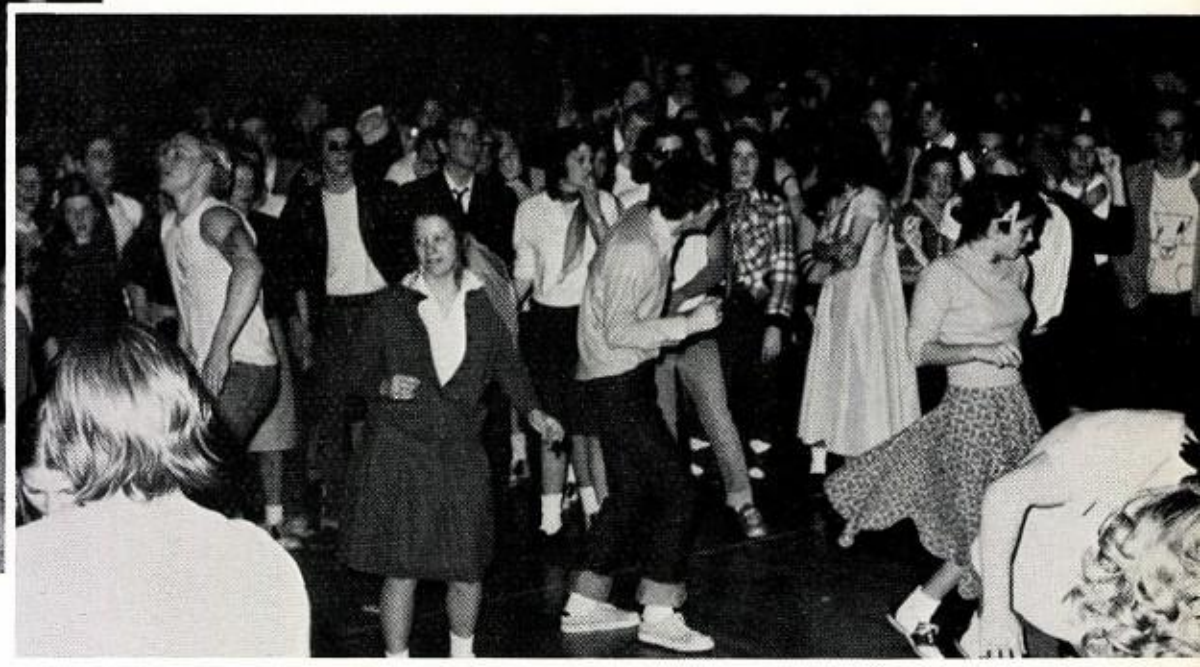
Where were YOU the night of Saturday, March 16th? Were you cruisin' down Main Street with Betty Lou? Were you takin' in a flick down at the Pioneer? Well, you had it made in the shade if you caught "American Grafitti," the greatest vice versa dance to hit RHS since Rock 'n' Roll first hit the charts!



A dance to remember.

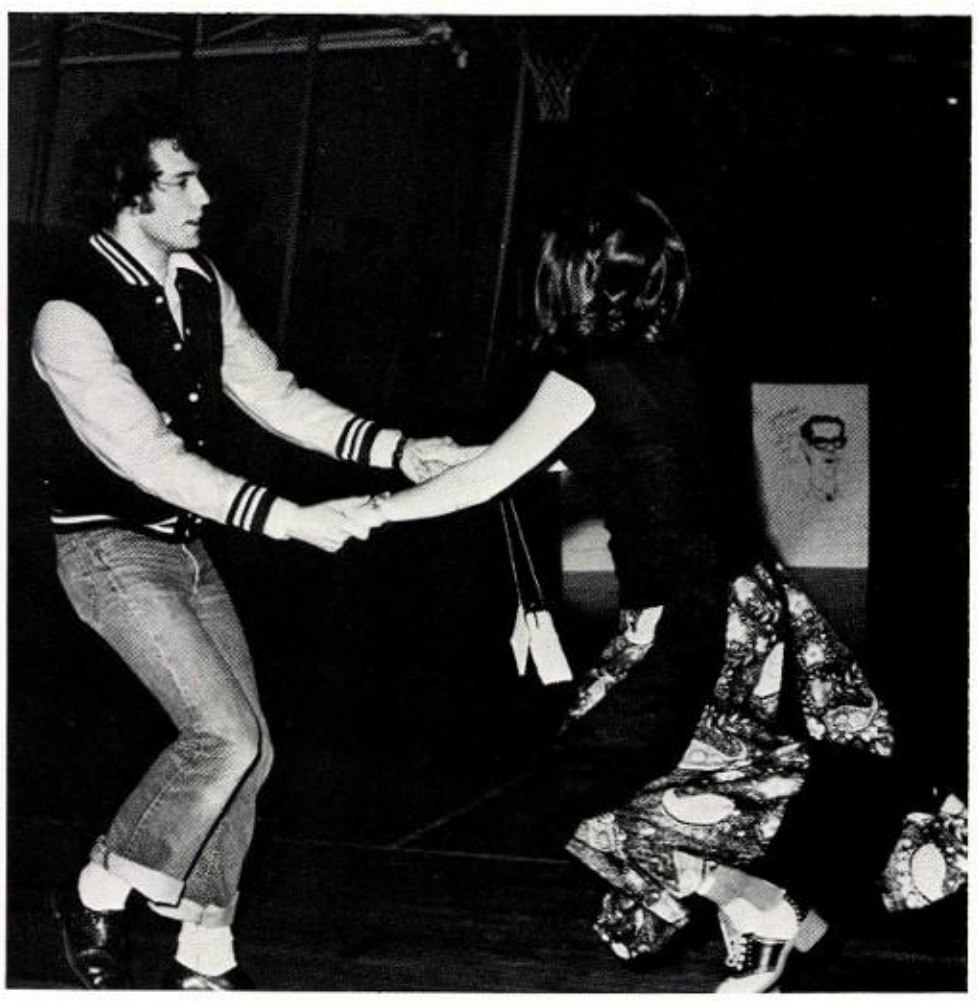


Aren't they COOL?

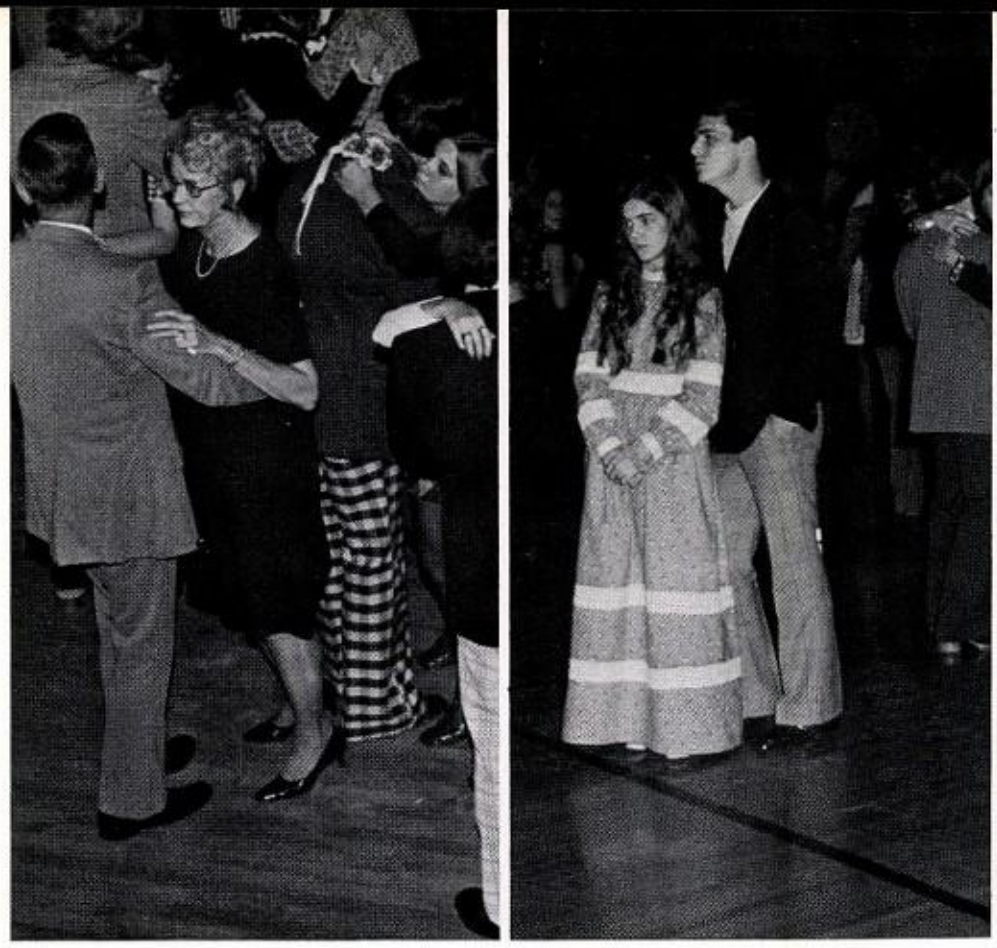


Graffiti

Loafers, rolled-up jeans, and greasy hair proved very popular attire for the evening.



Jaime enjoys his first American "hop."



Patti and Paul watch attentively to see if they can dance that way.

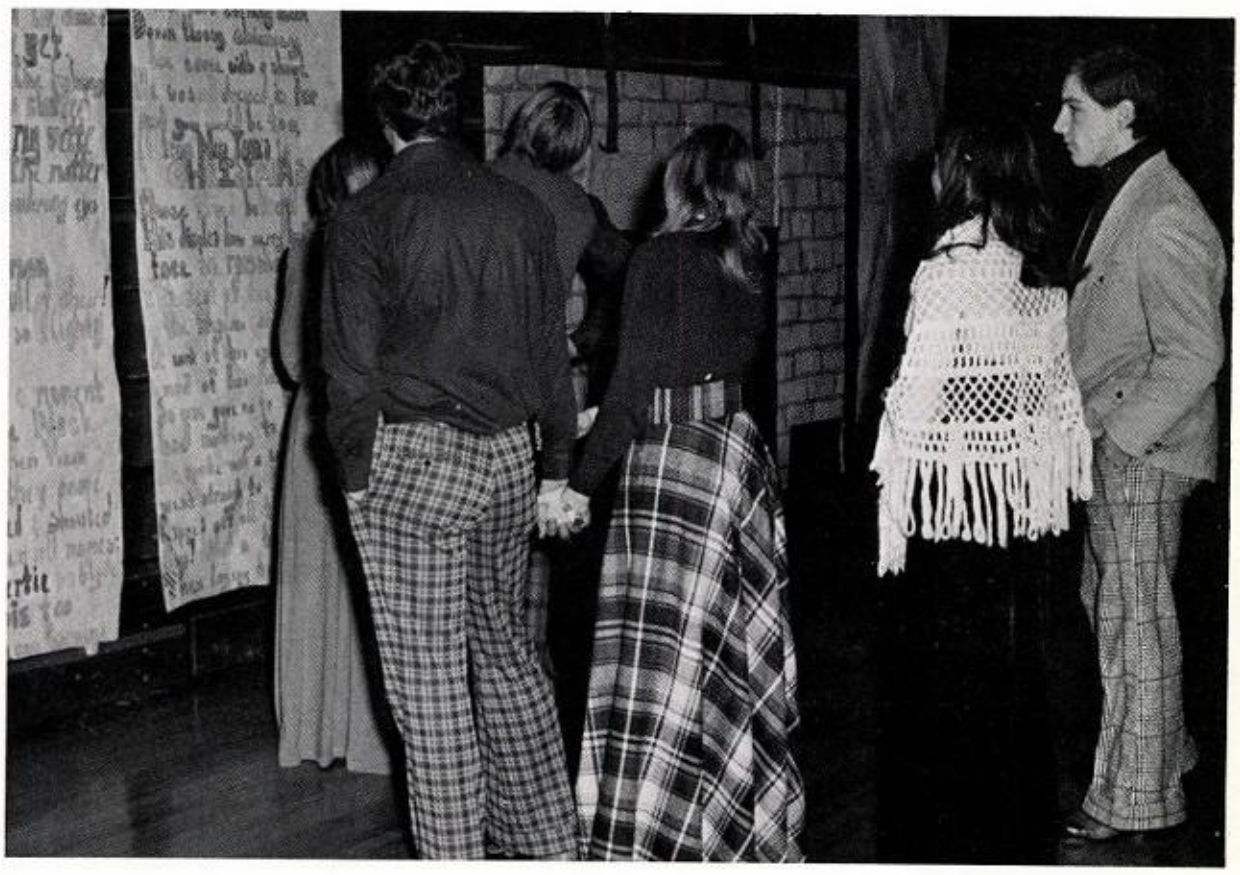
Voted Richwoods' most datable girl for the 1973-74 dating season.

"What Are You Doing Saturday Night?"

One activity at Richwoods interests nearly everyone — sophomore or senior, boy or girl. That activity is dating. The football games, basketball games, after-game dances and the special dances such as Homecoming, Prom, etc. . . . all supply the couples of Richwoods with something to do on Saturday nights. Of course, there isn't always something going on here; then one has to use his imagination! Go bowling. See a movie. Go to a party, or have one!

For there is never a lack of something to do or somewhere to go — one just has to think of it!

If nothing else comes up, horseback riding is always invigorating.



The Christmas Dance gave some couples a chance to dress up.

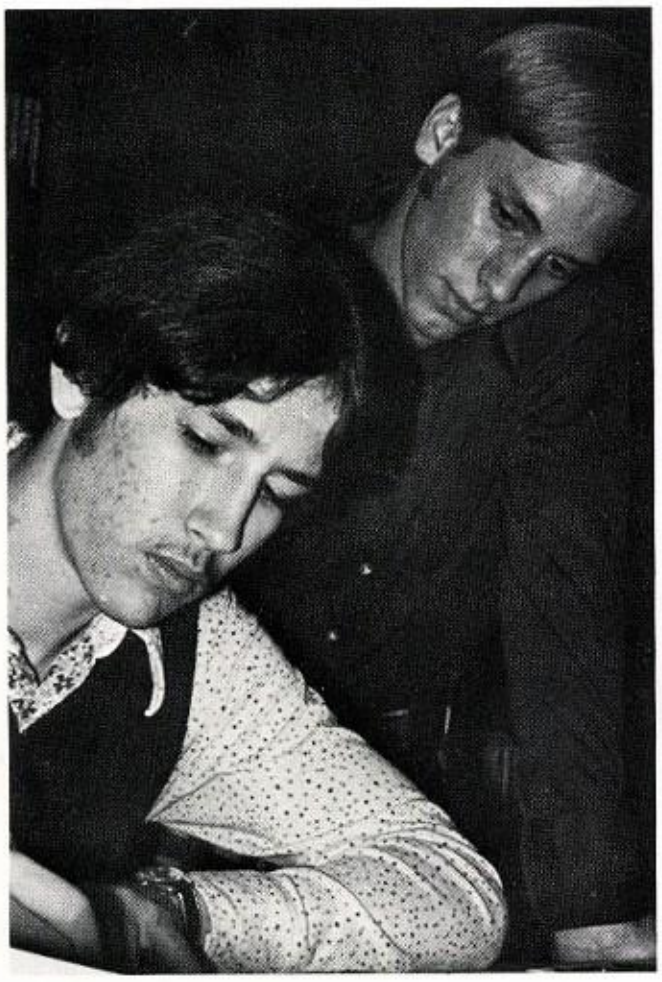
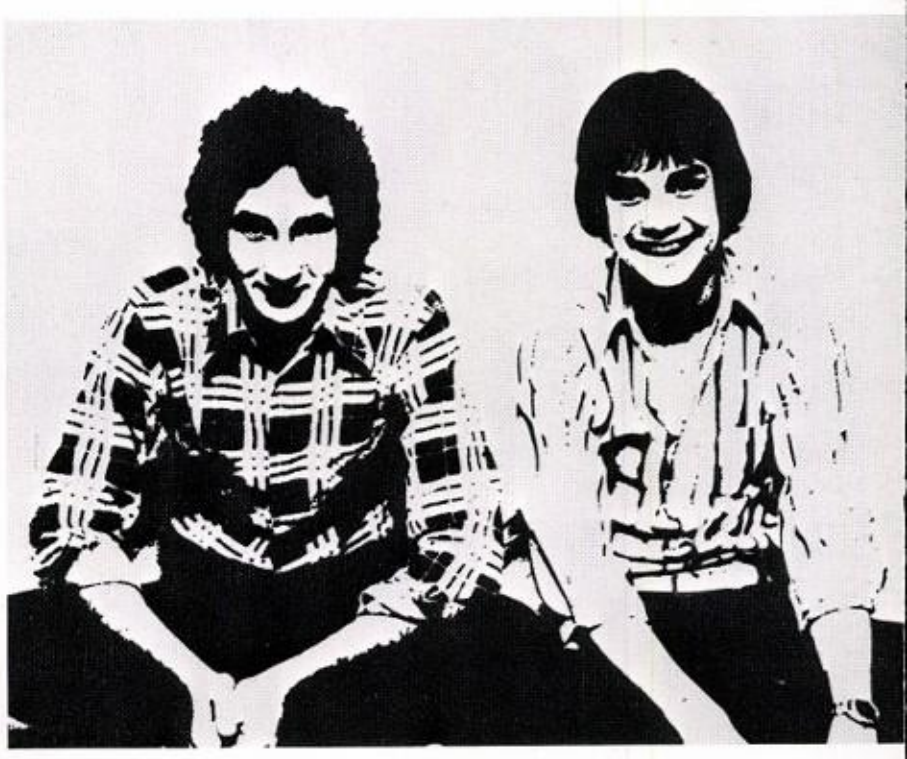
Chuck Pizer and Ed Reynolds explain campaign tactics to their crew.

"Vote for Eric and Rod — make council a good thing," "Two heads are better than one — Chuck and Ed," posters, campaign buttons, platforms lining lockers, classrooms, restroom floors, seeing many of your fellow students in their Sunday clothes (what a change!), all sorts of elements added to the excitement of the '74 Student Council elections for president. After speeches given by the teams of Eric Hansen-Rod Hassler and Chuck Pizer-Ed Reynolds, Chuck and Ed showed to have the winning combination, as they were elected president and vice president of the student council for the 1974-75 school year.



Eric Hansen and Rod Hassler double-check their platform.



Chuck and Ed — the winning combination.

Eric and Rod's plea was "Let's make council a good thing."

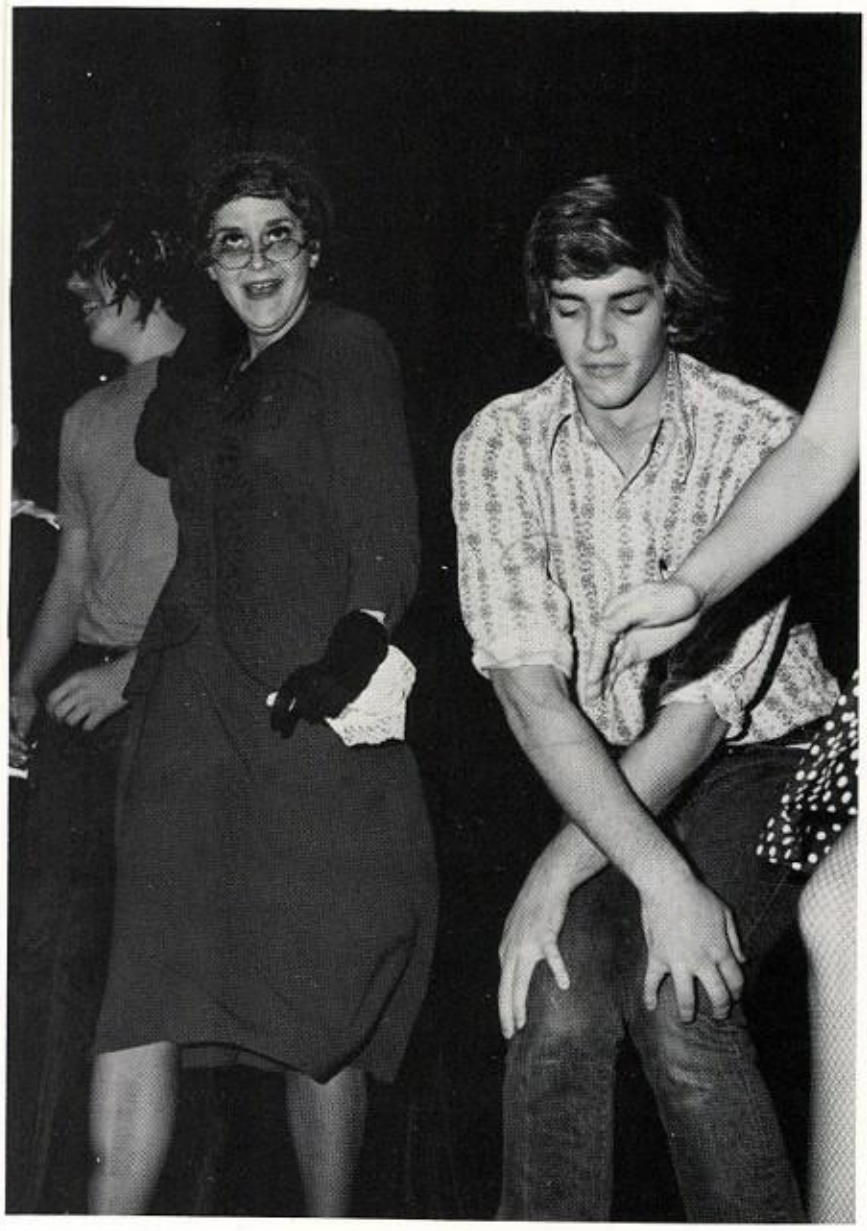
Sense of Balance — Chuck And Ed

What Can We, the Students, Do to Improve Student Council?

Student Council as it exists today is in some opinions ineffective and highly criticized. But the students who call it a "joke" have no right to do so. The responsibility for its condition lies totally in the hands of the student body. WE have elected all of its members. If they sit and do nothing, if they don't attend meetings, if they just use the council as an excuse to get out of classes, WE must then vote in people who will do a better job.

If we are to do this, those who are running for office should first consider whether they can accept AND fulfill the responsibilities of the task. Secondly, the student approach should be changed if Council is really to become efficient. We who sit in the auditorium seats as the candidates are announced should consider whether or not each person would be a good representative. Student Council should not be a popularity contest, but at least a half-way serious decision.

Many of us laugh at Student Council, but until we start to look at the people on stage running for office and evaluate their abilities, the "joke" will be on us.

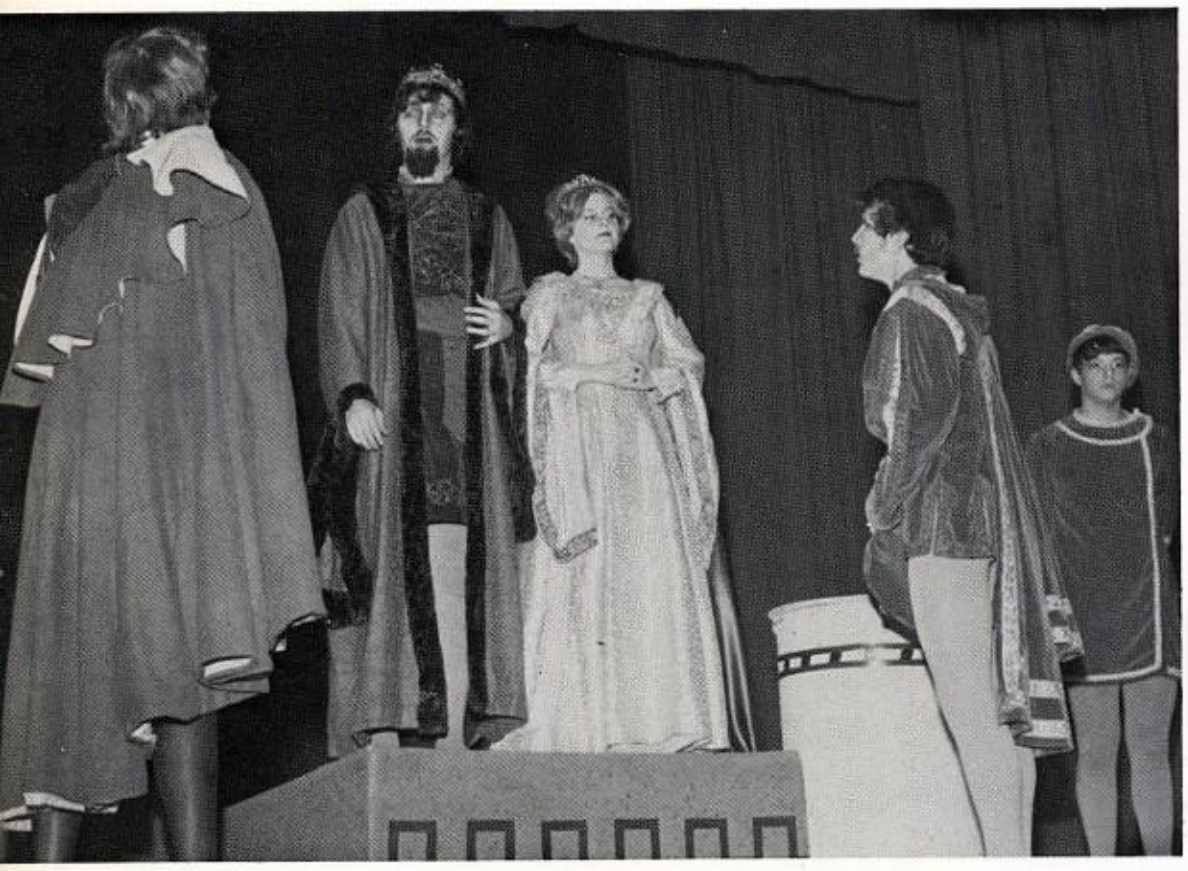


Rosencrantz And Guildenstern Are Dead . . .

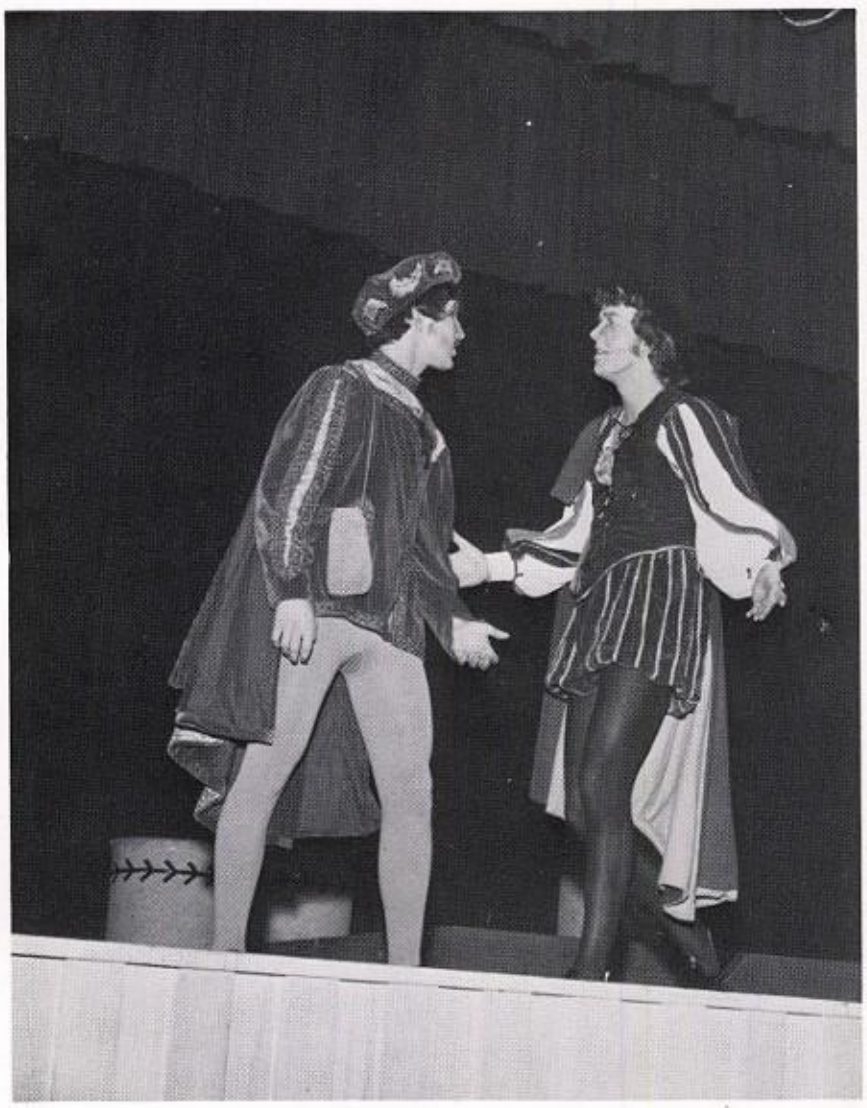
"Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead," the contest play, was directed by Mrs. Drew. Out of 144 schools, it placed fourth in state. Named to the All-State Cast were Eric Hansen, Brian Read, and Eric Berger.

The individual events team placed as follows: Diana Deatherage, first in verse, third in declamation; Jodi Carlisle and Brian Read, second in Humorous Duet Acting; Lisa Griebel, second in serious interp.; and Tom Teak, sixth for his presentation. Jodi was fourth in Humorous Interpretation, also.

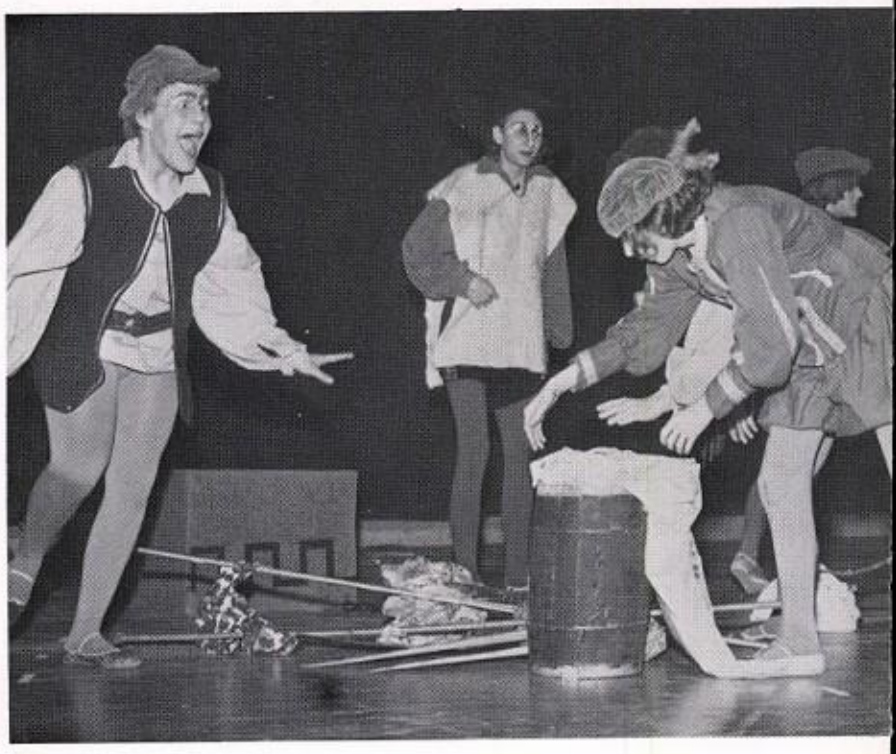
Reader's Theater, directed by Miss Murphy, did well by placing first.



Rosencrantz and Guildenstern address the Queen and King.



By the dismayed look on Guildenstern's face, someone must have the wrong idea.



Confusion reigns.

Eric Berger gives his role a touch of the dramatic.

Donkeys Add a New "Air" to Basketball

On April 3, the Richwoods gym was turned into a rodeo as the Student Council — sponsored Donkey Basketball games amused the crowd. First, the Student Council Senate was defeated handily by the Girl's Basketball team, 6-2. In the second game, Pakia slipped by the Varsity Cheerleaders, 2-0. In the championship game, Girl's Basketball was again victorious over Pakia, 6-2.

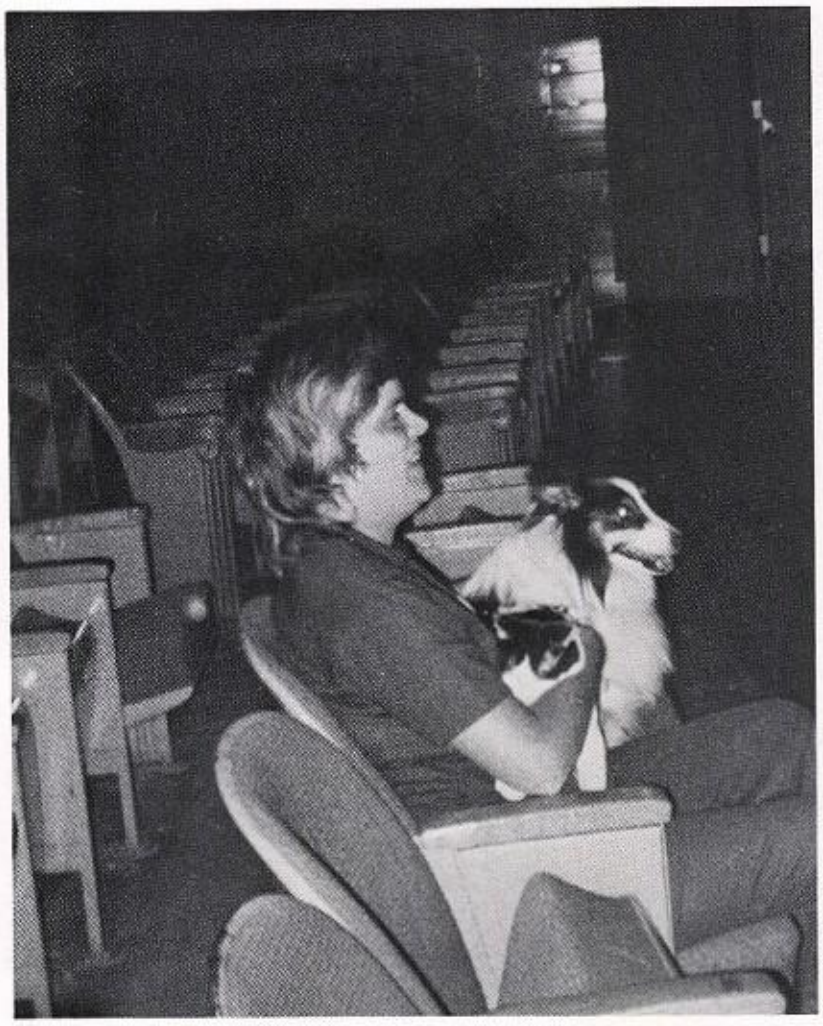
Vera Carlton (Nora Tennebo) declares her feelings for Hilton Hayes (Mark Niblock).

Debbie McCarty and Rick Peters portrayed the star-crossed lovers in "He Ain't Done Right by Nell."



Miss Schneider directs only in the best of company!

Proving once again that good triumphs over evil, two old-fashioned melodramas delighted RHS audiences on Friday and Saturday evenings, May 11th and 12th. The traditional, here-takes-villain melodrama, "He Ain't Done Right by Nell" was presented first, with outstanding showings by Mark Niblock as Hilton Hayes, and Debbie Hunt as Granny Perkins.

This short piece was followed by a delightful spoof entitled "The Great Western Melodrama," in which all the traditional aspects of the art of melodrama were accentuated, if not overdone! A wacky cast was led by Lisa Greibel as Filton Fearless and Jody Carlisle, who portrayed the lovable Daisy McSkew.

Attracting the customary boo's and hisses from the audiences, these two shows certainly offered a delightful change to the playgoers of RHS, and director Miss Schneider and Nancy Heller, her assistant deserve a big hand for a job well done.

An Evening of Good Ol' Fashioned Fun

Colette Crowned

"Stairway to Heaven" was indeed that for Senior Colette Hewitt. About midway through the dance, the seven candidates were introduced by the Junior Class President, Don Wright, and Colette was announced Prom Queen. She was then crowned and received the traditional roses and Queen's gift. She and her escort, Brian Read then led the Queen's Dance.

The dance was held at the Peoria Hilton.

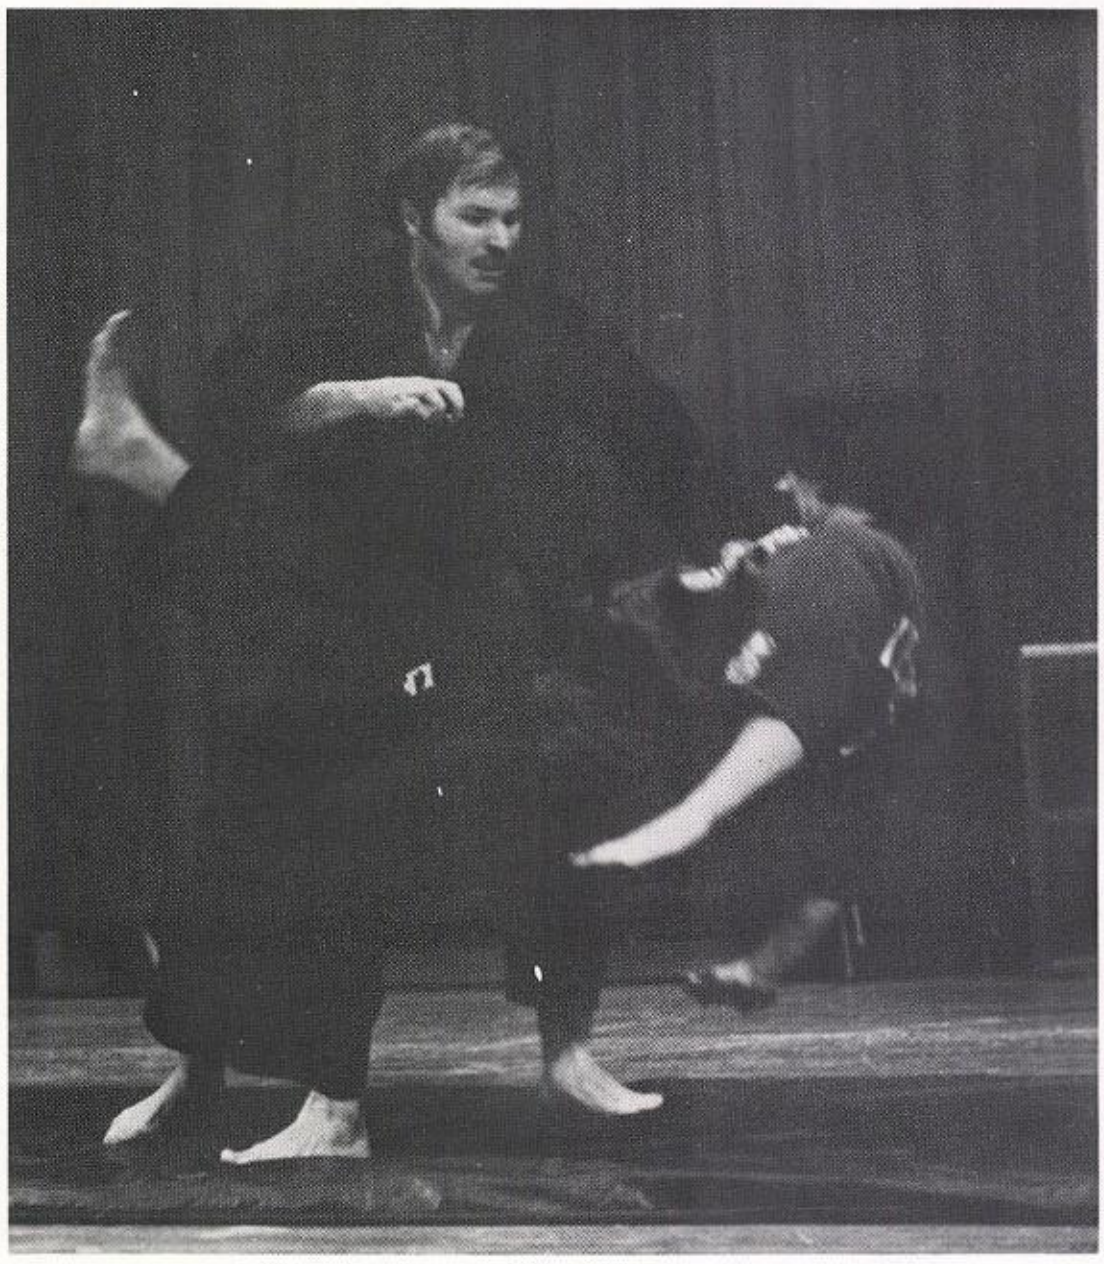
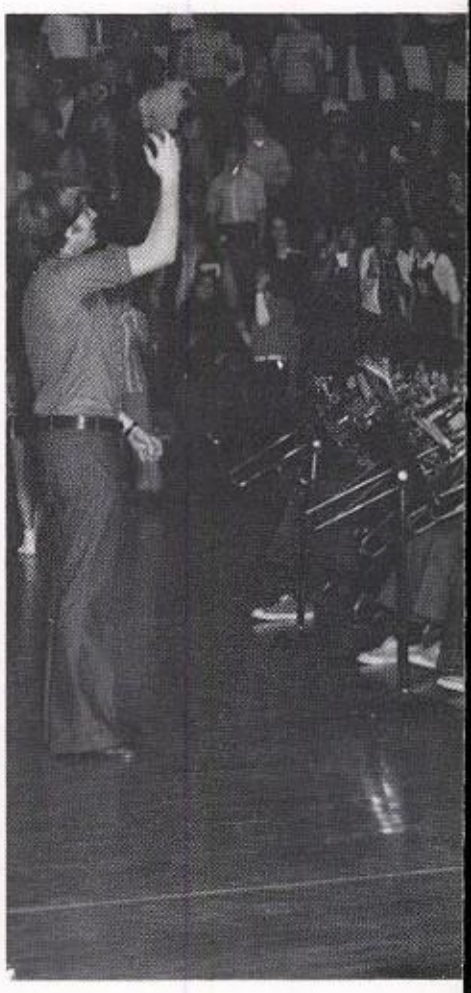
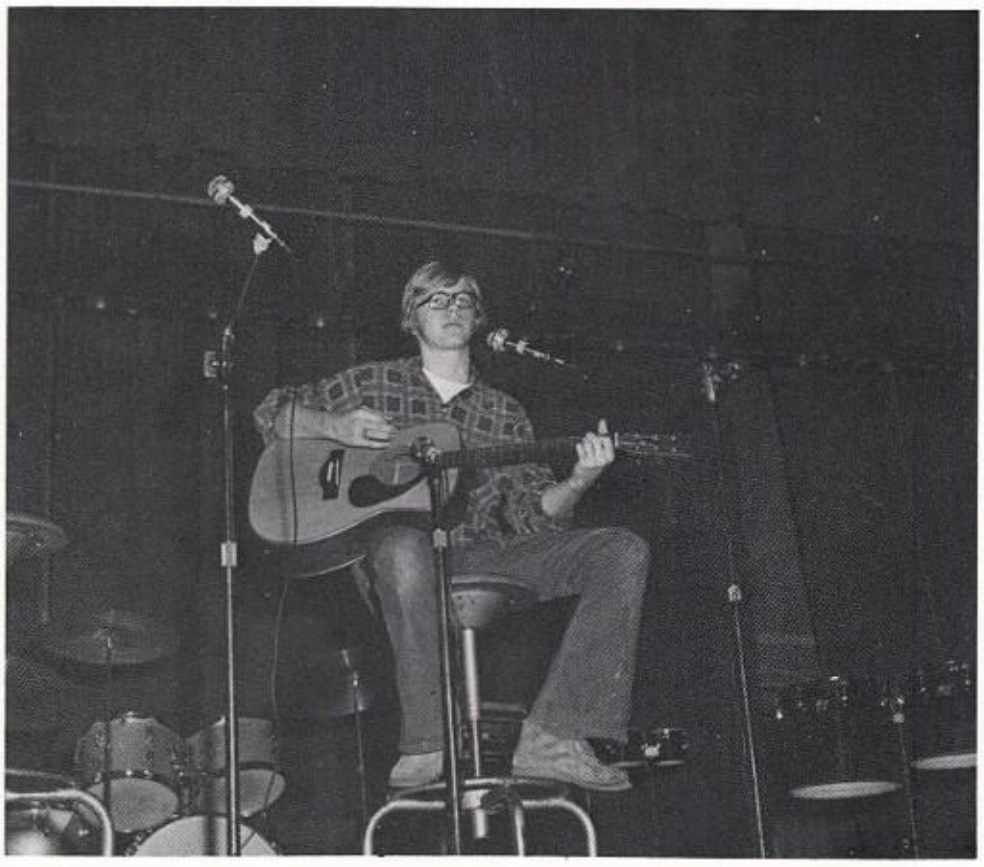
Assemblies Brighten Life At RHS



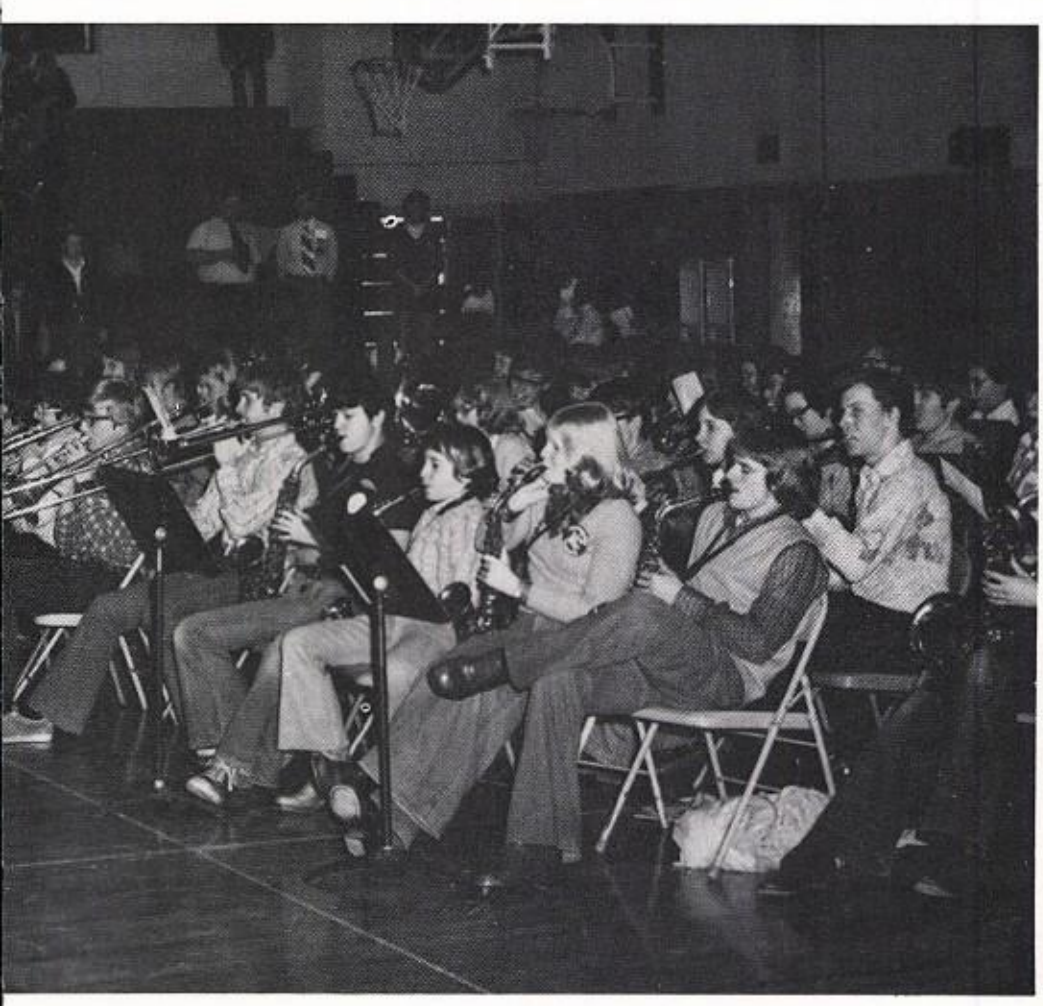


Phil Koeppel's karate students demonstrate techniques.

Scott Monti adds his voice to one of the two Music Assemblies.



Richwoods students were treated to more and better-than-ever assemblies this year, ranging from the pep assemblies to special assemblies such as the hypnotist. Homecoming brought the traditional queen candidate assembly, and students displayed their musical talents in two assemblies. Special assemblies included a Karate exhibition by Phil Koeppel, Dr. Irwin Ross, a hypnotist, and a showing of films made by Bradley University students. The success of our basketball Knights was also heralded with three special pep assemblies.



The spirited RHS Band added their music to every pep assembly.

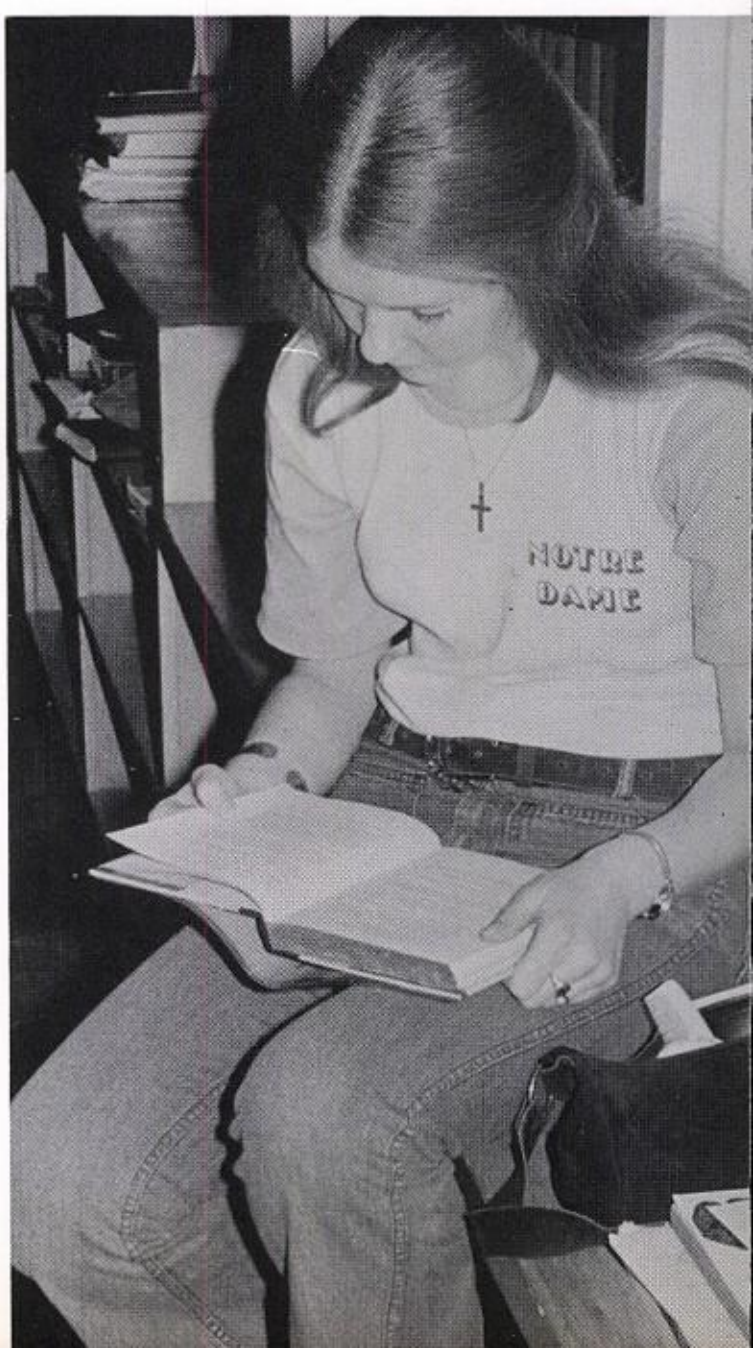
Someone evidently found Dr. Ross extremely irresistable!

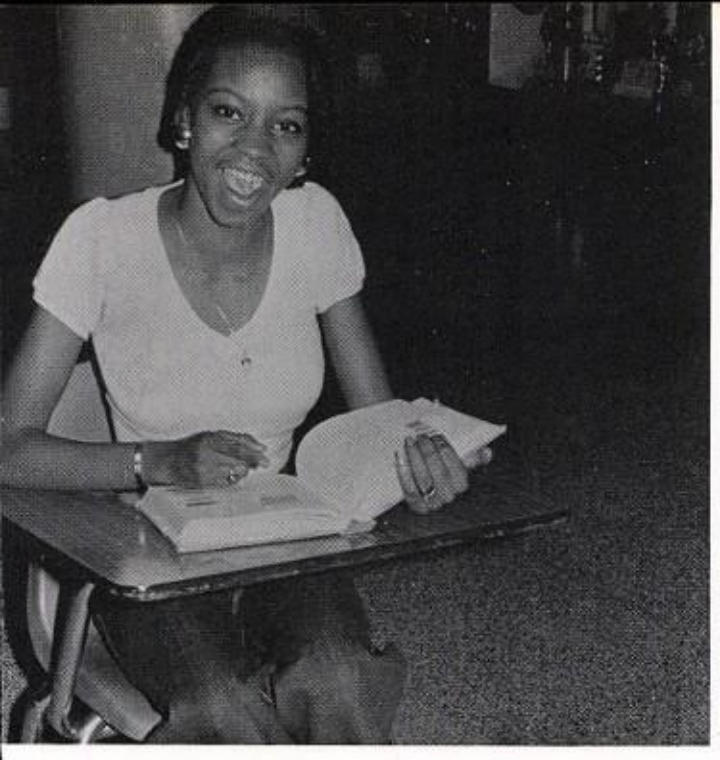
Black-White situation, you say? Tense, cold, unfriendly, separation, right? Wrong! The 1973-74 school year marked a coming together of the two races. Sure, a few agitators failed to see the harmony . . . or refused to see it, but Richwoods offers the ideal test by mixing us together, and this year's result came as a pleasing surprise.

"Everyone Worked Together"

"The Black-White situation at RHS isn't as good as it should be, but I'm optimistic about RHS and I think things will soon be changing for the better." — Vicky Henry

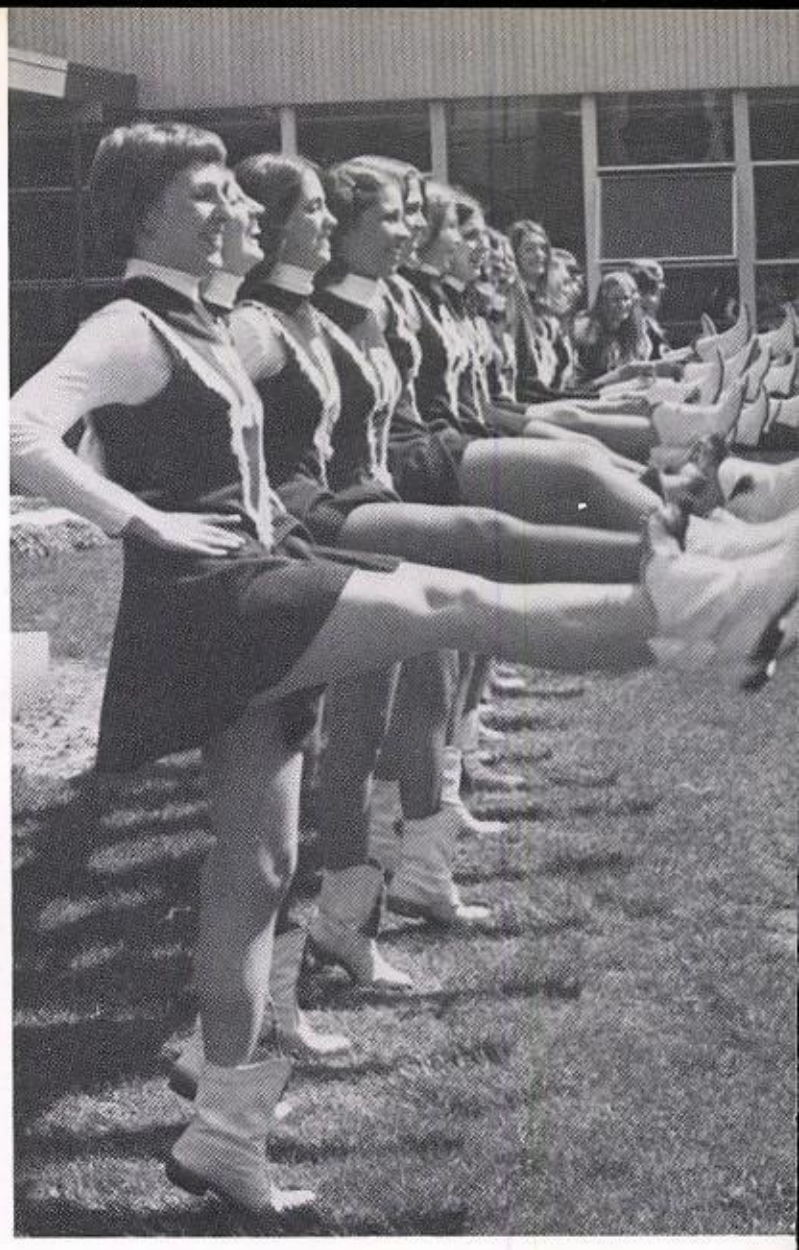
"When I first came to RHS, the Black-White situation was really bad. There were alot of fights and prejudiced feelings going around. Where I went to grade school, there were only two black kids and no problems. Here I was really scared of the situation. Now, either the situation has improved, or I've learned to accept them as really being just like me." — Sonia Collins





"Since my freshman year here at Richwoods, the Black-White situation has improved one hundred per cent. It took the people of Richwoods through alot of changes (good and bad), like Black Week which really caused a conflict among the students. This year I feel Richwoods was really a together school, and it was all brought on by the basketball team. Everyone worked TOGETHER — Black and White backed them as a student body. I think as the years progress, things will start to get better and better until there is NO conflict here at Richwoods." — Connie Kelly

"My opinion on the Black and White situation at RHS seems to be better than before; there is a better mutual feeling among the whites and the blacks. There is not the idea of a dominating class. It is becoming a mixed group (White with Black and Black with White) because of the friendship which is involved. School activities helped this come along; the main point that helped the togetherness is that there is not a group which is any better than the other group." — Dennis Walton

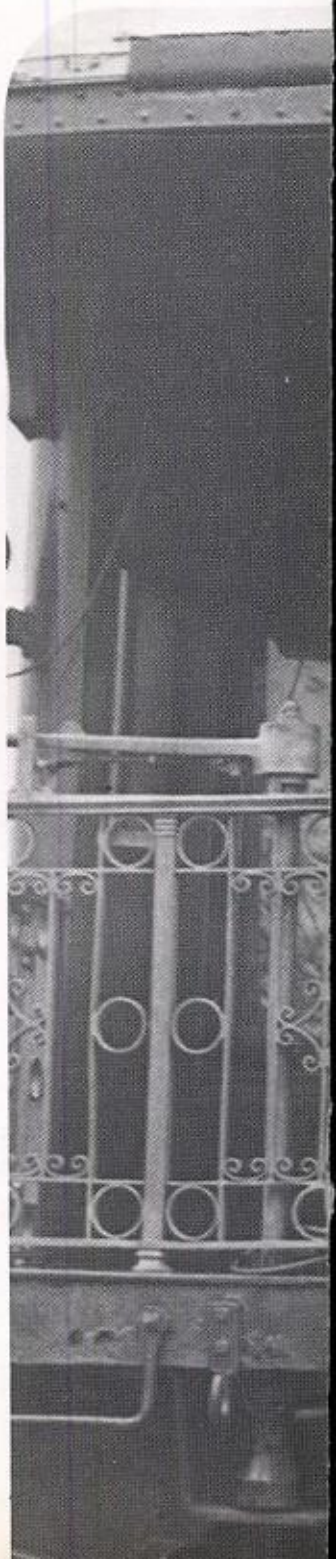


It's those high-stepping Royalettes.

These bicycle club members "take ten" from the everyday drudgery of classes.

The Kazoo and Slide Whistle Band made a number of appearances at pep assemblies.

Our students involved in the A.F.S. program can always seem to find fun.



The RHS band performs at the annual Christmas Concert.

Involvement is the key word in achieving most any type of happiness at Richwoods. Becoming a part of a club or organization leads to meeting up with a number of individuals, who are all joined by their common interest in that club. Richwoods offers a wide variety of organizations with which its students are free and encouraged to become involved — everything from band to bicycle club, pool guards to chess players, choirs to library assistants. The student body here at Richwoods is on the loose to "get into" these activities, to make their four years here ones to remember.

When it comes to finding fun, Jeff, Nora and Jaime's minds seem to follow the same "train" of thought!

Just a few words from the two of us to say good-bye and thanks; we have both seen immensely fortunate to come here; it has been a fantastic year. In spite of a new environment, a new family, a new school, and last, but not least, another language, we soon felt at home and became involved in some of the school's activities.

The time passed quickly and suddenly Christmas was there. What had happened? It seemed as if we had just arrived. But of course we had another six months: such a long time! When this is written, it is only a few days left of school and a few weeks left of our stay here in Peoria. A year is over that we will never forget, and you, Richwoods students, contributed to make this such a fantastic year.

Thank you, all of you.

Our 1973-1974 Student Council President: Mark Howard.

Student Council is an interesting animal. With today's apathy, it's hard to put together a truly effective council. The problem, it seems, is that we can't give the students what they want; and that is fun and games all the time, seven hours a day. Well, I'm sorry to say that we were unable to give the students of Richwoods that because we were hampered by a little thing called education. But such is life. We did manage to pull through with some things though. We had more after-game dances and assemblies than in any recent year. A hypnotist, karate, A.F.S., and music assemblies are to name a few. Donkey Basketball returned to RHS in April, along with a movie held in the spring to benefit the band. With the help of the Adult AFS Committee, we brought in two AFS students this year; Jaime Olaya and Nora Tennebo. Council sponsored low-cost busses to the Galesburg Regional Basketball Tournament. A Christmas party was held for the twenty some kids at the Allied Agencies Crippled Children Center. And the list goes on. It was unfortunate that we were caught this year in a circle involving our privileges(i.e. open study hall, smoking area, optional finals, and open lunch) that hindered our ability to extend them to the levels we wished. But attitudes and council are becoming more progressive year by year, and there are always increasing possibilities for the future.

THE EXCALIBUR HAS GOTCHA!

Gotcha!! Finally the 73-74 Excalibur is done and over with. I was beginning to wonder if we'd ever make it past those deadlines. Obviously, we did. Alot of people don't realize what's put into its making. Our yearbook is a bunch more than just some words and pictures scattered around. I couldn't begin to total the number of hours spent on layouts, copy, picture taking, worrying, praying, etc. Judy and Heller deserve an awful lot of credit. They kept us going, that's for sure. It takes teamwork, time, effort, and patience. I know I sometimes began to wonder if it would be worthwhile in the end. After looking the Excalibur over a little more closely, I think you'll agree it was.

Seventeen isn't an unusual number, but this past year proved to be a very unusual one for the Shield in its 17th uear. Wholesale changes took place throughout the eight page tabloid; the editorial staff gained much enthusiasm during summer workshops, and this energy was harnessed to institute changes from advertising to special graphic effects and page layout.

But the main goal of a newspaper was not forgotten in the midst of all the changes. Continued, unbiased, and complete news coverage continued; a break from the educational monotony was provided through the feature page, and the accomplishments of our fine athletic teams were recorded in the sports section. "Ac'cent," "Crusin," "Panorama," "Joint Effort," "Harry Cantell Reports," and in-depth studies all contributed to the outstanding '73-'74 bi-monthly editions of the Shield.

QUILL AND SCROLL RECOGNIZES OUTSTANDING JOURNALISTS

Quill and Scroll is an honorary society of students in journalism. At Richwoods, these persons are members of either the Excalibur or Shield. Each student is chosen by his or her respective editor, and receives a certificate of merit. The following people are this year's members of Quill and Scroll: Gary Schwab, Margaret Toniny, Diana Saul, Sharon Person, Becky Blessing, Lori Rettke, Kim Antoine, Bill Bennett, Becky Morgan, Doug Weaver, Mark Luthy, Donna Hogland, Eric Berger, Brian Read, Debbie Longman, Jon Burklund, Tony Suau, Nancy Heller, Judy Frankel, Connie Kelly, Ann Lichtenberger, Debby Triebel, Beth Garrott, Linda Imes, Lauri Olson, Linda Luthy, Sue Stepping, Shelley Sinker, Sue Kingsley, Marjorie Williams, Sheryl Cohen, Anne Johnson, and Sally Frankel.

VOCAL MUSIC CREATES FUN AND FRIENDSHIP

"I think that what sticks out in your mind most when you think of what you received from participating in a vocal ensemble is all the fun you have had! Singing at old folks' homes, luncheons, and entertaining grade schoolers means not only an easy way out of class for a few hours, but it also causes you to become extremely close to those special people in your ensemble. There is a special feeling that only a singer has experienced; it occurs when your voice is lost in a perfect blending of about twelve other voices — it's a feeling of perfection, and it makes all the long hours of practice seem worth it."

THE HALLS WERE ALIVE . . .

MADRIGAL SINGERS: Row 1, L-R: J. Frankel, S. Stepping, D. Mc Dowell, S. Collins, J. Chelgren, J. McCormick. Row 2: L-R: J. Evers, B. Hackett, S. Sturdivant, L. Scott, E. Berger, J. Grobeck, B. Read, S. Alloy.

Richwoods has a fine reputation in turning out students with fantastic musical abilities. As well it should for the music department offers a variety of means for a person to enrich his musical knowledge. There is a freshman chorus which meets three days a week and the other days the girls are free to study. If a freshman decides to continue, there is the sophomore girls' chorus, and then Acapella, which includes only the most dedicated junior and senior students. Acapella is a mixed choir. Every guy is offered the opportunity to be in an ensemble. Girls are also allowed to compete for a place in one of the extracurricular ensembles, ultimately leading to the Harmo-Knights. If one's tastes run to the classical, the Madrigals are a mixed ensemble involved in classic music. These ensembles meet outside of class and travel to various grade schools, etc. Every person is thus given a chance to participate and discover himself in the fascinating field of music.

The Harmo-Knights perform during the annual Wint concert.

. . . WITH THE VOICES OF OUR KNIGHTS

two days before school, just in time,
mrs. nelson came that morning at 11,
for here was a woman, right in her prime,
to come early to practice at 7.
football season soon arrived
and we opened with st. louis blues.
those murderous kicklines i knew were survived,
even the switcheroos!!!
homecoming was another story —
the rain poured harder than nails.
while pam and sonia rode by in glory,
we stood soaking wet — like 35 pails.
then came the big santa claus parade
and we were really set to go . . .
if we pulled off a good one, we would have made
it halfway there to the next broadway show!
christmastime came right around the bend and "winter wonderland" was the evening's presentation.
one by one we rippled down to the very end,
and "happy holidays" brought thunderation!!
basketball season was well underway
with "peter gun" as the evening's score.
but after we stood there, i began to pray,
as the crowd shouted, "what are we waiting for??!"
it was mass turmoil and utter confusion —
(poor l.t. was up front all alone!!)
as we scrambled into "fight song", a mere allusion appeared as i listened to molly moan.
the senior routine, despite the flu,
went on with great success.
but there was "no time left for you . . ."
or me, to put it, nonetheless.
the last few days i cursed and cursed, and off the handle i flew.
yet deep inside
i felt much pride,
knowing at the last minute, we'd pull through!
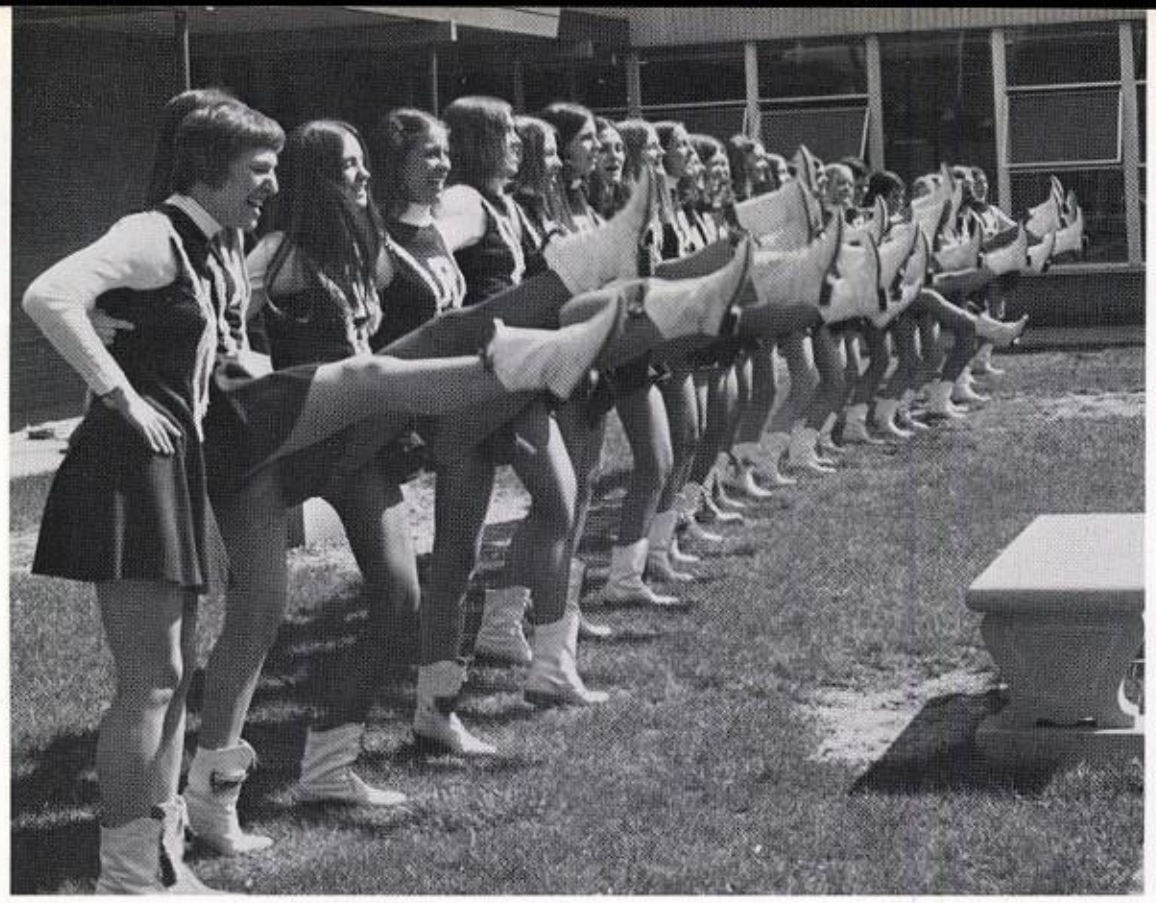
so here it is, the last of them all,
i can't believe it's really here.
and i'll be leaving this next fall,
forcing a smile, but not a tear.



Hours and hours of practice are needed in order to perfect the kickline.

OUR MUSICIANS MARCH ON

What's that drumming? Feet — hundreds of feet marching along. Is it a teachers' strike? A security guard dress parade? No — its the Richwoods Marching Band. How much do you know about our marching Knights? They're out there every morning during the football season at quarter till eight working up half-time shows. Everyone in the band well knows the sound of commands through the bullhorn and the feel of a mouthpiece on the lips when its around 12 degrees with the wind chill. Uniforms that fall apart, rained out homecoming shows — what makes the band keep on trucking? Sometimes it's hard to say. It's the feeling you get after winning a long parade competition; that burnt out but victorious feeling of accomplishment that makes it all worth it. It's marching around the track and watching you-know-who drop the baton on the first spin. It's playing the fight song at pep assemblies and marching the halls before homecoming. It's losing your music under the bleachers and faking the Star Spangled Banner after some creep flips the lights off. It's the Milt cheer at every game. It's everything and anything. There really is no way to describe the way one feels about being in the band — just that it feels good to be there every time the music starts.

The Richwoods Swim Timers consists of twenty-eight interested girls of the R.H.S. Guard who donate a few Wednesdays and Saturdays of the swimming season to help time at home swim meets. Before the season began, it was required of them to attend three workshops. Here they learned how to use a stopwatch and the basic rules that should be known to be a timer.

Senior Beth Garrott gives helpful advice to one of her swim-schoolers.

Richwoods Guard, one of the bigger organizations at RHS, consists of students who teach children of all ages in the community how to swim. These classes are held every Saturday morning from October through May. The Guard officially opened this year by earning $8300 in the annual "Swim-A-Thon". This year proceeds went to St. Judes. Later in the year, the guards write and present a guard water show. A banquet terminates the year for Guard with a few presentations and awards. The following students make up the Guard: D. Anderson, C. Bowers, B. Braunagel, S. Binder, G. Foss, B. Garrott, C. Hanson, C. Haupt, D. & L. Henderson, L. Imes, J. Liess, L. Luthy, M. & M. McCallen, W. Rogy, S. Stepping, L. Tinthoff, M. FORENSICS

Contestant 5B stares intently down at his script, giving it a final going-over. The judge, who has been poring over the last contestant's critique, suddenly looks up.

"Okay, I think we're ready for . . . 5B." 5B rises from his desk and walks to the front of the room. He glances at the floor, takes a deep breath, raises his head, and begins.

Oratory, Dramatic Duet Acting, Humorous Duet Acting, Radio Speaking, Oratorical Declamation, Prose Reading, Verse Reading, Humorous Interpretation, Dramatic Interpretation, Original Comedy, Special Occasion Speaking, Extemporaneous Speaking. These twelve events are what Forensics is all about.

Forensic team members choose one or two of the above events, and whether it be an original event, such as Oratory, which requires an eight minute oration, or one of the interpretive events, such as Duet Acting, where th two partners select and perform an eight minute cutting from a drama or humorous play, the competition that the team members encounter at the various invitational tournaments makes winning all the more worthwhile.

FORENSICS: (Standing) Kathy Gabel, Randy Rochmen, Steve Fondrast, Dave Ptasnik, Steve Alloy, Paul Danner, John Powell, Tom Thomas, Boyd Griffin, Tom Teak. (Sitting) Darcy Lebau, Molly McCallen, Janet Slight, Diana Deatheridge, Debbie Hunt, Julie Smith, Debbie Haerr, Debbie McCarty, Sheryl Cohen, Laura Larson.

The debaters of RHS are under the steady guidance of Mr. Rolinski, and have been successful since he has been at the helm of the "Defilers," as the debaters call themselves. The novice debate team has been outstanding for the last few years, and this year is no exception. Novice debaters are those who have not debated before in high school competition. The Varsity teams are supposedly better than the "Novi" and come up against tougher competition.

Debaters work hard collecting evidence and making cases but the rewards are numerous: glory for oneself and the school, travel around the state for tournaments, a comprehensive knowledge of many areas, and the ability to put arguments into a logical form.

ART CLUB

Every month we meet in room 154. We sit around and argue sometimes, but I guess in the end it pays off. You see, we belong to the Art Club. Because of our interest in art and related careers, we get to go on various field trips and hear numbers of different individuals who are experts in these fields. In order to broaden our knowledge in the gigantic field of art, we get to visit many large museums and exhibits.

MONITORS

SECRETARIES

This year, as in all other years, monitors have given up their study halls in order to help Richwoods run smoother and more efficiently. The monitor staff for one hour consists of a runner, office worker, and four hall monitors, one for each hall. They do such jobs as collecting the attendance slips, delivering passes and messages, plus the absentee reports.

The student secretaries are numbered at twelve this year. They consist of student volunteers who are assigned to help at secretarial tasks for several departments.

SECRETARIES: L-R. Row 1: J. Cole, S. Jones, C. Adams, M. Brown. Row 2: P. Hathaway, D. Saul, C. Kelly, D. Widein, N. Owens.

KEY CLUB: L-R: T. Carrigan, J. Evers, K. Brant, G. Peterson, Mr. Crooks (sponsor), S. Cain;, G. Cannon, B. Cannon, P. Marlin.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS CLUB

The Industrial Arts Club is composed of students who are presently or have been in industrail art classes. The primary function of this club is to provide an educational and social opportunity beyond the classroom. Some of the activities are evening field trips to local industries, inter-club basketball and swimming, and an all day trip. The local club is affiliated with the Ill. Industrial Arts State Club.

SENIORS STRIVE FOR NEW HEIGHTS IN ATHLETIC LEADERSHIP

The definite assets to the physical education department are its senior leaders. In order to become a leader, a student must sign up his sophomore year and be accepted into the junior leader class. If they make the final cut, they then give up a study hall during senior year to assist a teacher in various tasks. This includes locker room supervision, equipment preparation, and maintaining order.

ECOLOGY CLUB AND LAB ASSISTANTS

This year the Ecology Seminar, in cooperation with the Army Reserve collected over 30,000 lbs. of paper and magazines for recycling. The paper was picked up the first Sat. of every month along with cans and glass to be recycled.

The lab assistants serve the school by allowing the teachers more time with their class and individual students. They make solutions, transport equipment from room to room, grow cultures, and clean glassware. They are of tremendous service to our school.

Now . . . pull the trigger.

Every Wednesday the Richwoods Rifle Club meets at the Armory after school to shoot their .22 caliber rimfire rifles. Since there are no other high school rifle clubs in the area, there is no competition. So for a period of about two hours, the members shoot to learn of safety and to improve their shooting ability. This club is an official National Rifle Association affiliated club, taught by Mr. McCumber. Senior Doug Sprick serves as their president. During the first six weeks there is a training session and a test which you must pass to shoot, plus a six dollar fee to cover the ammunition. It is best if each member has his own rifle but the club does own a couple. The members shoot for ratings in the National Rifle Association 50 Foot Marksmanship Qualification Program. Starting at pro-marksman, each member works upward through 15 different ratings to reach the top, Distinguished Expert. For the various qualifications each must shoot required scores in the following positions: prone, sitting, kneeling, and standing. Though the only competition is within the club, these riflemen still have a great time.

They exhibit their coordinated skills at gatherings of the German-American Society and special engagements. The Kaiser Wilhelm Ratskeller Brummers provide the musical accompaniment.

Mr. Clement goes Hollywood!!

AUDIO-VISUAL AIDES

The Audiovisual Aides not only deliver and pick up equipment for teachers but they also serve the school in many other says. They video tape athletic events, assisting with plays and evening programs, operating equipment for assembly programs, and assisting students with special projects. Each member is required to learn how to operate each piece of the audio visual equipment plus the PA system in the gym, auditorium, and the stadium.

If a student puts in four years as an Assistant, they receive 1½ credits.

The promotion of spirit throughout Richwoods was the main objective of this year's Pep Club. Under the guidance of Mrs. Snarr, this group of students spent many hours in the construction of posters, signs, and buttons. They even performed over the morning announcements, singing a variety of spirited songs.

1974 attested the inception of a neoteric consociation at R.H.S. Occasioned by velocipede ebulliences Chris Rhodes, Jon Rose, and Cameron Ferguson, with Mr. Probst as a surety, the Cranking Crew first met and elected functionaries in February. A portion of the contingencies delineated appertained: biparous workshops (with the coadjurancy of Mark Williams), multifarious tours and reflections in the yokeldon, a noctivagant ride, a Century (100 miles per day), and a cycle castrametation. (The preceding article can be attributed to the Bicycle Club's president, Chris Rhodes.)

Contrary to popular belief, library assistants are still in existence. These students donate one hour daily in order to perform such tasks as shelving books, filling magazine requests, checking out literature, etc. Most students work during their study halls, though some extra-devoted ones volunteer their services before and after school. One thing is certain: Without library assistants, our R.H.S. library wouldn't function nearly as well as it does.

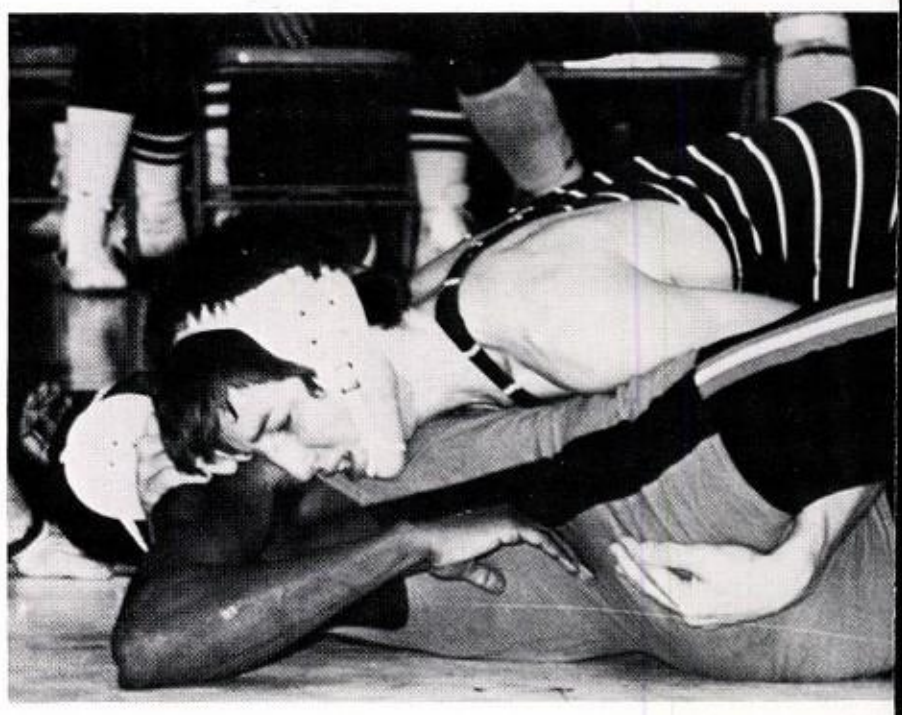
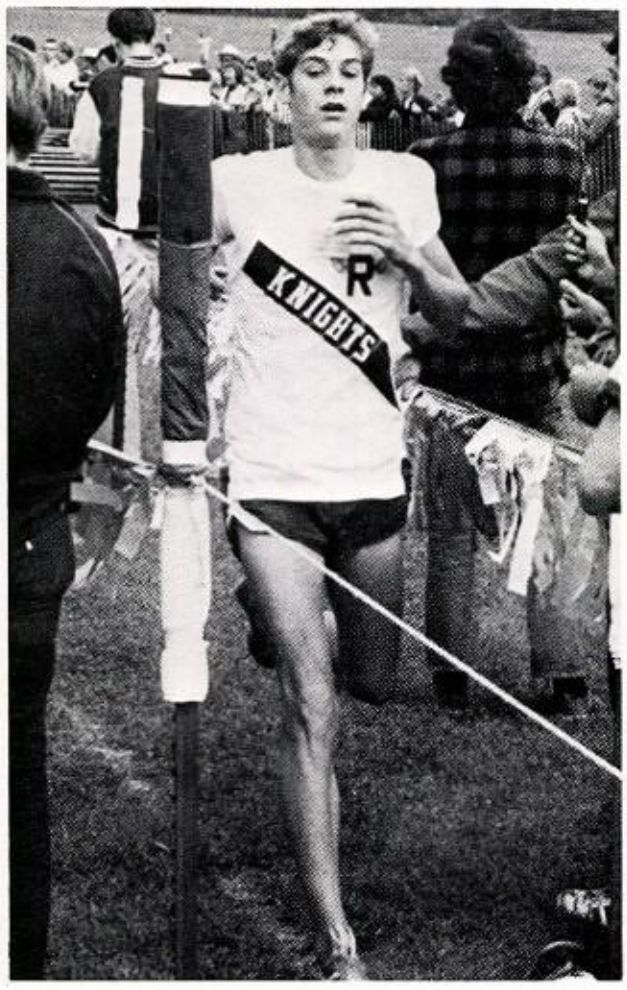
In their frequent appearances, the Pakia boys amazed all with their unyielding spirit.



Joel Simons grimaces in tense competition.

Steve Patterson polishes off another performance for RHS.



For a basically sports-oriented school, RHS had to undergo a number of drastic attitude changes this year. Our athletic year started out with a shocker; the mighty reputation of our football team was greatly reduced by a disappointing 3-8 record. It was time for the student body to sit down and look at our sports programs as a whole. The RHS athletic teams are composed of a number of dedicated and talented boys and girls who need, above all else, unfaltering support of the students and general public. When the competition appears to be too stiff, a drop in student spirit can cause the death of a good athletic team. The total spectator turnout at a wrestling or swimming meet as compared to that of a basketball game also showed a drastic lack of care. However, students began to realize that a good athletics school involved more than just a high basketball game attendance — those involved in sports are only human beings, and we finally began to view them as such.

No Fuel Shortage Here!

Carrying on with Richwoods High School's fine tradition of Cross-Country teams was the 1973 squad. With an excellent season of eleven wins and two losses, our exceptionally young harriers farred extremely well at area courses. The only two lettermen returning from last year's team were Steve Patterson and Virgil Anderson, who led the way toward victories over nearly every area squad, with the exception of Central, our solid rival team. In a disappointing bid for the Mid State-Nine title, our runners finished a safe third, topped only by the strong teams of Peoria High and Spalding.

Third in Mid-State Nine

Rounding up the Varsity lineup are senior Phil Addy, juniors Paul Brant, Rod Hassler, Jim Benner, Chip Pitcher, and sophomore Chris Rider. Hours of running over miles of roadways during the summer paid off with a respectable eleventh place finish at the Ottawa Invitational; Steve Patterson and Chip Pitcher carved a first place pathway for their squad at the Normal Invitational. Overall, 1973 was a satisfying year in preparing for a strong team in '74.

Young Harriers Predict Bright Future

As he described the 1973 Junior-Varsity Cross-Country squad as being "promising" in early season, little did Coach Franklin know that he had quite a talented bunch on his hands! Trotting in top position was sophomore Tim Dooley, who led the J-V team to its nine wins, one loss season record. The younger harriers followed their varsity counterparts in placing third in the MS-9 conference.

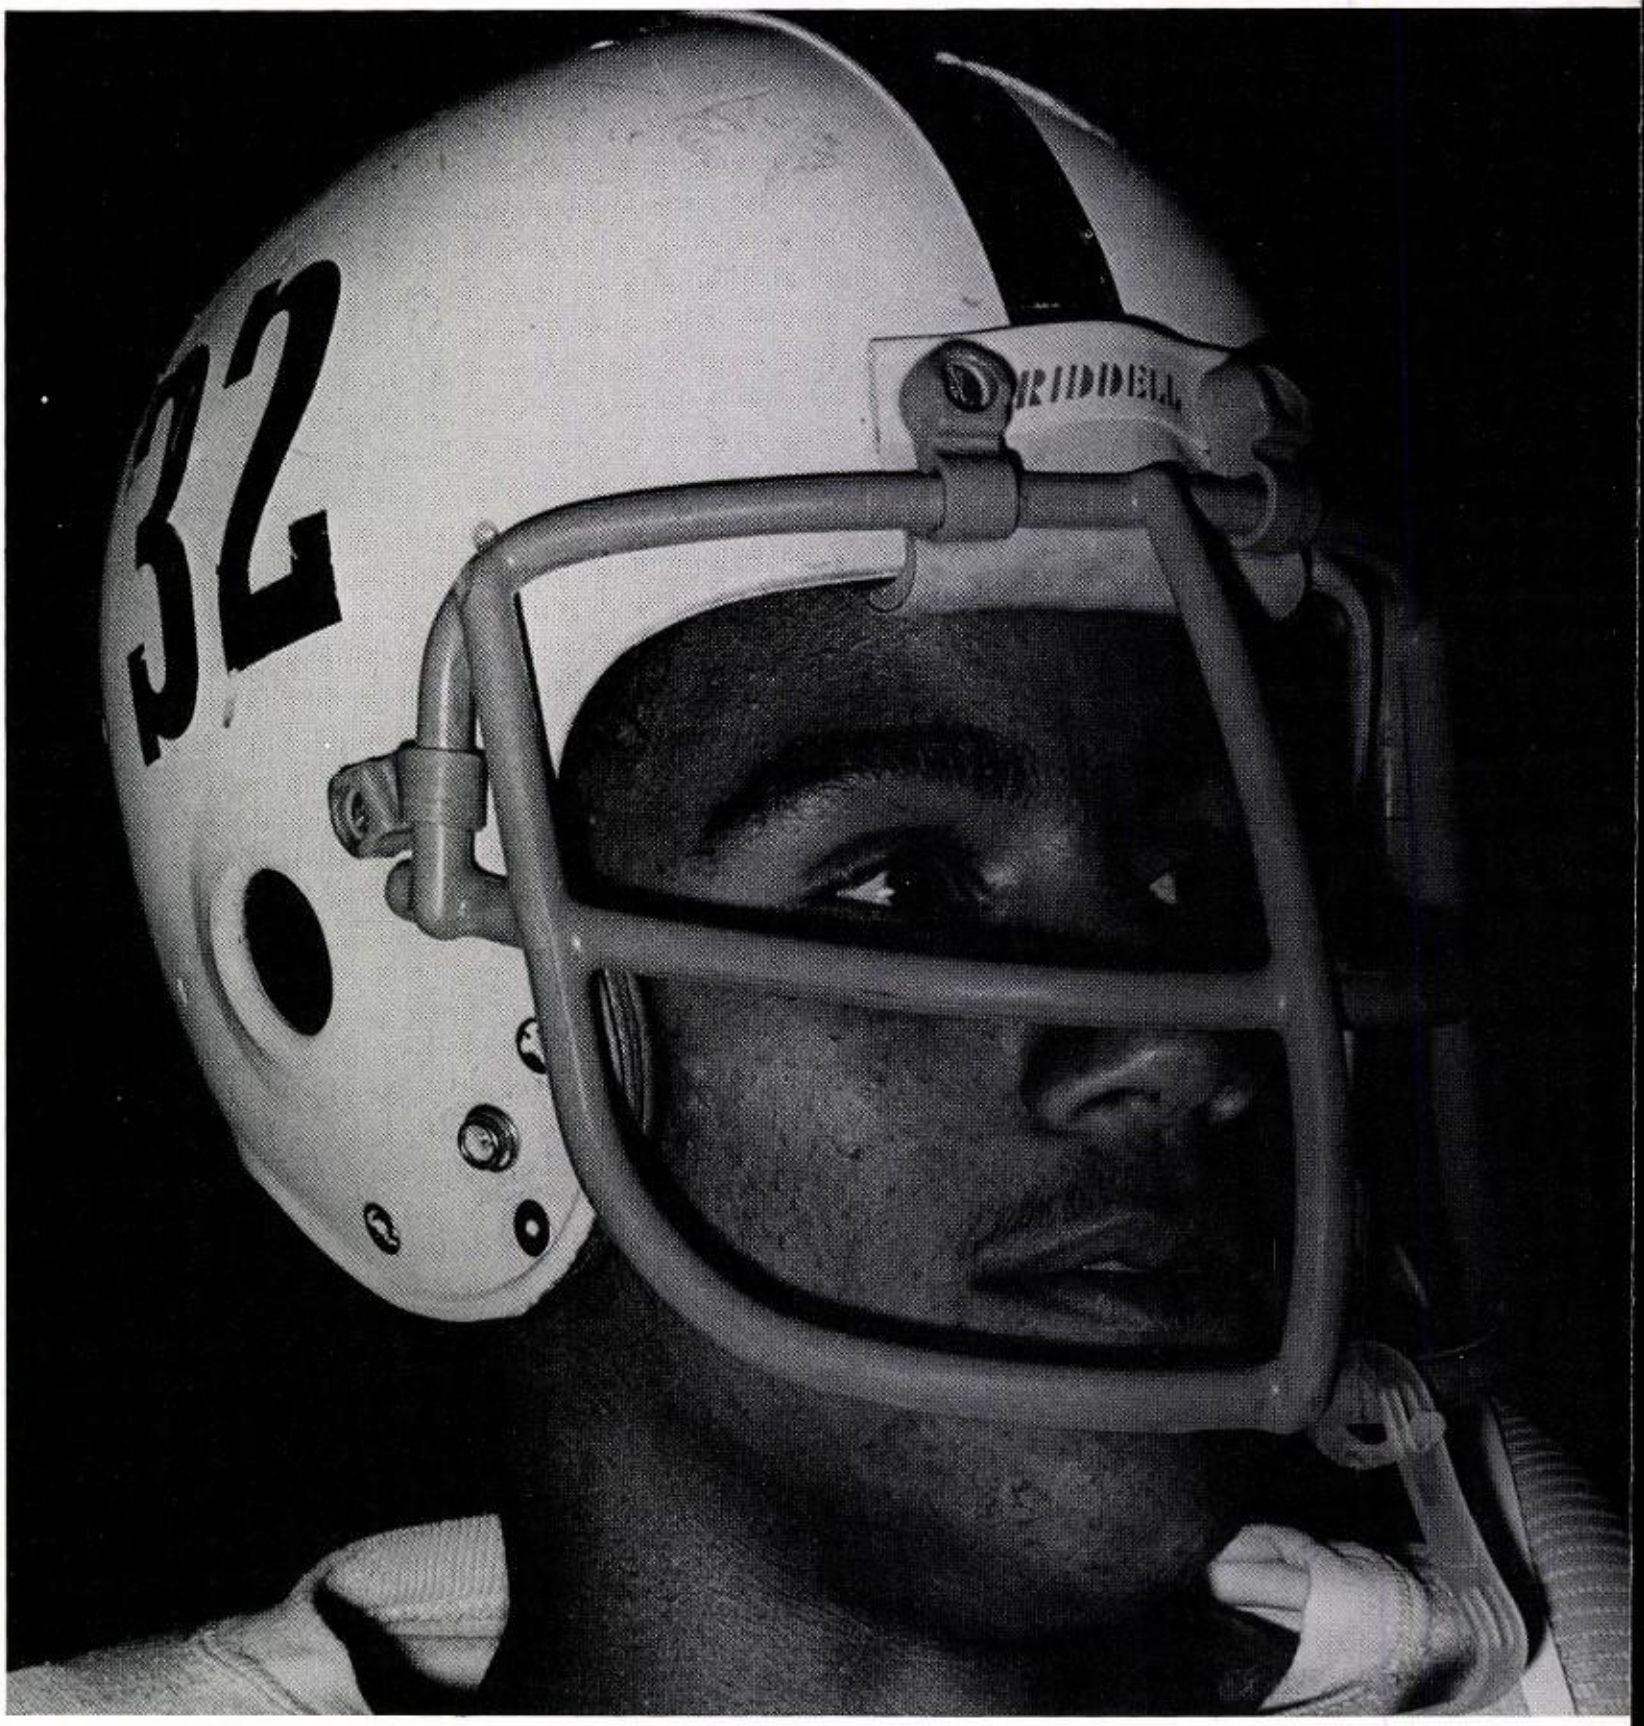
FOOTBALL



Knights in action.

Knights Bear A 3-8 Record

Inconsistent. This is the only word that can truly sum up our 1973 Varsity Football season. Although many encouraging predictions appeared, favoring what seemed to be an incredibly tallented squad, Richwoods could not live up to its state-wide reputation as an outstanding football team. Only eight members of the 1973 squad were seniors, and the rest were a group of juniors who lacked the experience and sense of unity which was of major importance in previous RHS squads. Because of the absense of this essential element, our players could not seem to get together and play as a total team, with a united effort.

You're in good hands with senior Keith Colgrove.

The Thornridge game was a shocker. Could the invincible Knights be dethroned? The first two non-conference games proved this entirely possible as they kicked our team off to its first losing campaign since 1967. Starting off our MS-9 competition was a relieving victory over Pekin; unfortunately this was followed by a downhill slope, reaching a low point with a soggy homecoming defeat by Bergan. Hopefully an error-pervaded season will teach next year's team to learn from its past mistakes.

BASKETBALL

Scott Mach and Dereck Holcolm seem awed at Ray Bailey's determination in getting that ball!

The Best Ever!

Following an extremely disappointing grid season, we thought nothing could bring us back up to the high athletic reputation we were accustomed to — then came our cagers! Just the right combination — all the muscle, the height, the speed, the skill, and most of all, the determination which makes a team phenomenal shone clearly through our basketball squad. With a starting lineup of seniors Ray Bailey, Dave Krick, Dave Loyd, junior Chris Williams, and sophomore Dereck Holcolm, our team performed like a specially programmed computer — one programmed to WIN. The amazing point potential of Williams, along with the indefatigable strength of the other players, shot the Knights almost immediately to an all-time high state ranking, and a well-deserved MS-9 championship.

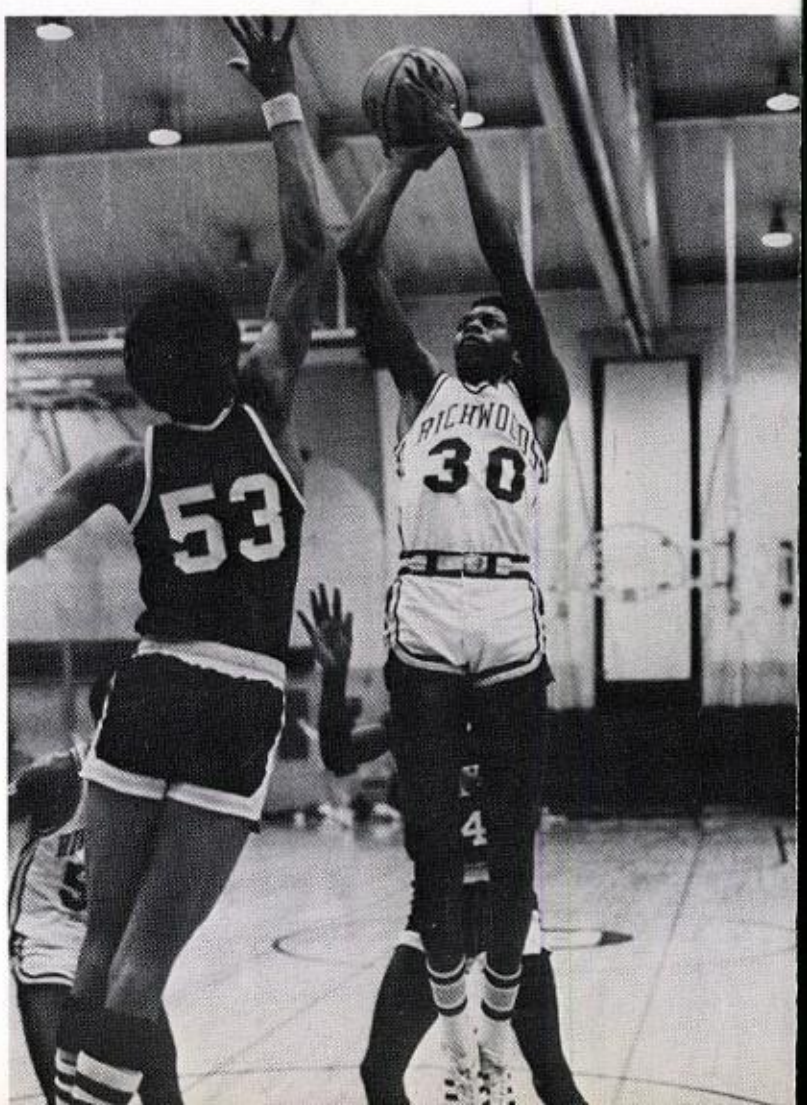
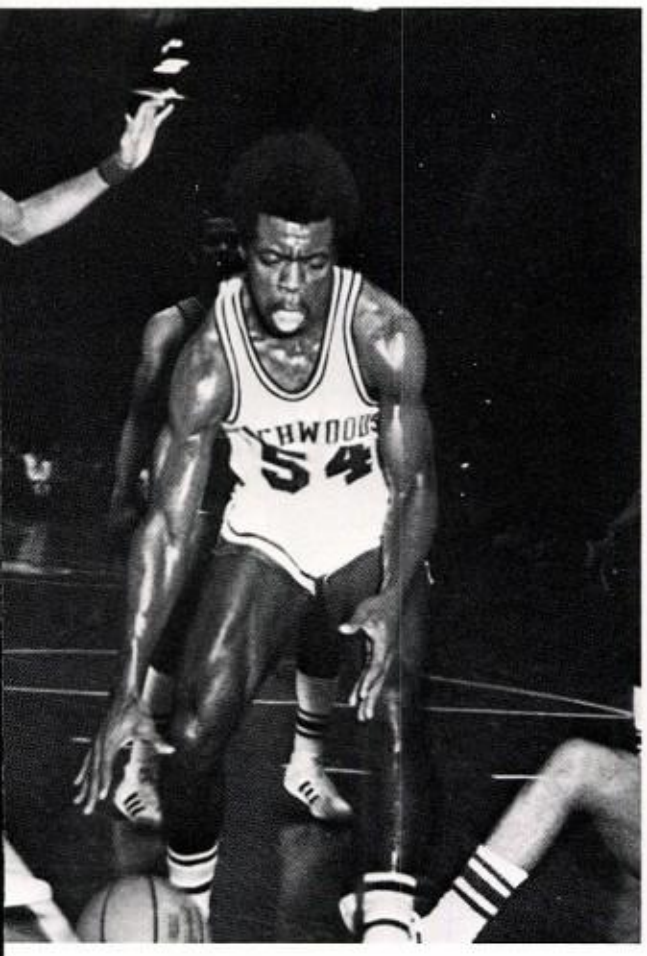
On the Move Toward First in MS-9

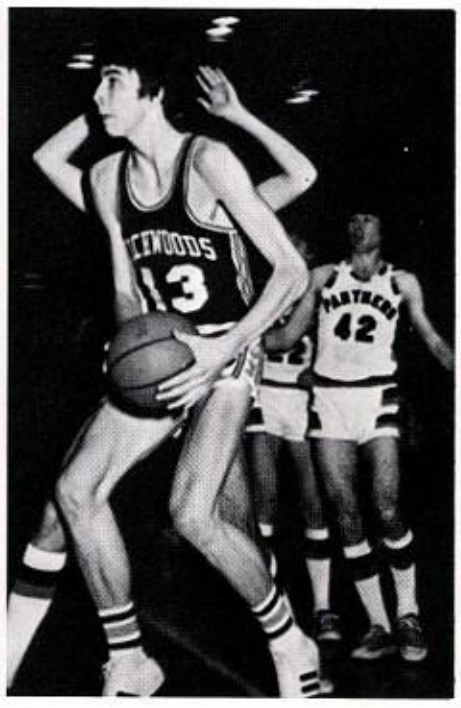
With all starters carrying a double-figured game point average, a "close" game was a rare sight for Richwoods' champion team . . . and the newspaper raves came in from all around, reaching a climax with a complementary write-up in the Chicago Tribune. All eyes were fixed upon our amazing basketballers, who won the Pekin Tournament hands down, then went on to stake their claim on the conference title.

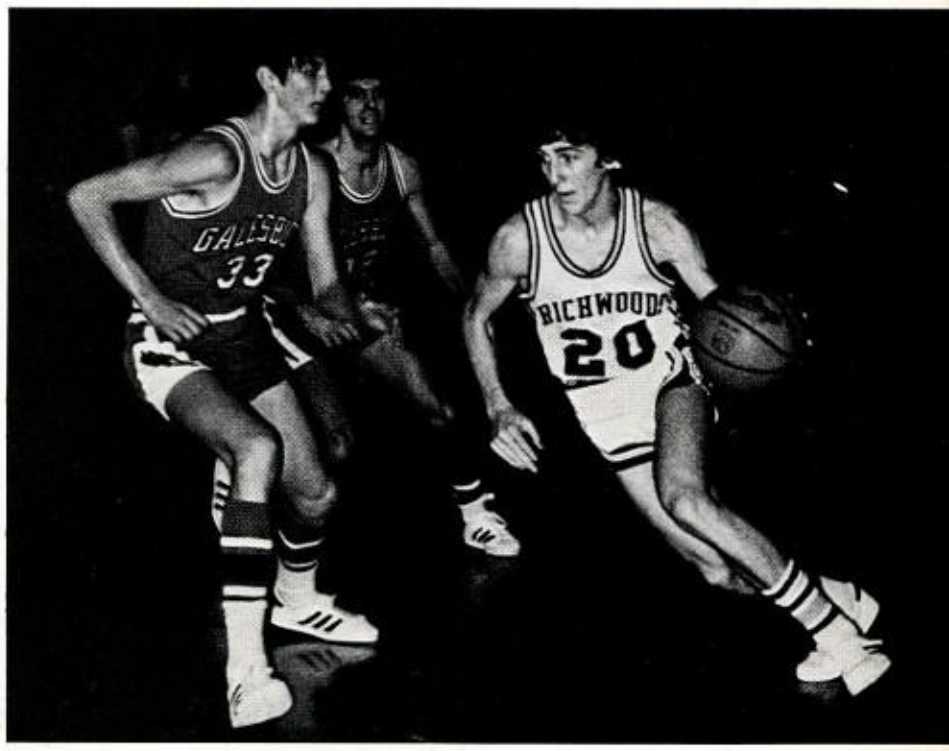




Ray Bailey grabs the ball.

"Hoke's" got it!





Dave "Turtle" Krick keeps up pace at the regional championship game.

Knights Win Regional

After capturing the Mid-State Nine trophy, the mighty Knights prepared for regional and sectional tournament play. A hair-raising showdown with the Silver Streaks of Galesburg proved our boys to still be the best, as they returned with the regional championship plaque. It was on to the sectionals. An easy win over Washington in the first round heightened our spirits as we looked on in nervous anticipation at the championship with Peoria Central's powerful team. Questionable officiating and the loss of two fine players in the fourth quarter brought us to a disappointing overtime defeat.

Chris Williams was named to the Illinois All-State basketball team.

The 1973-74 Varsity Cheerleading squad was chosen in March of 1973. From that day on, the word was PRACTICE! The first major event was the USCA Clinic held at the University of Iowa. Here it was up at 6:30 a.m. for a full day's practice, often until midnight. Alot of togetherness and cooperation — that's what they took to camp. What they came home with was twelve ribbons, six for cheers, pom pom routines, skits, tumbling, and individual talent. Lori Blahnik received the third place award for best cheerleader, while captain Nancy Wiesler won the first place cheerleader award. But the biggest and best award was the first place squad award, the Grand National Champions. The desire to work and be #1 made this squad a true success.

Practicing two times a week, the RHS Spirit Squad created many new chants and cheers. They attended many clinics, one of which was the Mid-State-Nine Wrestling Cheerleaders Clinic. During the season, they are kept very busy cheering for cross country, swimming, and wrestling, and traveling with the teams as much as possible.

A new dimension in cheering comes from Pakia. Lead by seniors Brian Read and Eric Berger, they never fail to bring out that "1 spirit.

This year was one of fun, excitement, and enthusiasm for the members of the Frosh.-Soph. squad. This squad is chosen in the fall, and these girls cheer for the first time at Homecoming. Like the varsity squad, they attend various clinics and summer camps, and put in long hours of practice. They cheer at all pep assemblies and frosh.-soph. games. Because of their hard efforts and true dedication, they deserve our support.

Richwoods had another "first" this year with the introduction of girl's interscholastic athletics. It was a long and hard struggle to attain this, but it was finally accomplished. There were five sports in which teams were set up for competition with surrounding schools. These were tennis, basketball, badminton, volleyball, and softball. Attendance at the games was rather minimal, limited mainly to the players' families, however, some RHS students and faculty attended. The teams were all very close-knit groups and had great attitudes. Coach Cindy Adams remarked, "I believe the experience was valuable to all who participated. The players have exhibited a healthy attitude toward competition which they, hopefully, will continue to possess."

The tennis team began their season in early September with matches played on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Ten girls were played on the team, with two singles and four doubles. Many competed at the district meet, and freshman Jan Zumwalt placed 2nd in the district, enabling her to go to the State meet in Arlington Heights. Richwoods placed 2nd in team standings at the district level.

The basketball team maintained a 8-2 season record. Practices were held on Mondays and Wednesdays, with games played on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Badminton practices were three times a week. A total of ten girls composed the team of two singles and four doubles.

Looking to next year, the coaches of girl's athletics, Miss Adams, Mrs. Kendall, and Miss Taylor, anticipate great seasons. Because this was the first year, a lot of experience and adjustment was needed.

A gentle spring rain . . . a welcome sight for most people. But the unusually wet spring of 1974 was a disappointing one for the netmen of our tennis team. This was a young team, with only three senior lettermen on the squad. However the young members held much potential, as did Greg Bell who, as a freshman, moved up behind his older brother Jeff and Bob Gottschalk to become third man on the team. The younger Bell combined forces with Gottschalk to take first place in doubles competition in the Mid-State Nine Conference and then on to the same honor at the District match.

A Year of Rebuilding

Finishing off the season with a 7-15 overall record, the varsity baseball team experienced a very disappointing 1974 season. Continuously bad weather haunted this relatively young team, consisting of only four senior squad members. Highlighting the team were catcher John Steffens, third baseman Jim Hughbanks, who held a batting average of .373, and Steve Houk, whose season mark of .410 qualified him for a place in the Peoria Journal Star's Mid-State 9 team.

"Come on, let's get some action in here!"

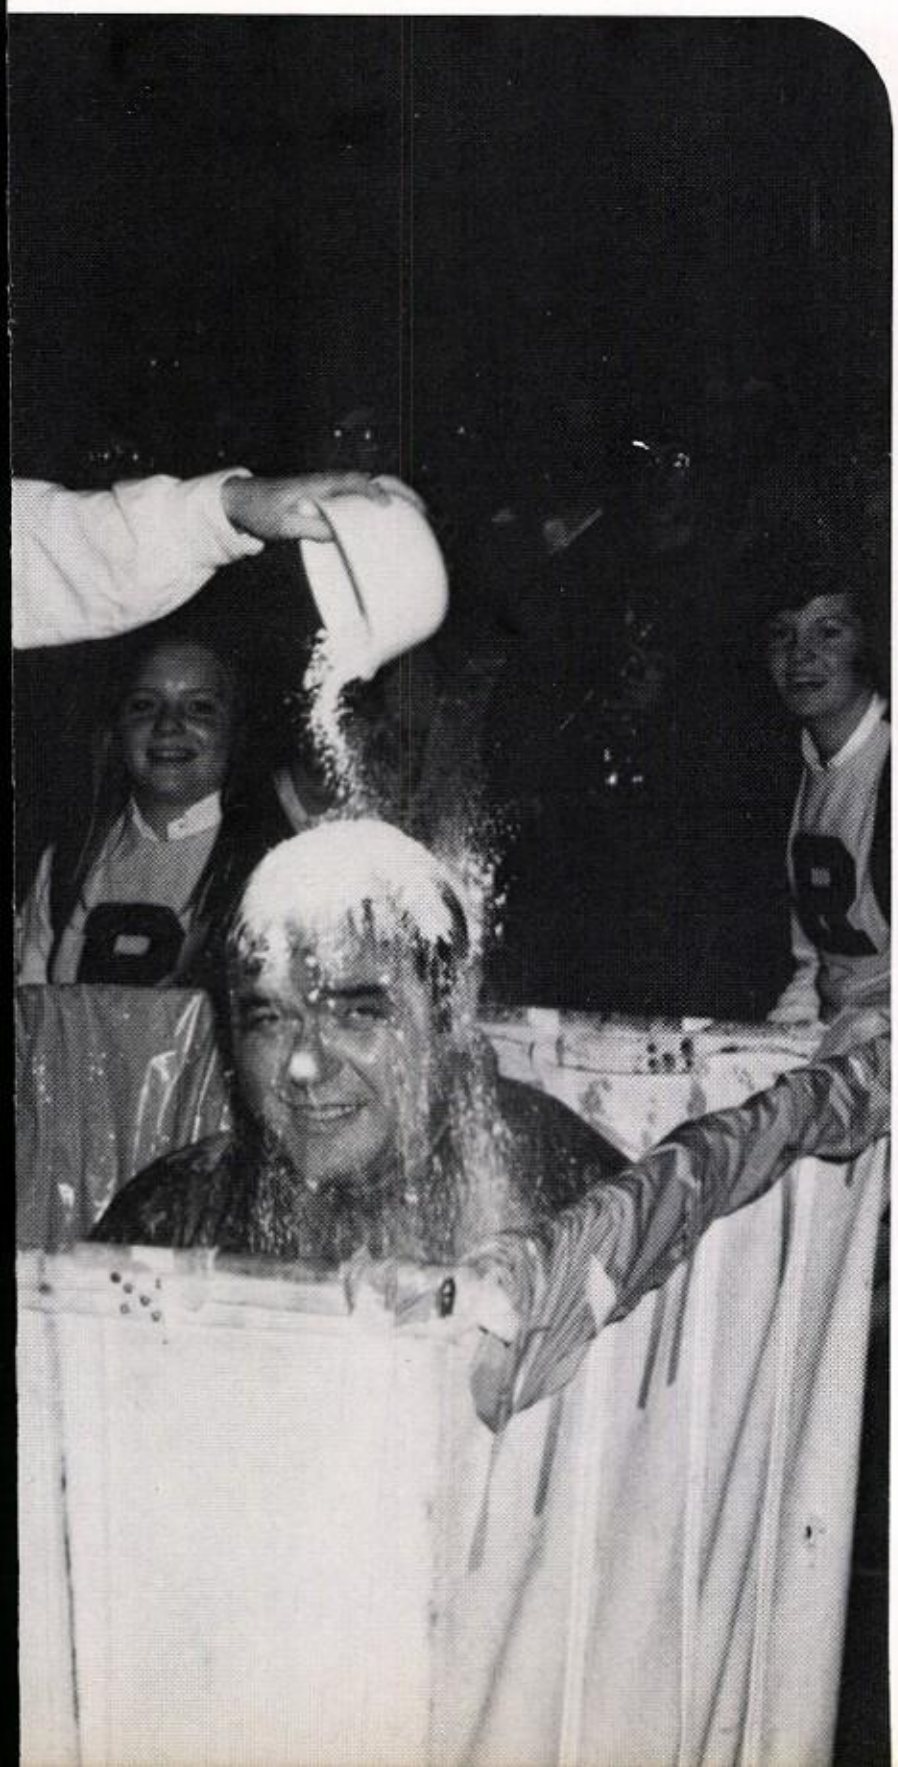
Our multi-faceted faculty display their prowess at the "charleston."

The female faculty members showed their spirit at the pep assembly for the sectional basketball tournament.

Mr. Baietto certainly does make a delicious-looking spirit cake, doesn't he?

Our security guards are vital in our existence here.



A group of teachers hired by Richwoods High School to educate the student body in subjects and skills basic to common knowledge — pretty well sums up the faculty, right? Wrong! The various members of the RHS faculty are more than just teachers; they not only instruct the students in those required courses such as English or U.S. History, but also in the science of life. This small group of people have a substantial hand in preparing a large group of young adults for a more fulfilling later life. The faculty was on the loose to prepare the students for successful futures.

The social sciences, history, psychology — all were offered in diversified abundance this year. Courses such as the freshman classic "Ancient Medevial History," in which heavy emphasis is placed upon knowledge of Italian lore, all the way to the Senior Stand-bys of sociology and psychology — all were absorbed, readily or otherwise, by RHS students. The great variety found in social science classes was the department's main asset, and this also kept the students interested. Vive la difference!

Art Department

The Art department of RHS runs strictly upon imagination. In these courses, not only can you create your own thing, but you can also get your ideas across by working with different media. Many students this year had the honor of winning ribbons and prize money for their work which they displayed in exhibits held annually. Much of the media used included paints, pastels, charcoal, clay, and cloth. Not only do the art classes compose works for class, but they have also helped out a great deal with many school functions.

Chorus is one big happy song.

"Practice makes perfect," a phrase well known by students who are active in the musical programs here at RHS.

The RHS marching band drums up the rhythm of our Fight Song. This year the band also marched in the Thanksgiving Parade and made a fine showing.

Our choirs delight audiences all year long at concerts. This year, for the first time ever, five soloists competed in the state vocal contest. Orchestra, a smaller branch, adds cultural beauty.

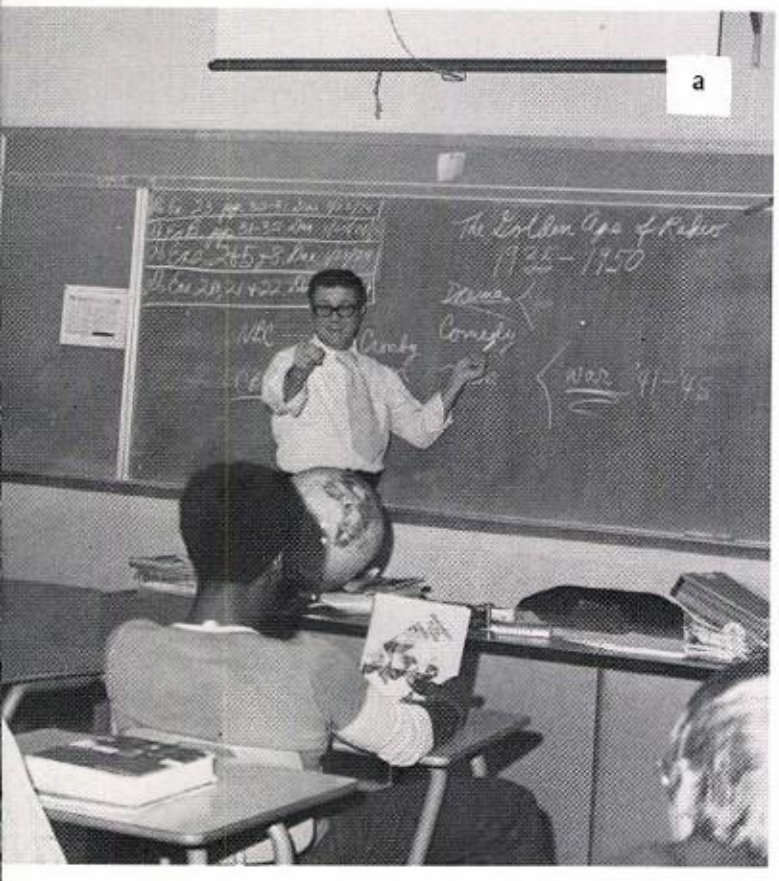
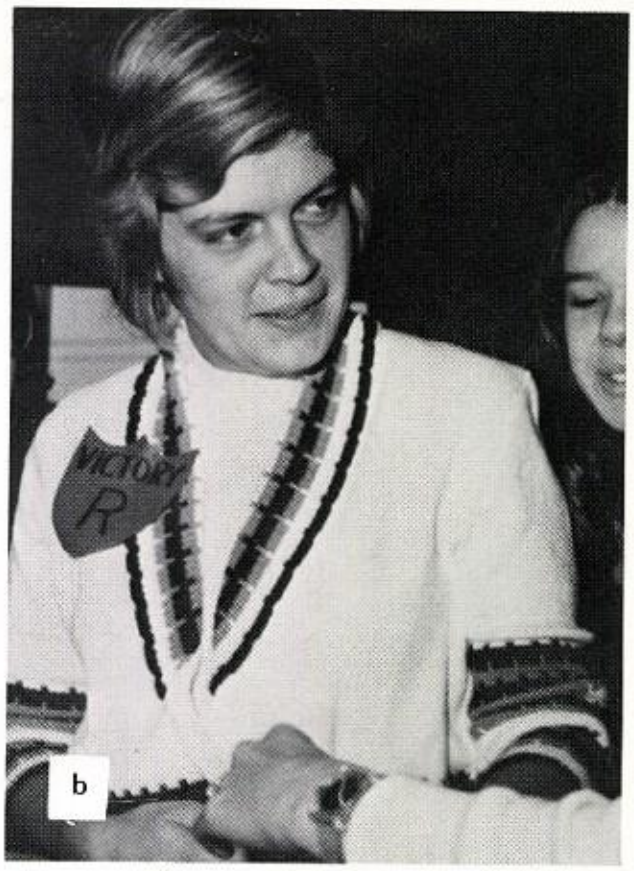
Thoughts for living.

The epitome of faculty spirit.

"Excellent, excellent!"





The Richwoods English Department has made several changes in the past years, but last year a major change was the institution of mini-courses for upperclassmen. This program was continued this year. A few offered were: "The Bible," "Appreciation of Fine Arts," "Death in Literature," and "Fantasy-Mystery." The wide variation of courses caused this to be a popular program.

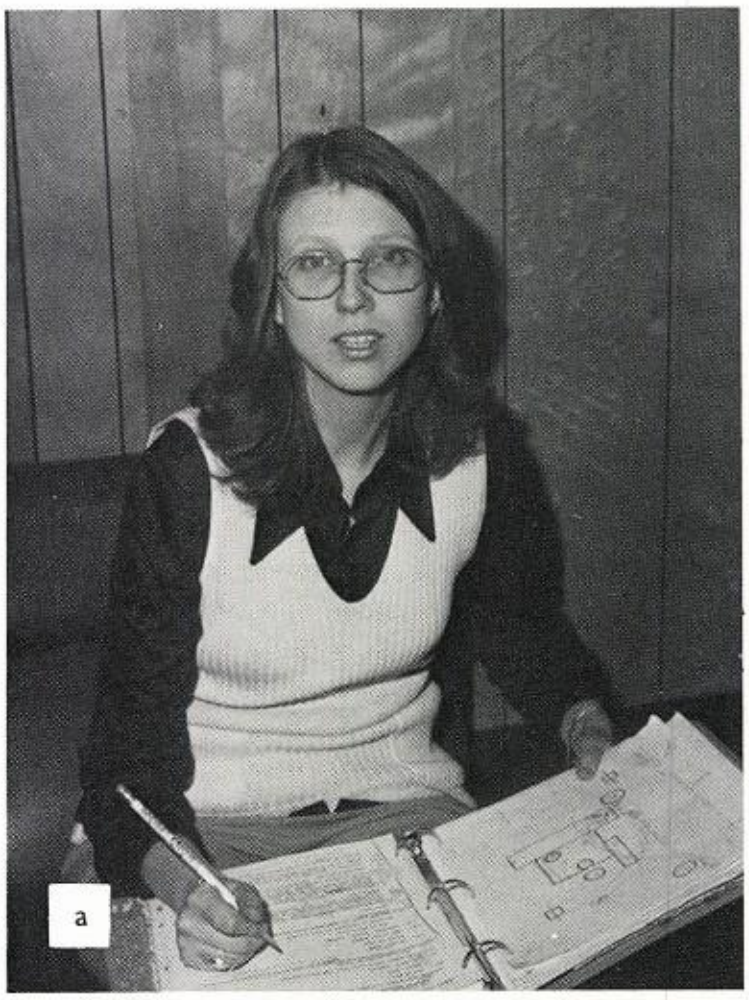
Speech and Drama

The Speech and Drama departments have brought reknown and success to Richwoods. This year started out with the fun and the frolic of the fall musical, "The Boyfriend," directed by Miss Murphy. Immediately following this, our speech and debate teams put in five months of work and effort. These, in addition to our Reader's Theatre group, and the contest play, "Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead," received many outstanding awards, thanks to the outside efforts put forth by our faculty members of the Drama department.



Blocking the contest play can only be done by an expert.

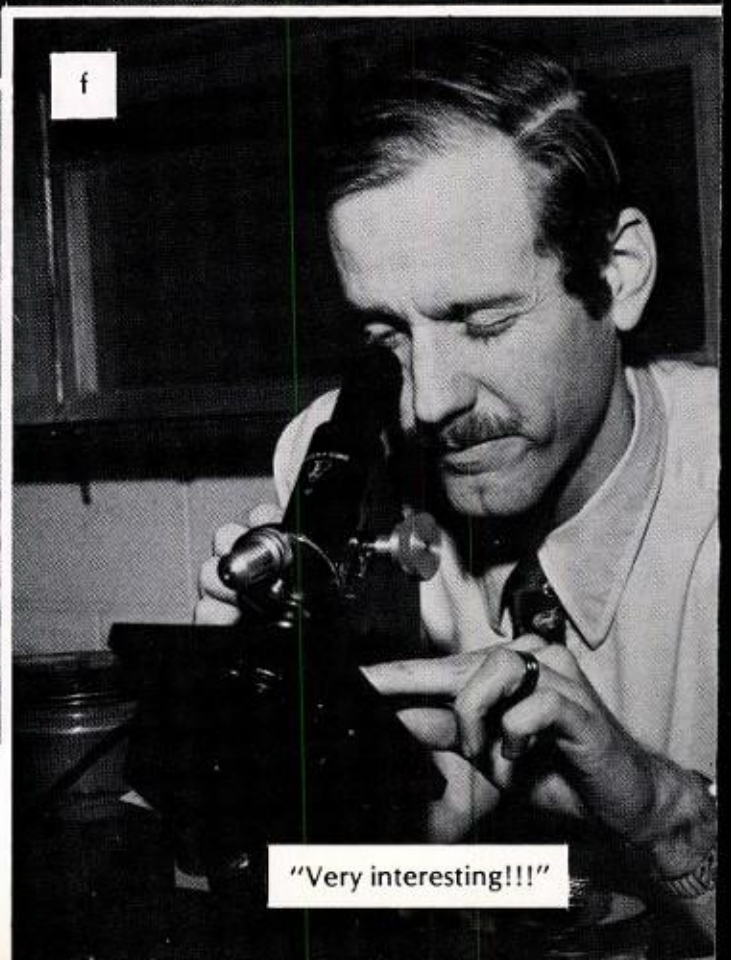
(e) Mrs. Abbey, Biology 1&2, Basic & Enriched.
(f) Mr. Kenneth Powell, Biology 1&2, Basic, Human Machine.



Science Department

Science is an everchanging field. By studying either biology, chemistry, physics, physiology, or the general sciences, students may gain a greater understanding of their natural environment. Mr. Thomas, a biology teacher, says, "Science, being the greatest and most important of all discipline, is an absolute must for all those who expect to be successful members of our society."

Cooking is basic to home living.

"How does it fit, girls?"

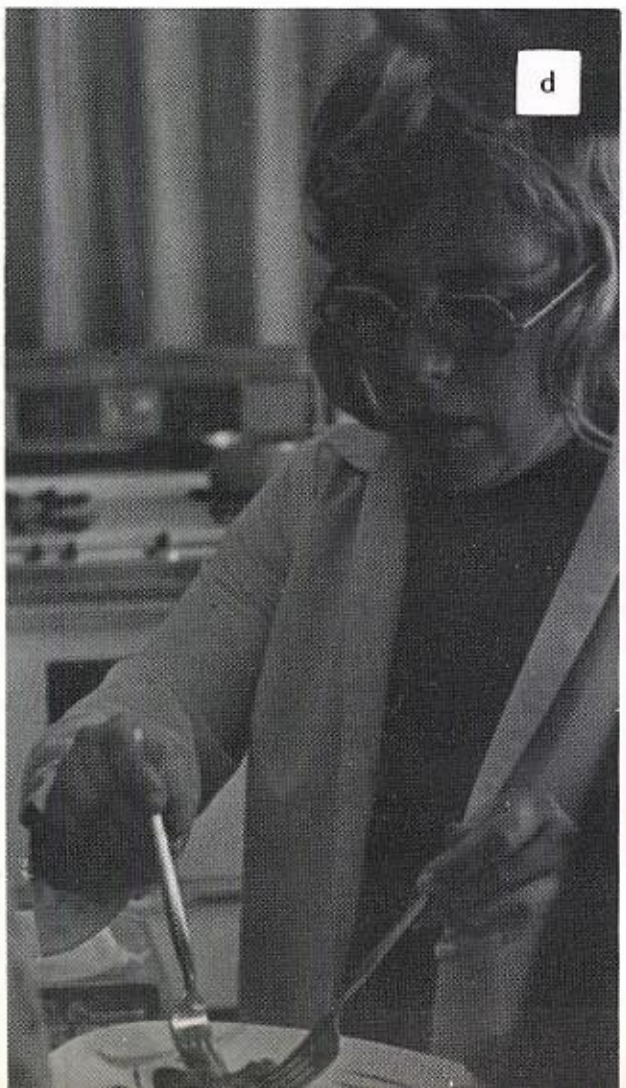
Epicure at work.

Bedmaking is not as hard as it appears.

Home Economics

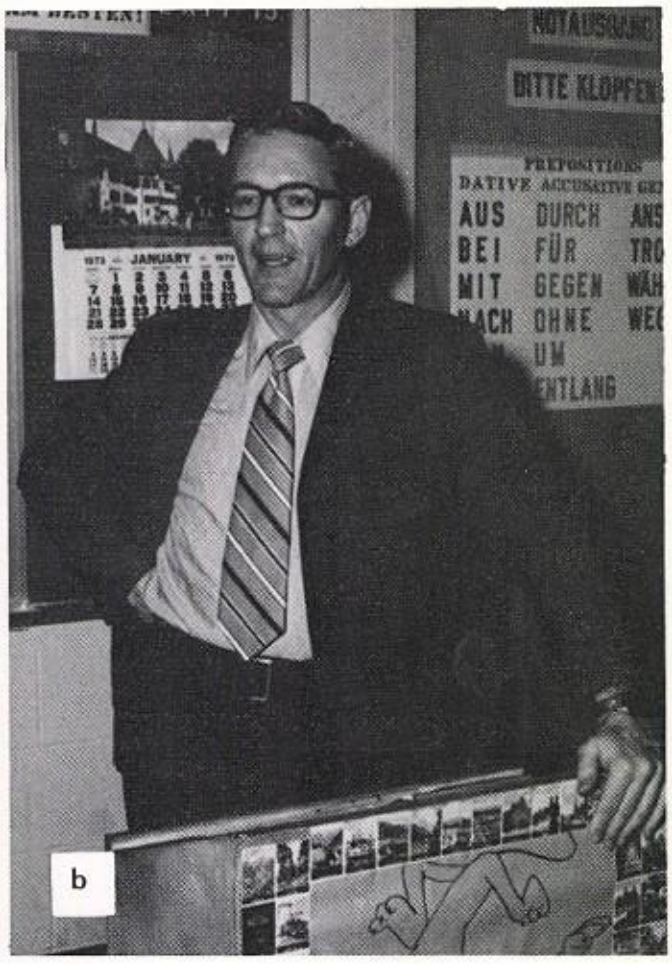
Home economics can be enticing aromas, well-tailored clothes, and the learning of other necessary skills. On the other hand, home economics has meant burnt food, a pricked finger, or an unmade bed. Many students here at RHS have experienced a little of both.

Students sure do catch on quickly!

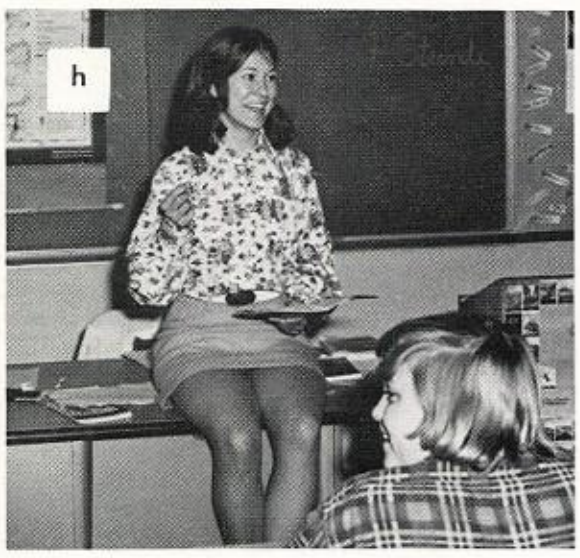


(a) Mrs. Judy Petzing, Foods 1&2, Family Living.
(b) Mrs. Mary Schultz, Home Management, Home Nursing, Clothing 1&2.
(c) Mrs. Mary Applegate, Clothing 3&4, Boys Foods, Sr. Homr Economics.
(d) Miss Sandra Freer, Boys Foods, Foods 1&2.
(e) Mrs. Patricia Bensing, Clothing 1&2, Child Development.

LANGUAGES LINK CULTURES

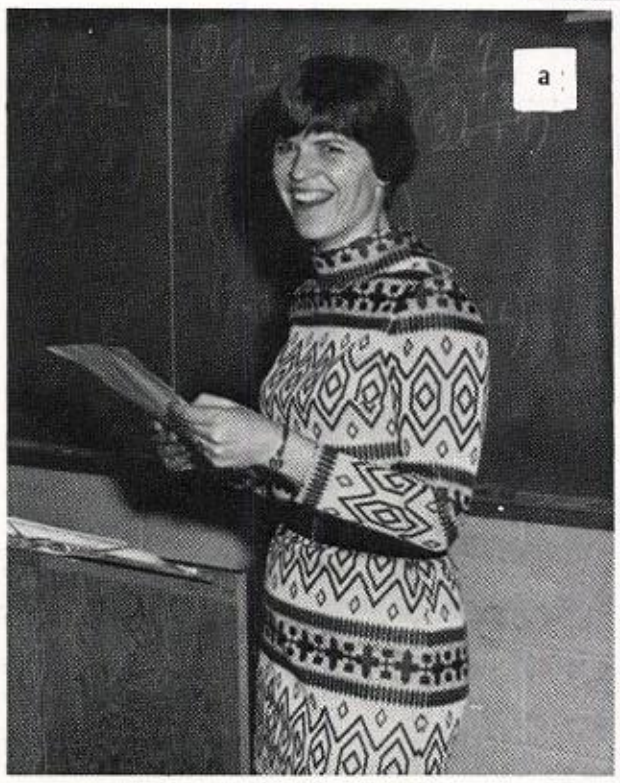


Through exposure to the foreign tongues and traditions taught in our language department, students become more familiar with life in other countries. Aside from gaining this new knowledge, a certain degree of fun is involved also. Anything from the vigorous exercise sustained in first year French pronunciation, to a guitar song sung by everyone's favorite Spanish teacher. All help to bring fun and variety into learning a new language.



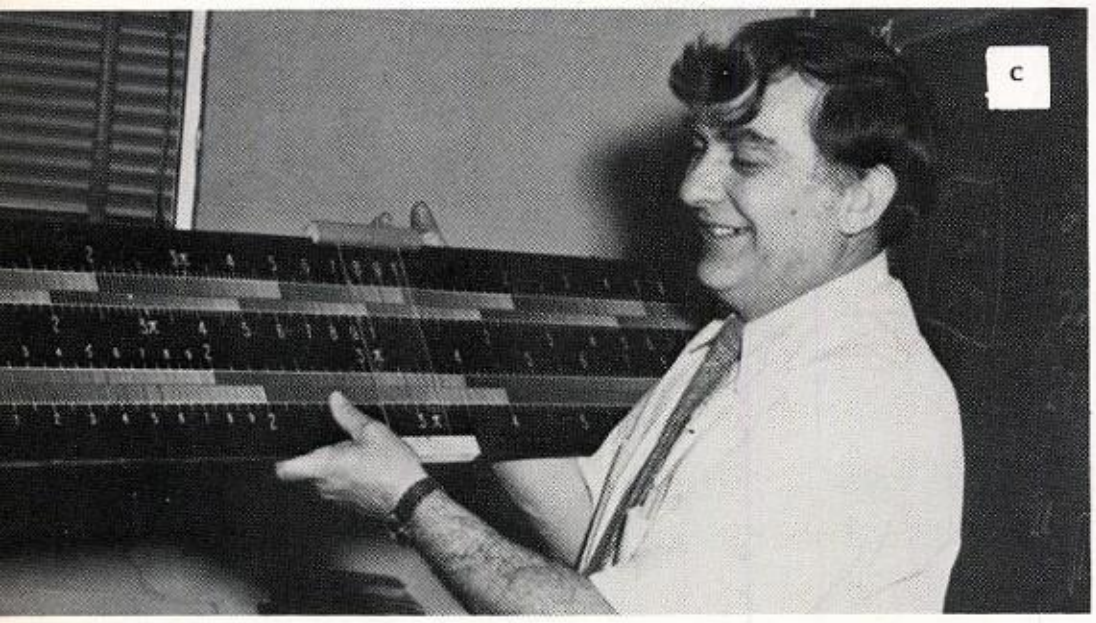
(a) Barbara Johnson, French 1,2,3 and 4
(b) William Beck, German 1,3 and 4.
(c) Joseph Diaz, Spanish 1,2 and 3.
(d) Connie Deatherage, Latin 1,2,3 and 4.
(e) Susan Roach, French 1,2 and 3.
(f) Orlando Hernandez, Spanish 1 and 2.
(g) Sanford Gordon, Spanish 1,2 and 4.
(h) Mrs. Lois Sabino, German 1 and 2.

Math Moves On!

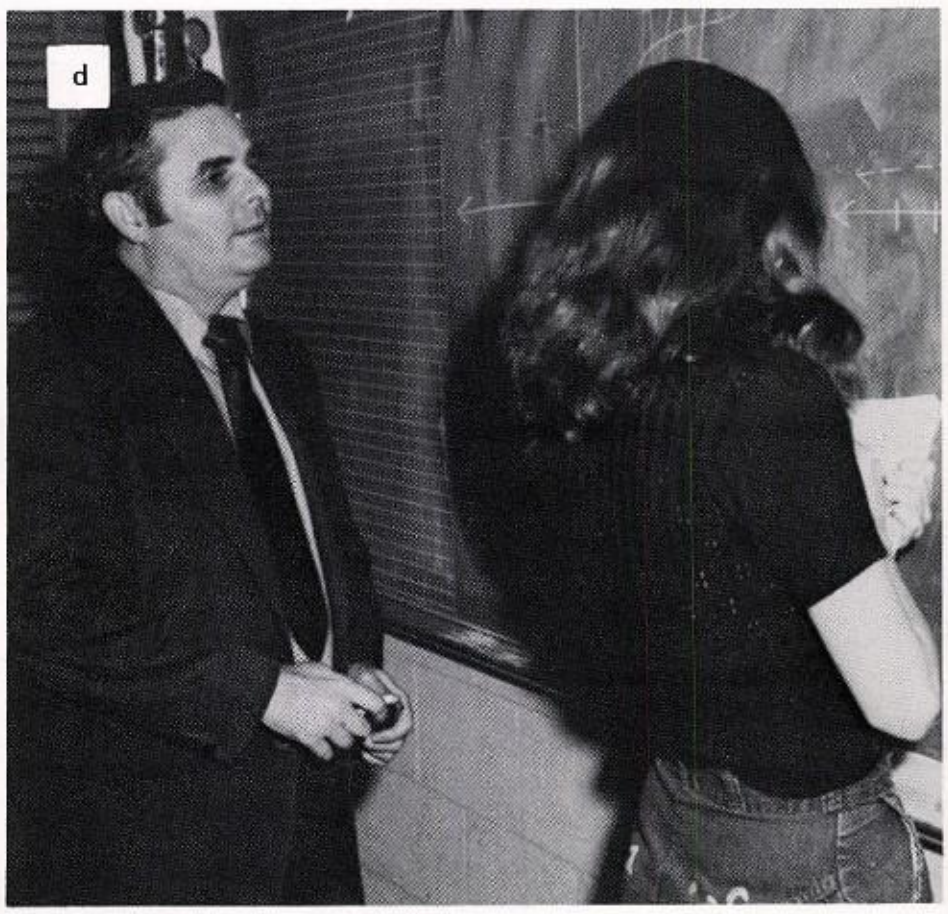


It's not that bad!

That's the way you do it.



Not the vest pocket variety.

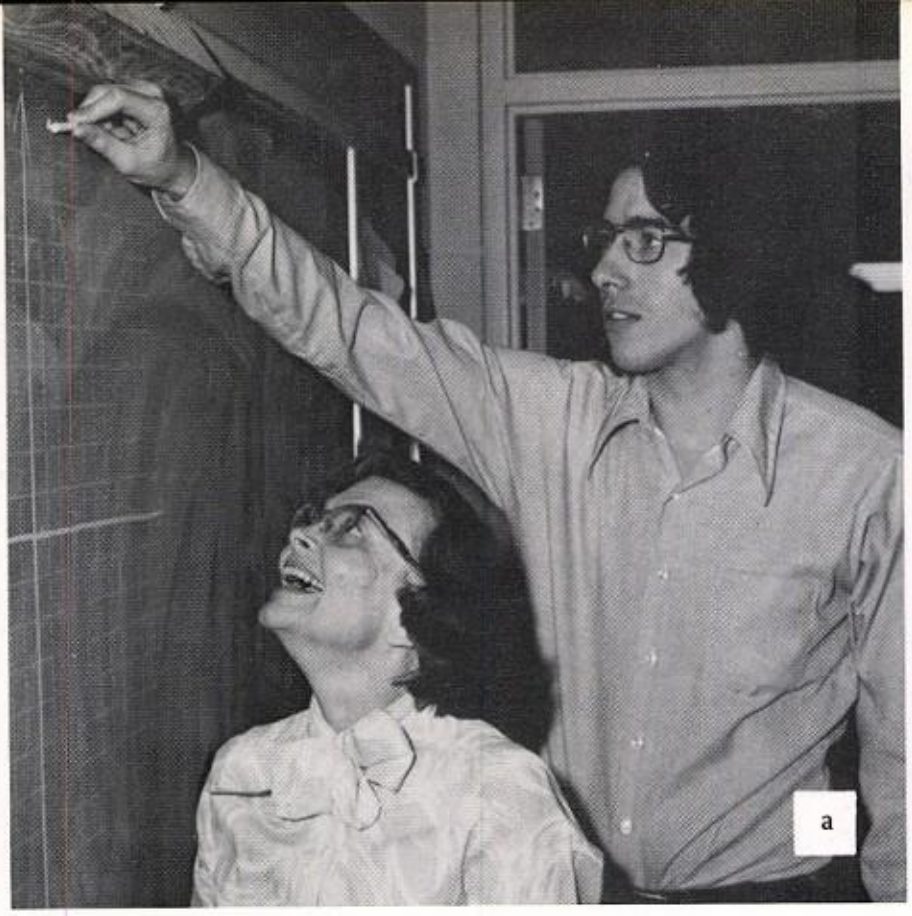


Keep plotting!

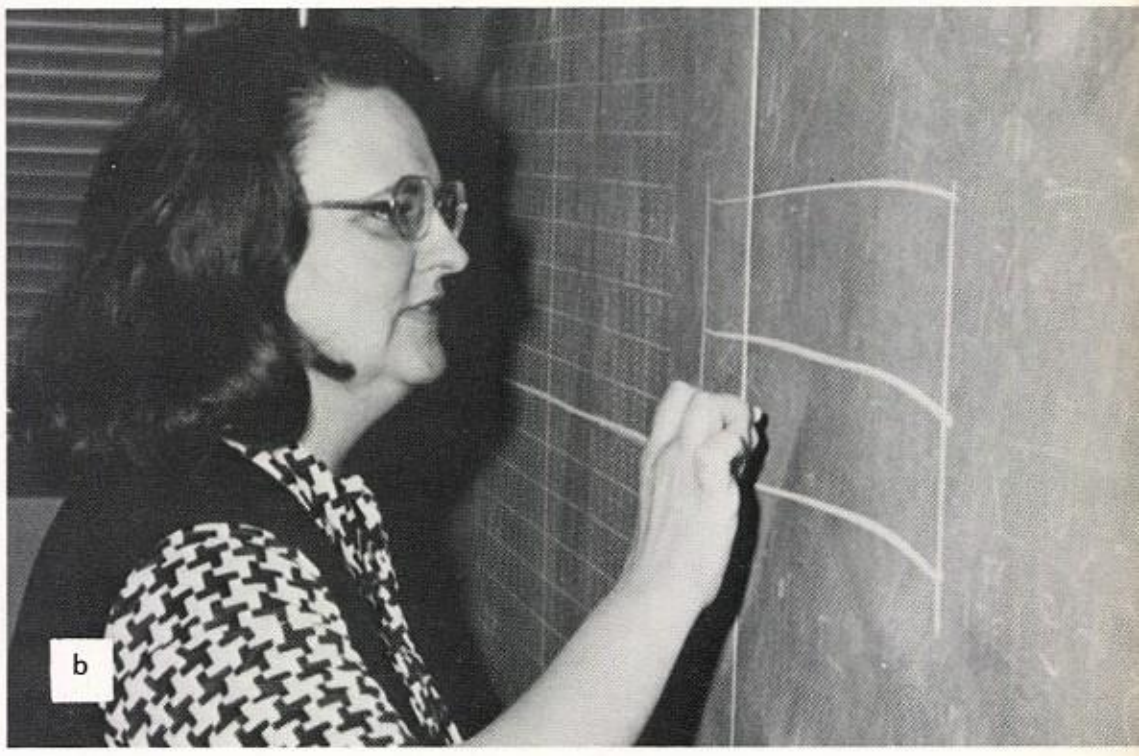
You tell 'em, son!

More students and teachers were involved in this year's math department than ever before. Such courses as Trigonometry, Plane Geometry, Calculus, even Slide Rule and Computer classes helped to characterize the department as being one of the most varied in school.

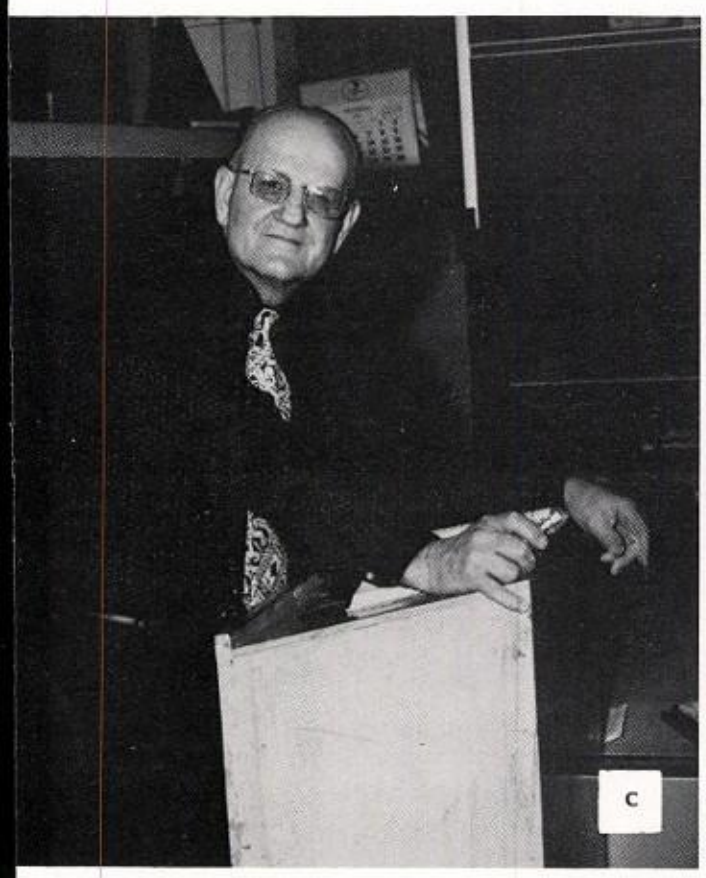
(a) Lois Swanson, Math 1&2, Alg. 1&2.
(b) Cheryl Nelson, Math 1, Alg. 1&2, Alg. 3&4.
(c) Donald Forrest, Math 1, Plane Geometry-E, Slide Rule.
(d) Harold Burchfield, Alg. 1&2, Plane Geometry 1&2, Math Comp.
(e) John Cook, Trigonometry, Alg. 5, Math Comp. 1&2.



High Math!

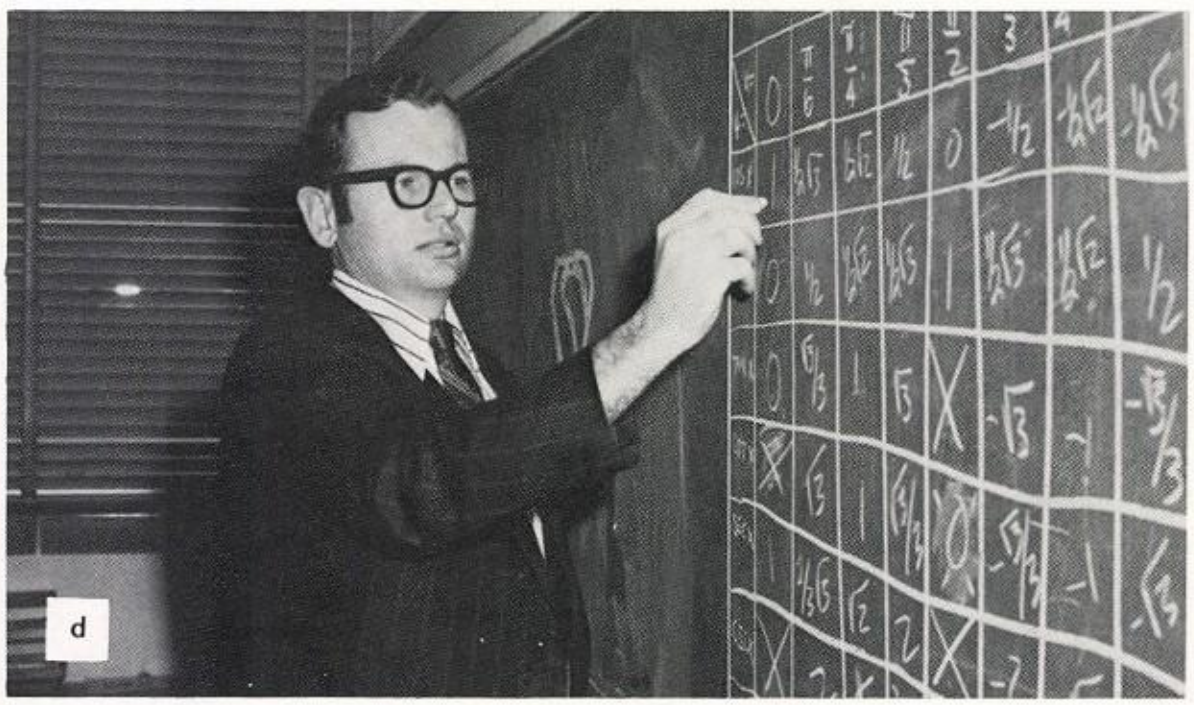


Graphically speaking . . .

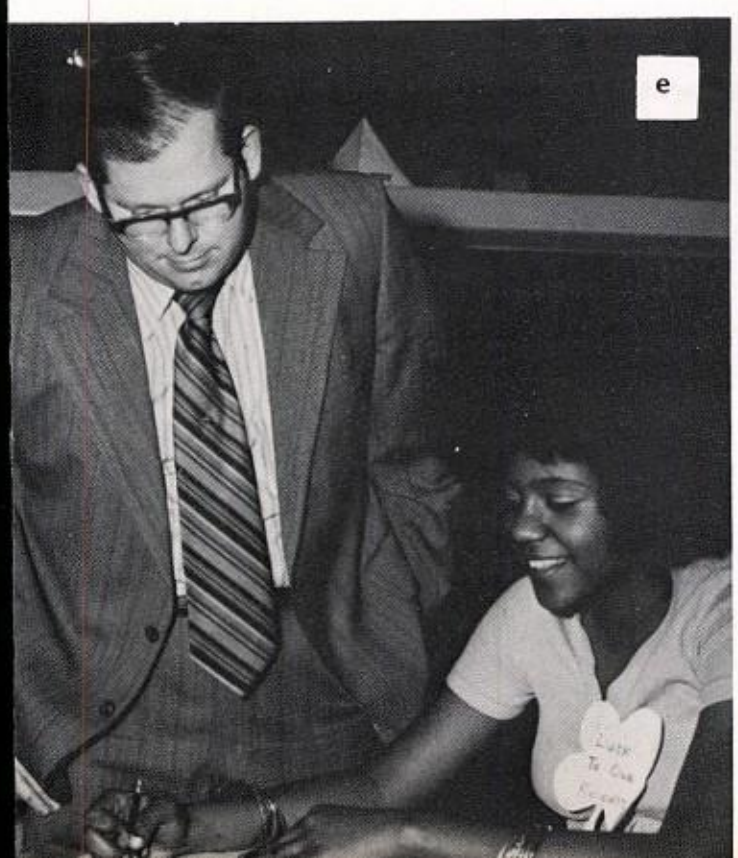


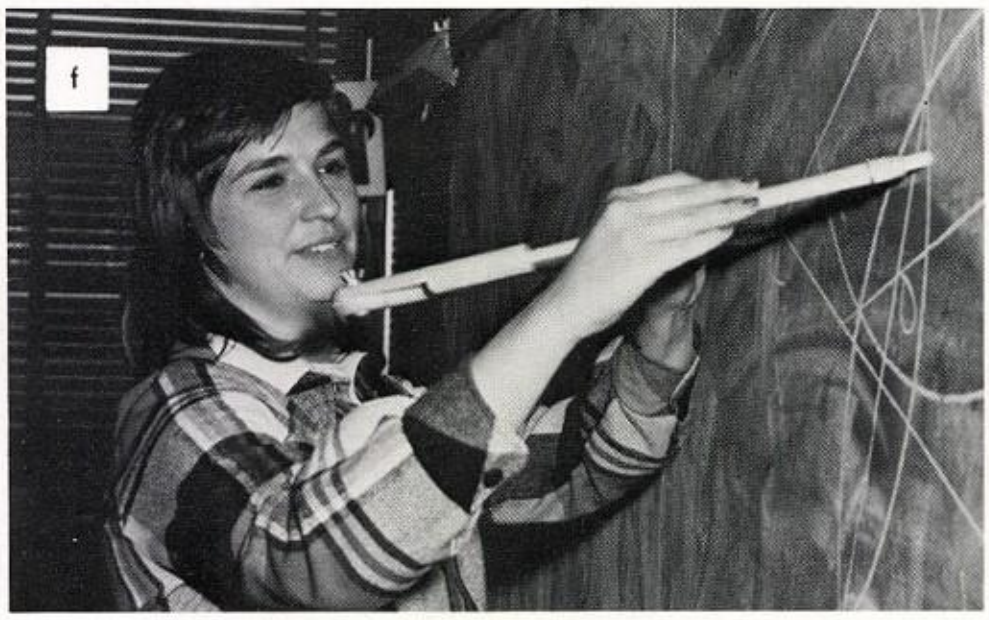
Don't get discouraged.

Just checking . . .



It all figures.





This is the point.

(a) Jean Parthum, Alg. 1&2, Alg. 3&4, Math Comp.
(b) Roberta Sathoff, Math 1&2, Alg. 1&2, Calculus.
(c) George Zimmerman, Math 1&2, Alg. 1&2, Plane Geometry.
(d) Wayne Hammerton, Math 1&2, Alg. 3,4,5 — Trigonometry.
(e) Bob Wicker, Math 1&2, Alg. 1&2, Plane Geometry.
(f) Kathy Knezovitch, Math Comp., Alg. 1&2-E, Plane Geometry.

Physical Ed.

To keep our minds and bodies sound and healthy — this can adequately sum up the purpose of our physical education department. Such courses as Badminton, Handball, Swimming, Square Dancing — all play an intricate part in the school day of a freshman, sophomore, or junior.

Exact is the word.

Mr. Snarr is hammer happy!

Industrial Arts is one of the areas in which the boys of Richwoods have a chance to learn a useful skill. They become involved with such activities as woodcutting, metals, and drafting. Their hard work pays off at the end of each year as they display their creations at the Fine Arts Fair.

The halls of RHS seemed full of new challenges in the years to come.

Was high school up to our expectations? We found ourselves in a conglomeration of kids from seven grade schools. There were new faces everywhere! We found as the year began our leaders emerged and we became involved in school activities. We weren't new anymore, we were a part of RHS; proud to be Lichwoods Frosh.

Being new to Richwoods, we Freshmen were anxious to be as active students as possible. We tried out for everything open to Frosh: Cheerleading, Guard, Royalettes, School plays and every sport imaginable. We kept in mind, though, that if we didn't make it we always had a "next year".

As Frosh we knew we would have to take some hassle from the upperclassmen. It was hard going through a whole year being the youngest; after all we had just come from being the oldest in grade school. It wasn't that bad, though. The upperclassmen helped a lot by giving showing us leadership and goals to work for. There was always that "older kid" we would take pride in talking to. School was just a little more worthwhile with kids to look up to.

It seems that as soon as you enter RHS, you discover everyone's favorite past time — just goofing off. The Freshmen were no exception. They quickly learned this favorable hobby by simply observing the talents and extraordinary behavior of the experienced upperclassmen.

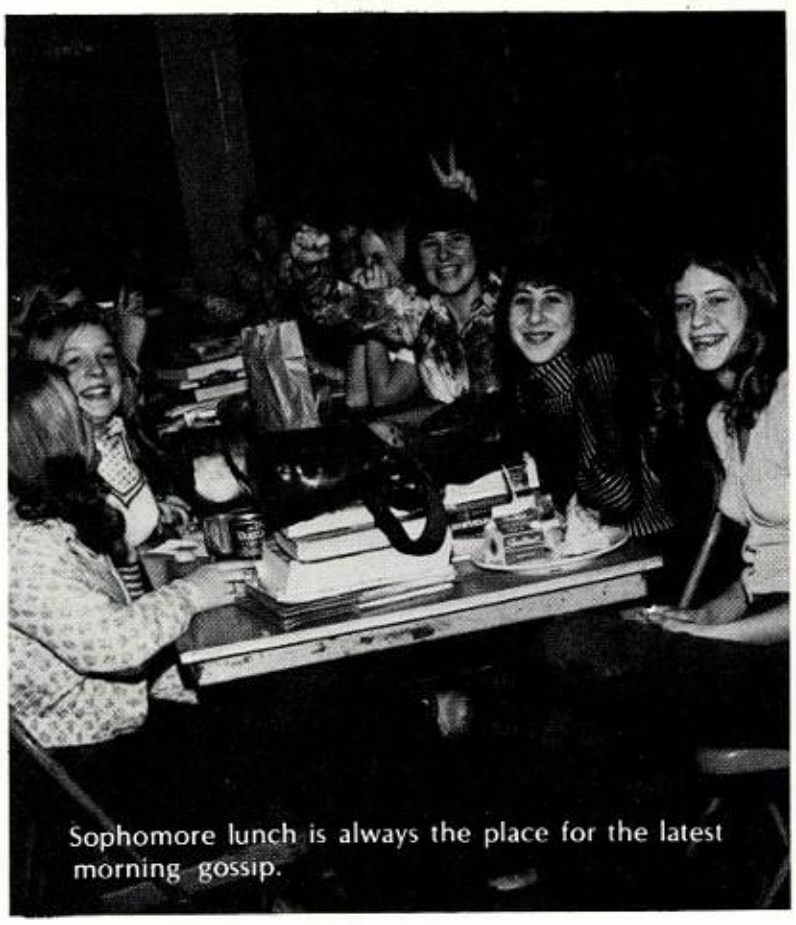
Talking, from a low hum to a thunderous roar, anywhere we go, we're always asked to be quiet. It's a problem faced by any gathering of people. During school it's almost impossible for teachers to keep kids quiet. We are always being asked not to talk . . .



Sophomore lunch is always the place for the latest morning gossip.

Sophomores had a great time! With the pride that goes along with no longer being "just a frosh", they discovered many new challenges. Biology, Driver's Ed, and Class Rings were all a part of their new individuality. In Biology they learned to work together with lab partners, no matter how the experiments turned out!

"Sophomore Class, Hey, Hey!" was a familiar chant characterized by the somewhat spirited Sophomore Class. At pep assemblies the Sophs captured every spirit stick, yet when it came to getting to the games, there were just a few loyal girls to cheer the Knights. The Class of 76 proved that they can yell and can be spirited at pep assemblies. Let's hope next year as Juniors they can do as well at games.

With the great confusion of Freshman year over, Sophs settled down to find true friendships in the mass of familiar faces. Whether it was the big gang or just a few, there always seemed to be friends around. Through all the great times we had, we all came to realize that as people come and go, friendships last as long as the memories they bring back.

Every morning about quarter to eight, through rain, snow or sleet and heat, bus riders made the long journey to the bus stop. Can you remember hearing the yellow bomb depart from your street while you stood in the bathroom brushing your teeth? As commuters to RHS we will always remember the spitwads, snow balls, hazes of smoke in the back and that forever digging for that pass in an over-filled pocket or purse.

A board pass drops and thirty diligent students all perk up to listen to the giggling in the hall. To everyone's delight a monitor brings in a green pass; everyone's fingers cross — all hoping it's for them. Even though we were often "reprimanded" for our doodling or day dreaming, they made the hours go faster.

To start out the football season, many a Junior girl spent time on posters to show their spirit, but the walls soon lost their colorful decor. Juniors found themselves always just "too busy" to support the teams. During basketball a few posters returned but the hint wasn't taken by the other classes. Even though they couldn't arouse much at pep assemblies the Juniors joined the Seniors with the most spirit for our Basketball Knights.

After seemingly hours of agilities, laps, and all of the basics for conditioning, the Junior girls were ready! We had heard how "tough" the Senior girls were, so we were going to be ready. The day of the "massacre" arrived one damp September Sunday. Every Junior was already so sore that we weren't actually ready to head into battle. But as it turned out, we really didn't need to worry. After a few bumps and bruises we won the fight — 14 to 7!

"I'm bored." How many times everyday do we say it? Do you stare down the clock waiting for the life-saving bell that will take you to your next class so you can go back to being bored? We all have our ways of staying awake: coloring books, polishing our nails, reading comics behind our English book. They're all little ways that break the monotony and help us keep our sanity.

PIZZA! is one of the most well known and loved words heard after any game. If you could actually sum up the amount of JUNK kids eat, including: Hamburgers, donuts, candy, french fries, and COKE consumed (or rather inhaled) it could tie the national debt! Eating has got to be the favorite pastime of everyone at RHS.

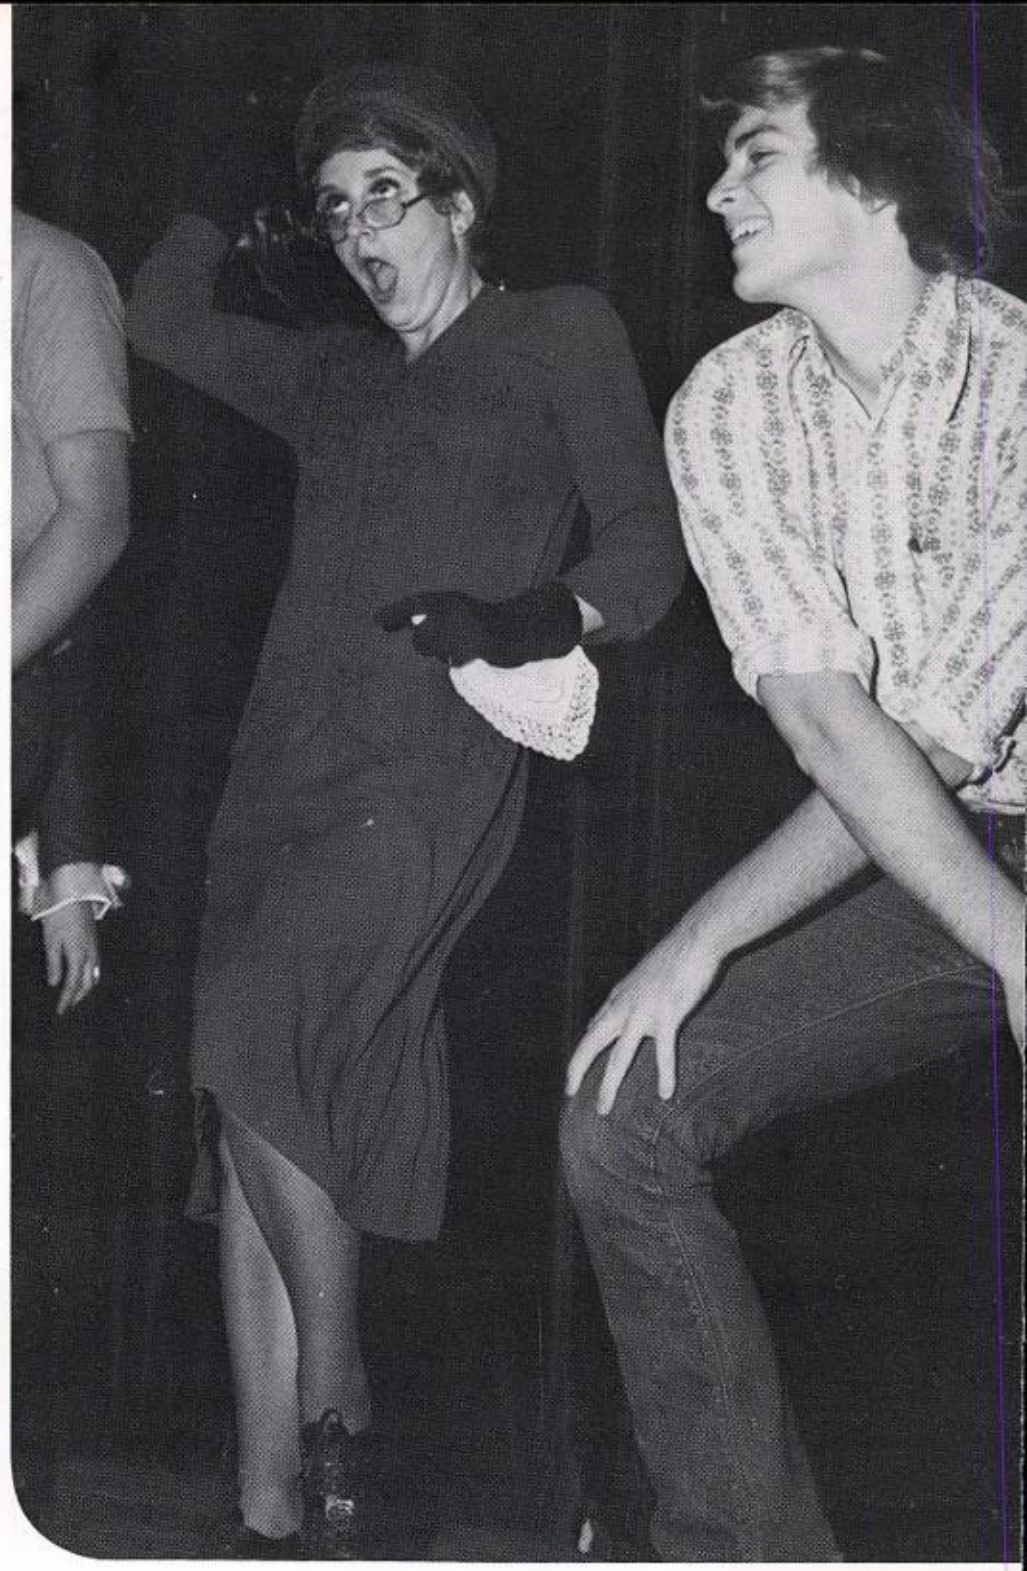
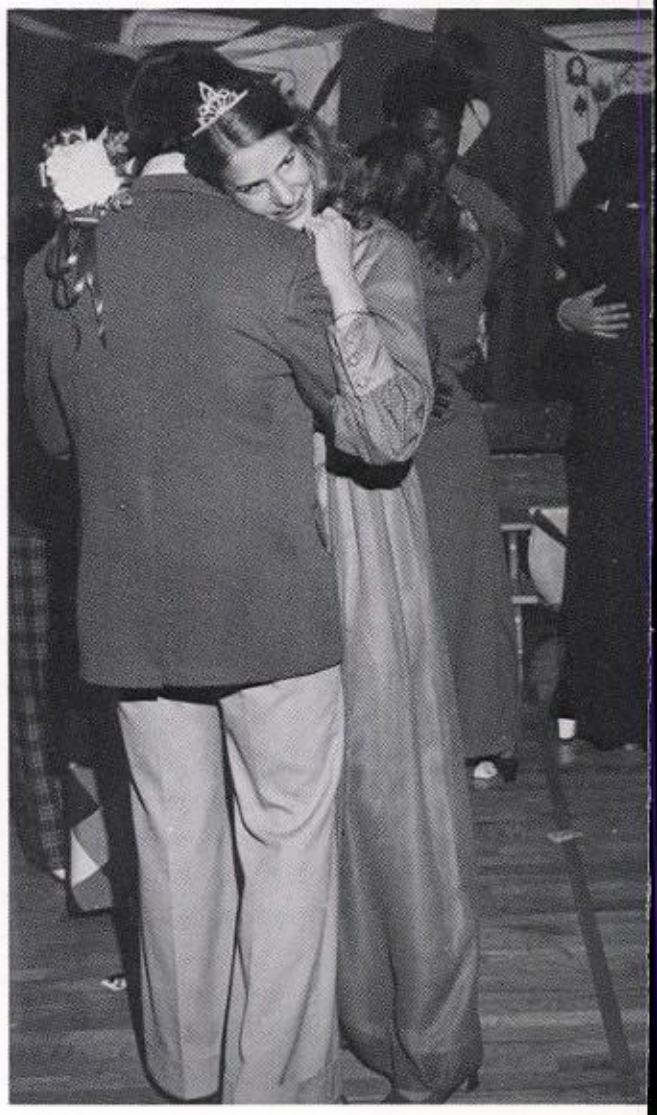
"Let the good times roll!!"

"To live is the rarest thing in the world. Most people exist, that is all."

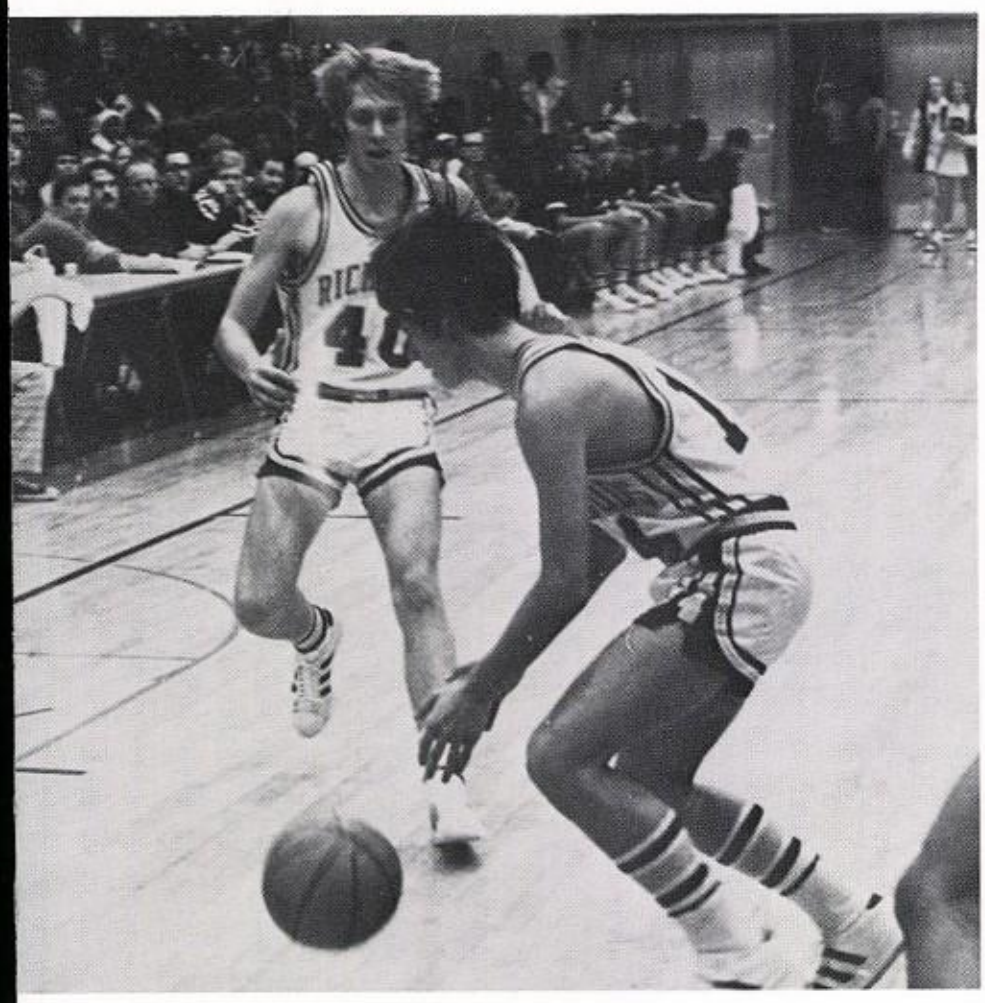


Homecoming kicked off the best year of them all.



A song is the simplest way to stretch time into the poem of your life.

These last nine months became a living reality as senior year. We came as children, yet we will leave as adults. Fun and games are ever and we must prepare ourselves to assume the responsibilities which lie ahead. It was a year of triumph and defeat, joy and sorrow, and much unity within our class. Many of us took for granted a special event, failing to realize it would be a "last" for us. For, we're on the loose — each of us emerge and follow our own chosen path with the direction of tomorrow — just one step ahead.



Our Super Knights do some pretty fancy footwork out on the court!

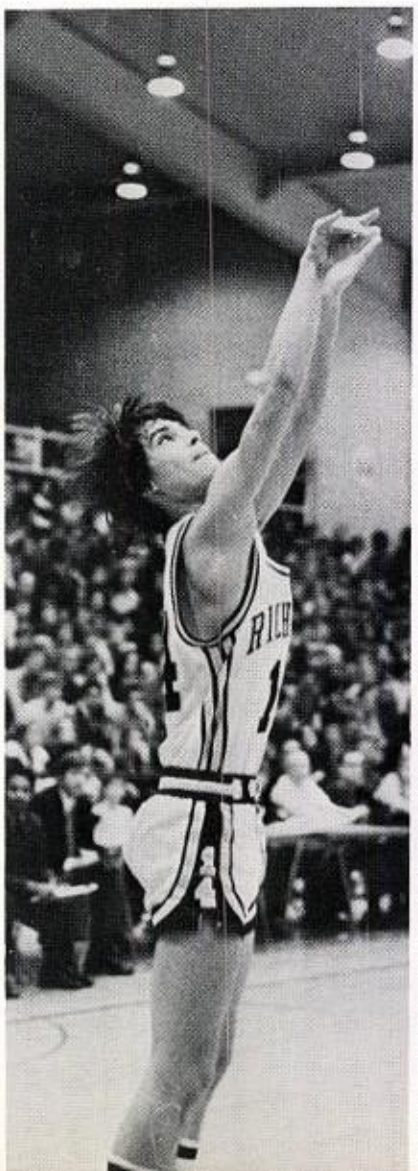
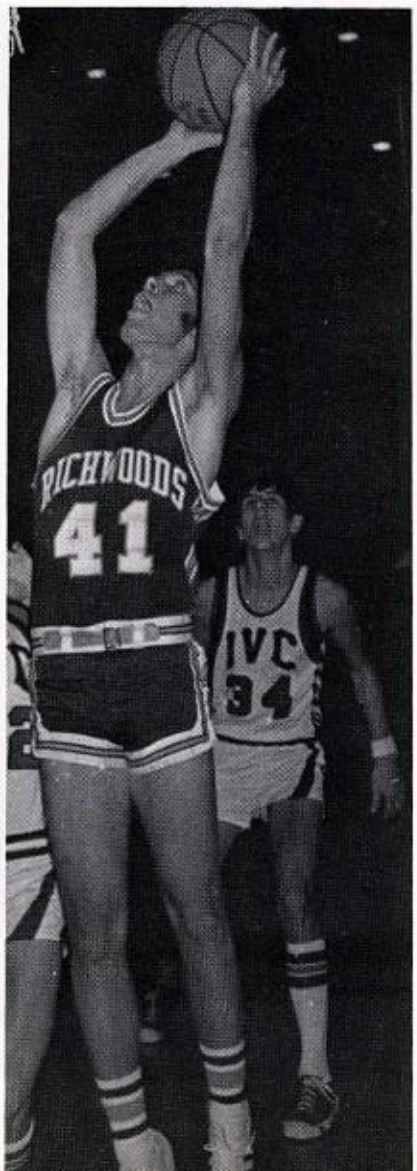
"If someone asked me what one of the best times of our Senior year was, I would have to say the basketball season. For my friends and I, it was a time of fun but also a time of overflowing emotions. Having such a great team our Senior year gave us alot to remember.





I'll never forget those late nites at school making signs, riding to Galesburg in decorated cars, the "Bleacher Bums", putting signs up across the team's garages, and even the Seniors winning the Spirit Stick! All because of our team!!"

"When I do leave here, I know I will miss it even though at times I have said some pretty bad things about this school. When mid-term graduation came, alot of good friends left which made me realize that I have lived some of the best years of my life in this school which I always seem to be putting down. I have made alot of friends, whom I will miss. All I can say to the kids who will still be going to Richwoods is, 'ENJOY'."

judy and i have really worked hard this year trying to give you an accurate account of your year at rhs and putting you into this book. as the end is rapidly approaching ("can ya believe it, judy?") we decided to take an opportunity to put in a little of ourselves.

aside from editing the book this past year, i have really been able to see and feel the year as a reality — almost every phase of it. yep, from as early as 6:30 a.m. — sweating it out at royalette practice — 'til the deep, dark hours — 11:00 p.m. — busy making posters and signs for the sectional basketball tournament. (not to forget all those late night practices for the bleacher bums!) speaking of rehearsals, it was always back at 7:00 p.m. sharp for the spring play. sometimes i never did make it home before the night began — there was always something after school — even if it meant trouble — it was always there! i spent more hours this past year in this school than i did at my own home. mom and dad had plenty of pictures, though, so they wouldn't forget what i looked like! yes, it was some year — the best. school was really fun for me — even if it meant going stir crazy — my friends were there to go stir crazy with me!! teachers — i have been so lucky to have had such great ones. one in particular really helped me out a lot this year. "a heartfelt thanks goes to you." sometimes it was hard to think of teachers as "teachers" — i mean, some of them were just like my own friends. friends — the best memories of them all. where can i begin? always a smile there to greet me in the morning — always a helping hand (and i mean that literally) to help me carry around all my boxes — always someone there to listen to me complain (which i've developed a real flair for!) — and lastly, always there to "let the good times roll!" those were the days!

then graduation. all my tears — of sadness, yes — but also of joy for having been able to have lived it all — every last minute. and where do we go from here? well . . . we're on the loose . . . and each of us will emerge from our own chosen path . . . with the direction of tomorrow . . . just one step ahead . . .

We're On the Loose?

when wednesday, May 29 rolled around, no one could believe what was happening. we'd been through four whole years of high school — it just didn't seem like we were finally getting out. most kids were tense — worried on the outside about keeping their mortar boards straight, or how they were going to survive those hour-long graduation speeches in such hot robes. but the speeches and other traditional activities seemed to fly — diplomas were passed out, and before we knew it, we were richwood's graduates. we had just passed through the first phase of our adult lives. yes, we were now out in the world. it really scared me. on the outside i kept saying, "it's great to be out," but i think i only said that because it seemed as if that was the thing to say at that time. was i really sure of myself in going on to a higher form of education? all my friends . . . could i survive without these few persons on whom i had been dependent for four years? my parents, who had helped me and tried to guide me through these four years of trials and tribulations . . . could i get along in the world without their friendly words of wisdom? these questions ran rampant through my thoughts, as they did to most everyone in my situation. that old worry, "where do i go from here?" rang out in the minds of many. there were just so many paths to choose, so many places to go, and too little time to decide what was up in the world, and what was down. it was a time of soul-searching, of self-realization (my rhs psychology training showing through!), of analysis of needs against wants. for many, a decision of a life's work came at this time; it hardly seemed fair that such an important decision had to come when we were just 17 and 18 years old. and what if we chose the wrong path? was there any way out?

richwoods did offer us a quality education, a kind that only a small number of people in this world have to fall back upon. whether or not it springs from our training here, or it's just inherent in our characters, we were still on the loose after high school was finished . . . even more so than before. now we were on the loose in the world, not just in the school. we were on the loose in life and not just at richwoods. school did seem hard to bear at times, too many rules to bind us, but were we really ready to make our own rules . . . to set our own paces? i think i am.

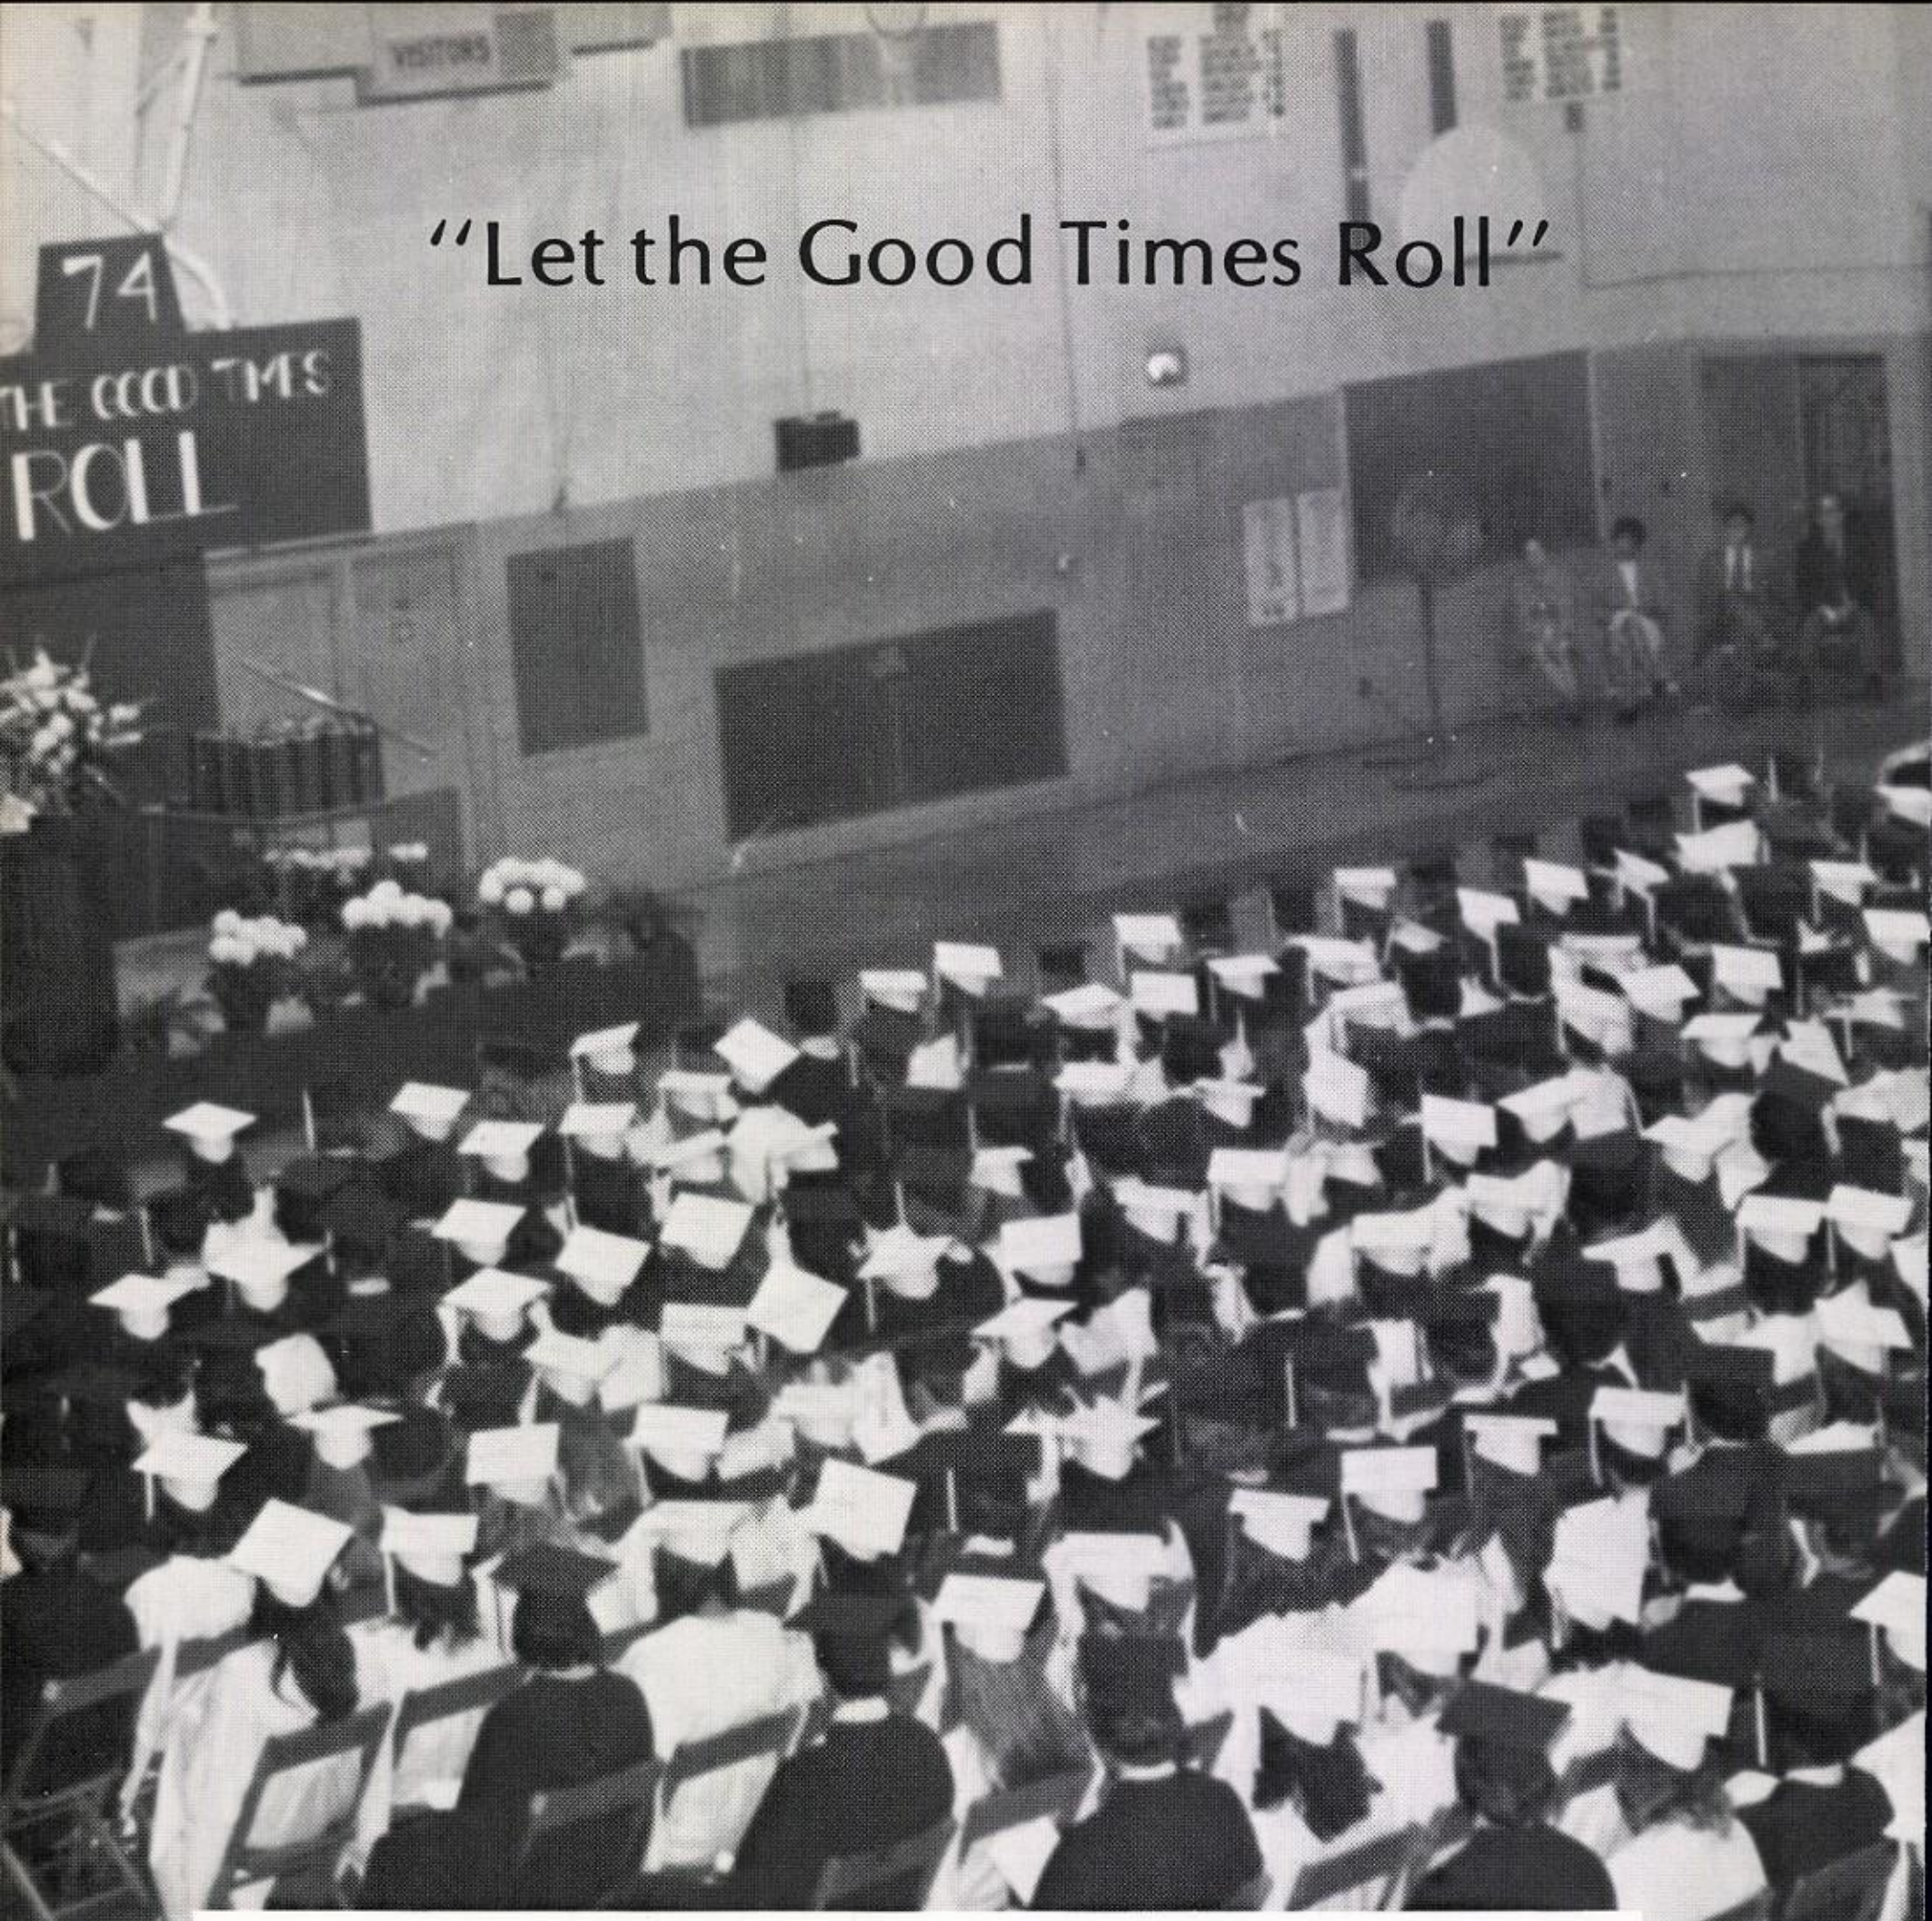
"Let the Good Times Roll"



It's over now. The class of '74 has graduated. Everyone is making their own major plans now, most for the first time in their lives.

It's a time for evaluation of what each individual wants to do and reflection on what we've done and especially how we've grown. Physically, of course, but more important is the mental and emotional growth we have received in our four years of high school.

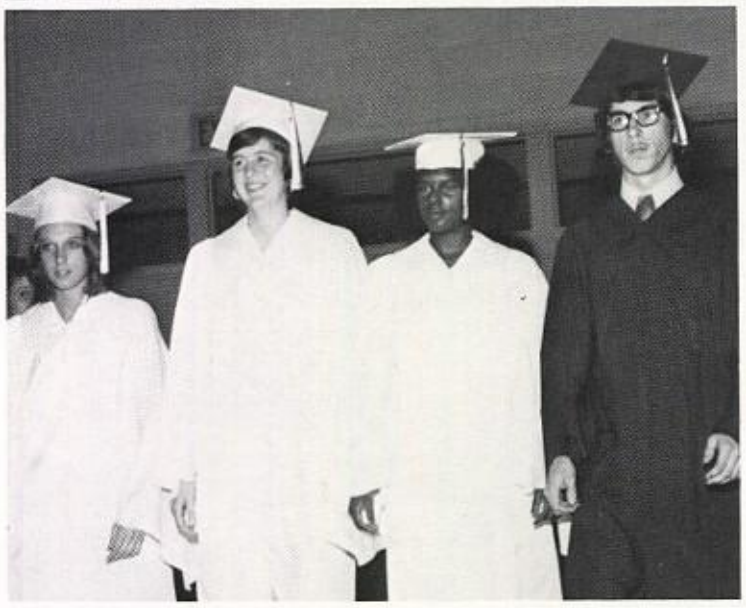
We are all young adults, not high school children, ready to meet the challenge and competition of our society.

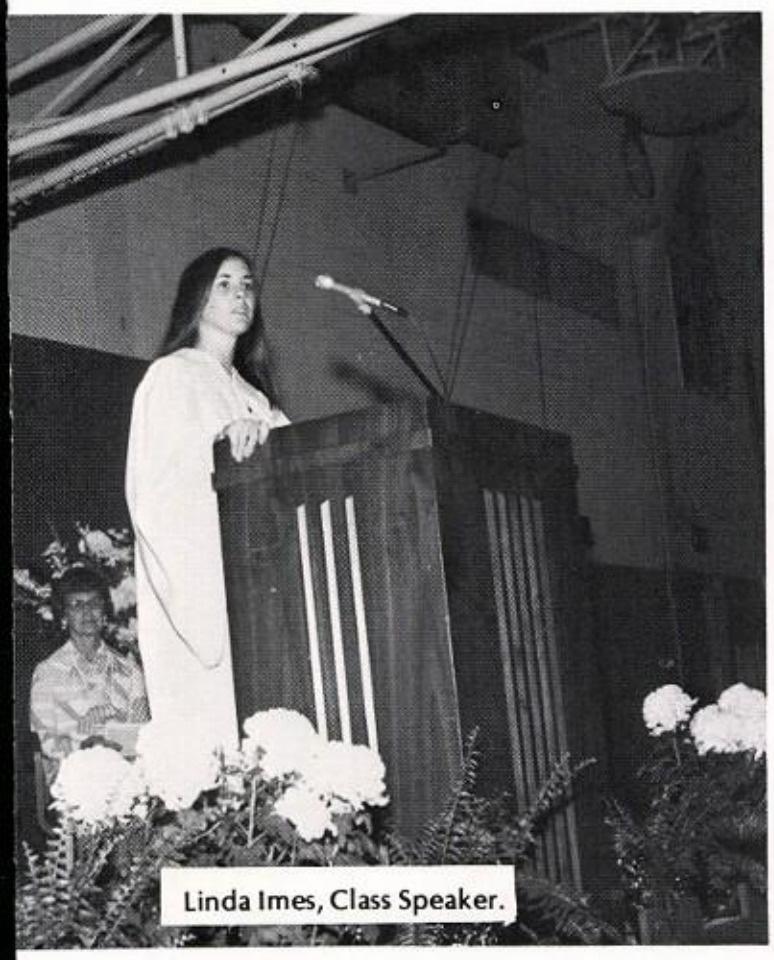
And we can attribute a good deal of this growth to our four long years at Richwoods.

Or were they so long?

Mark Howard

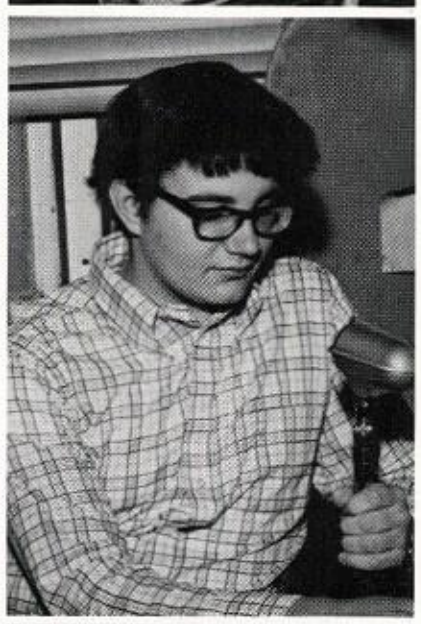
Mark Howard, Class Speaker.

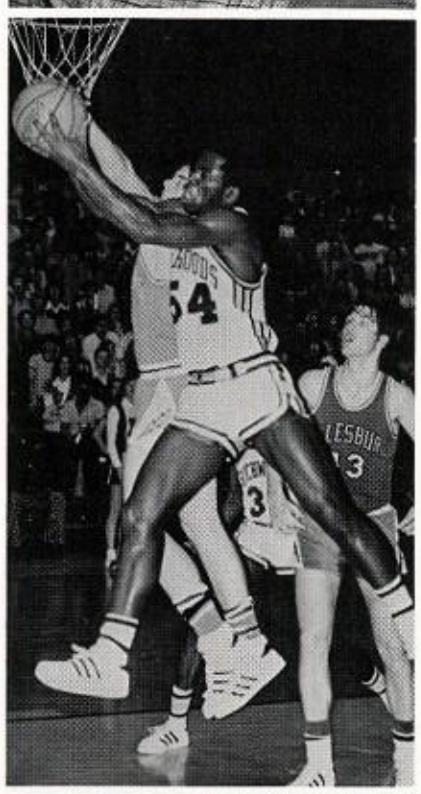




Linda Imes, Class Speaker.

Don Cheney presents the class gift.





It happened slowly. It happened gradually. I never really noticed it until the change was almost complete. It started when I entered high school. Somewhere along the maze that followed, I lost laughter. Perhaps, depending upon future events, I will recapture this elusive song of joy. I hope so. How did I let it slip away? Who stole it from my grasp? You did: the students of Richwoods.

Upon entering, I had a notion of what was cool to do: follow the crowd. Soon, however, the crowd didn't look so cool anymore. It appeared to be a mindless amoeba searching blindly in every direction for something to feed upon. I met people who preached, "Love Jesus", but never turned the other cheek. Students who claimed they hated the Vietnam War, yet started their own war every Friday night at the game. People who loved just everyone, as long as they were the same color. Beautiful people who didn't treat others so beautifully. People who always had to be on a stage, with everyone watching them, never knowing or caring that other humans existed. I heard complaints about the many school rules and the energy crisis from the people who caused their existence. No one cared about anyone or anything except doing what was "in". To feel deeply about anything serious was regarded as strange and undesirable.

Everyone admired the fighter, the rule breaker, the jock, the people who were really fun when stoned or drunk, the constant cutting wit. Everyone had to put up a false image, like a chameleon changing color to blend into his surroundings. People depended on drugs, cars, rebellion, and ridicule to be somebody. This didn't add to their ego. It was their ego, their personality, their whole life.

I wanted more than this. The people who got attention through loud mouths, loud cars, and loud actions were no longer admirable. I desired and loved to learn. For this I was a redneck, a square. I thought that sex wasn't the only thing to do on a date. So I was queer. I didn't want to get drunk or stoned. That meant I wasn't a swinger; I wasn't with it. I was grieved to see the earth stripped and poisoned. But that notion was sentimental, unrealistic and impractical. All that I regarded as right or precious was either ignored or despised. I reached out for love, but everyone was too busy to care. Walpole once said, "... this world is a comedy to those that think, a tragedy to those that feel ..." No matter whether I thought or whether I felt: the picture never got better.

"Quite Satisfied"

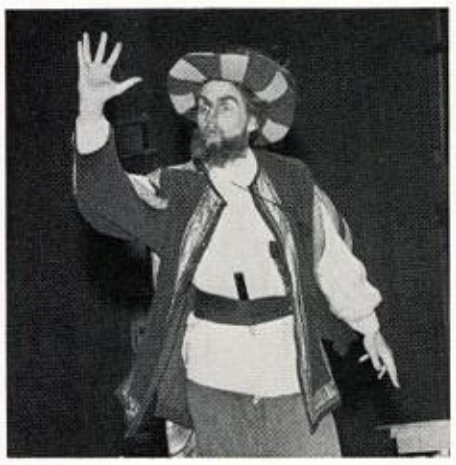
Eric immortalizes his name on the Publications Office's table . . . a true "Pub Rat."



A personal reaction essay, you say? Hmm, let me think a bit. Come to think of it, that's all high school was, a reaction, remember freshman year? I'm not sure I do but I'll try.

There we were, babes in the woods, as far as high school was concerned. We had no previous action in high school, so those first few events produced quite a REaction in us. I remember that first day as if it were yesterday . . . or tomorrow . . . I uncertainly toddled up to those doors, about to enter RHS. I can remember nothing much but wiping the palms of my hands on my jeans and standing in line. I felt better once my ordeal of standing in line was over so I could take my schedule and compare it to the hundreds of others floating around. Imagine my relief when I found a few people that I knew in each of my classes! Cowed by fright at Richwood's immensity in the beginning, I eventually became involved in one or two activities. Freshman year was a re-grouping time; a time to reorganize and find yourself. You had to decide what you were looking for and whether or not it was worth attaining.

Still not acquainted with RHS, sophomore year seemed to offer all sorts of excitement and glamour. There were varied and interesting experiences over the horizon; the mass anticipation of larger and better times provided the sophomore class with a case of euphoria.

My junior year I remember as the beginning of the self-realization that I was a budding adult. I first began to realize that Richwoods had changed me, and as a result, I began to feel much more of an individual; the stereotype of youthful idealism, based on smatterings of contact from the adult world began to be expressed. An added sense of long-term elation ran through me as I realized that next year was senior year.

When senior year began to fail to live up to my expectations, it became something to be endured rather than lived. There arose an economical sense that told you not to "waste" this year, and so you attended all the large social events and found them to be even larger disappointments. All the while the desire to graduate grew larger and larger, until it dictated all of your thoughts and conversation.

Four years. Not too much when compared with the eighty-five or so you hope to spend on this earth. But these four years have shaped you as a functioning member of our society. During these four years we have developed our tastes, ideals, likes and dislikes which we will, most likely, carry to our graves. We have revolved around Richwoods High for four years and now the orbit is deteriorating, and we are ready to seek individual paths of our own (if you will please excuse the rather mundane analogy).

Richwoods has taken alot of criticism, and justly so. The fact that we can look back on our stays here and point out our bad and good points is only a tribute to the type of education we have had here. To me, Richwoods has been a mixture, a chemical formula. Everyone's basic personality, combined with the experiences this school has offered, produces a definite reaction. No matter what the end-product is, we have all shared Richwoods as a common element. No matter what others may say, I can honestly declare that I am quite satisfied. — Eric Berger

It has been estimated that only twelve percent of the knowledge one gains in high school is used to any significant extent in later life. Why then does our society place its youth in a four year educational system like high school? Can it be that we are wasting our time running from class to class, term paper to lunch line, school bus to P.E., homeroom to assembly? Just what does make high school the "educational experience" it's supposed to be?

Education comes only to those who want to be educated. It comes from observing the day to day environment of Richwoods with no part being an exception. The classroom can produce profound thoughts and stimulating discussions but to some it only gives off vibrations of boredom and an atmosphere producing sleep. The classroom situation in reality does very little to provide a true "education". The things that educate are usually taken for granted as we run around seven hours a day. The ideas behind corridor passes, locked restrooms, security guards, and other such measures shed education into areas that the classroom could never touch. Surveillances, searchings, arrests and other such hassles stemming from a supposed "drug menace" get their educational message across very well. They teach us about society, about people and power and justice, about the very things life is based on. In fifty years I may not remember that $A^2+B^2=C^2$ or that Shakespeare performed in the Globe Theatre in 1606, but I will never forget the demerits, the game called Student Council, the little orange and green passes, the people with guns and badges walking down the halls, the invaded parties . . . they have taught me well.

Brian Read

"Sometimes I Sits And Thinks . . .

Morning announcements, seven classes with crowded halls between
These seem so normal today,
But tomorrow they will be squeezed
And broken with other memories.
Special times in particular will come to mind
At first — like games, dances, and the kind
But today is what we make it
Today is ours to keep.
Freshmen never realize Sophomores pass it by
Juniors begin to open their eyes
But Seniors know it's leaving
And try to grasp a memory of their own.
Richwoods is a part of our lives
And we a part of hers
The class of '74 had great times
And knows — today is what we make it
Today is ours to keep.

Carol Haupt

Scrawling on tables
Smudges on walls
Maintenance men
Are sweeping the halls.
Acid in chem lab
And dissecting cats
Basketball hoops
And wrestling mats.
Teachers who argue
And never agree
Waiting for counselors
You never do see.
Schedule changes
That never come through
Meeting the deadlines
For term papers due.
Study halls grounded
Where silence persists
Teachers deciphering
Absentee lists.
Optional finals
And mini-course classes
Ripping off restroom
And corridor passes.
Experience is something
You never regret
But Richwoods is one place
I'll never forget.

Shelly Schnupp

Graduation is the end of my "younger" days and the beginning of a new life. After I graduate I will have to make my own decisions. I can no longer depend on my parents to help me. I must do things for myself.

These past four years have been fun. I have seen three other classes graduate before me. I have seen glory and sorrow; winning and losing.

I have a lot of memories from these past four years. I can remember stacking lockers, pep assemblies, assemblies, football games, basketball games, parties and many other things.

I have learned a lot during these past four years. Some of them good and some of them bad. If I had to go back and re-do these years, I wouldn't change them in any way. They have been great years and I enjoyed them greatly.

Nancee Owen

I don't think I've ever seen so many depressed, discontented, and insecure people as in my senior year. Personally I think that this is great. I think we're finally taking a more honest look at ourselves and the things around us, which of course is bound to get us down. But it's when you're honest and search for truth that you're really getting somewhere. So at the rate we're going, we must be going a long way!

EXCALIBUR is our memory book . . .

. . . and ads are responsible for the financial end of creating a memory book. All it takes is an industrious advertising editor, eager patrons, and alot of time and patience, and before one knows it, the backbone of a yearbook is established. This involves selling pages, or portions of pages, to local businessmen at set rates. An accumulation of a certain number of pages leads to an adequate amount of funding towards the publication of the EXCALIBUR.

WE NEED YOU TO HELP IN THE ENERGY CRISIS

The energy problems we are facing today are complex and deep-seated. They aren't going to be solved quickly or easily. But all of us, working together, can do a great deal to lessen the impact of our nation's energy shortages.

The most important effort right now is to begin managing the use of available energy more wisely than we have ever done before.

Walk instead of ride . . . Turn out unnecessary lights. Do everything possible to conserve. There are hundreds of ways you can help. Why not start today!

Today's triumph... Tomorrow's challenge!

Life insurance protection from Aid Association for Lutherans is one way to prepare for tomorrow's demands. Buying now establishes a low lifetime rate for needed protection and helps you build cash reserves at the same time. Let your AAL man, who shares his association's common concern for human worth, help you prepare for tomorrow's challenge.

It all started with one fun-packed week in Iowa City, and before we knew it, we were trapped! In it for good — no way out! We had become immediate experts in the field of yearbooking, with the help in intense study and long late-night (and early-morning!) diligence on the projects which were given to us at this workshop at the University of Iowa. We brought back to Richwoods all of our newly-found knowledge and tried our hardest to impress this upon certain hard-workers on our staff, to motivate this collection of people to aid us in creating a book that was totally new — refreshingly different than any Excalibur that has ever left the presses. We wanted a book that honestly revealed the 1973-74 school year. Although we suffered many set-backs in the processing of this yearbook — invisible editors, communications gaps, over-creativity and lack of enthusiasm — we both feel that in the end, our good features far outweighed the bad. As we look over this book we see much of ourselves in its uniqueness — much of our "pioneer" spirit to make it "new." We think this Excalibur portrays all those involved with this school during the 1973-74 year as they were most naturally — we have tried to capture them on the loose, for we feel that this small phrase totally describes the events of the past year.

So — we've finally come to "our" page . . . it's hardly conceivable! But it's here, and following in the tradition of those before us, we'd like to leave you a few words of wisdom. This yearbook is our gift to YOU; it took four years of life at RHS to motivate our creation of this book. We have gained much academic knowledge from our years here, as well as friendships and even a few dreams-come-true, but we are grateful for this opportunity we have had to capture life in this school and to present it to you in the form of the 1973-74 Excalibur. As for now . . . WE'RE ON THE LOOSE!

for being so helpful and understanding in times of need.

And finally to Joe Gardner, American Yearbook Company representative. You were always there with a smile and a pleasant thought when we were unsure of ourselves. You really make things happen!

Terry- Well what can I say? Sophmore year is over and it was really great. I had some of my best times this past year and lots of them were spent with you! When I think back I can't belive I didn't even know you last year at this time because I know you so well now- some times I think I know you to well- and it scares me- kidding ☺!!! I'll never forget some of the stupid things we've said and done with euchother- Sophmore year was so neat and I just hope junior year will be even better. I'll never the things we went through in study hall - the first time us girls sat at your table - wow was I embarressed - I don't know why. This summer was the best I've ever had, it kind of got off to a slow start but it finally picked up. It was the greatest time and it was mostly because of you. Terr - I've spent so much time with you and we've shared so many different things - You've really help me alot and I've learn lots from you. You've helped me to grow up in a way and to look at things differently. I want to thank - you for everything you've done for me - I really love you alot!! Your really a neat person Terr - you're so cute!! Your really going to make it big this year - just don't ever let anything go to your head & get really conceited. You've always had the hard guy appeal - just don't over do it - your too cool for that. We've been together on and off for along time but you think about it - we've hardly ever been alone. It's really funny - Your so fun-ny!! I do know though the times we've been together - alone or not - those were my best times. Terry - I don't what you've done to me but this is the first time I've ever felt like I do for a person - you've really changed me in a lot of different ways. I'll never forget some of the Phone calls that seemed to last all night - or some of the times like July 4 - WOW! or the stupid little notes!!! I can't believe all the different things now that I sit and think of them. For the past 6 months or so you've been about the main thing or only thing on my mind. It's really strange, Terr no matter what happens I always seem to think of you as the only person I'm ever interested in. Maybe you are - I've never felt this way before. Thanks alot for everything Terr - I really love You!! ☺

Love you always Dori

Terr - let's forget about the times we've been Pugs - although the name seems
to fit us both!
Someday you'll have to explain to me
what a 'Pinch' is?!?

Keep Smiling ☺

Your such a Pug!!
Good luck Jr. year
and I hope things
workout right.
I hope we get through History!! Maybe Jr. year will be as good - or even better than sophomore year!!

Terri
you know how much
I love you. I'm just shy. you have a great body. I write me some time
Love
Susie

Terry,
I really hate you!
I think you are the
most conceited person
I've ever met. You are such a squirrel. You're body reminds me of a sliced dill pickle. Someday
when your head stops swelling maybe you can talk to me once in a while if its not too much of an effort.

Hate you much,
Nancy
